WOMEN AS POLITICIANS.

Colorado Congressman Resigned because He Owed His Election to Ballot Box Stuffing by Women.
Before giving ballots to women in our own state—or before imposing the duty of voting upon them, as others would put it—it's wise to see how other states have fared which have woman suffrage?
Wyoming has had woman suffrage for thirty-five years. Its area is 97,800 square miles, and its people are scattered thirly over that area. The principal sources of wealth are mining and ranching. The ranchmen naturally live far from their neighbors, and the mining camps have few women. Most of the women in the state are naturally in the towns.
Cheyenne, the capital of Wyoming, has a population of less than 15,000. In Cheyenne there are twenty-five licensed gambling houses, and saloons are as numerous as any other kind of stores, and it has been officially stated that not a single act of legislation aimed at the betterment of the human race has been passed in Wyoming through woman's influence.
General Thompson, who managed the Democratic campaign in Wyoming in 1892, said, "The woman's vote is the safest thing in the world to get and the easiest thing to keep and the Earliest Thing to Manipulate of any element in politics." After six months' residence in Wyoming divorce may be obtained for eleven reasons!

Can any one claim that Wyoming has been bettered by woman's vote?
Has Utah's woman's vote kept that state from electing men to represent it in Washington whom the good women of the country have asked the government to reject?
Massachusetts gives women the right to vote for school committees. This was demanded and granted on the plea that woman had an especial interest in the education of her children.
The school committee campaigns are frequently contested as hotly as those for governor or mayor.
Their best record for voting in Boston, the capital of the state, was made in 1898, when 20,252 registered. The reason was because a religious issue had been raised—mostly by women; men try to avoid such issues—and both Protestant and Roman Catholic organizations were formed to get out the women to vote. The worth of candidates was lost sight of.
Next year there was no religious issue, and in 1899 the women who registered were only 3,000, of whom 1,000 did not vote. The number varies from year to year, but is so small that little attention is paid to it.
But there is one state Where Women Have Done Something, and that is Colorado. Two years ago Mr. Shafroth of Denver resigned his seat in congress, stating that he was

J. W. MESSINGER & SON.

PIONEER-BRICK, MORO, OREGON.

convinced that he had no right to it, that he had been fraudulently elected and that women were among the perpetrators of the fraud.
According to their own testimony, the women of Denver took an extremely active part in his election. In several Denver districts they helped to swell his vote to such extraordinary proportions that it amounted to 90 per cent of the total vote, and in some instances his majority exceeded the entire registered vote.
They stole official ballots and prepared them in advance. They padded the polling lists and stuffed the ballot boxes. They bought votes and set gangs of repeaters.
Lady Repeaters.
In motion. Finally they arranged disturbances at the polls to frighten timid voters away and give opportunity to stuff the ballot boxes and "monkey" with the count.
These things they not only plotted, but they did, and when Mr. Shafroth was put in possession of the facts he refused to retain a seat in congress procured in that way.
As a sample of the purification of the ballot at the hands of woman read the testimony of Mrs. Beatrice Muhlman, formerly a clerk in the legislature. She says that she, Miss Alma Beavick and a man named Granger procured (evidently a polite word for stole) 125 official ballots of precinct 1 of District F.
They took these ballots to a hotel room, pulled down the shades, closed the blinds and locked the door.
Then Miss Beavick took two of these ballots and marked them to indicate straight Republican votes and one for each of the minor parties. Having thus shown her impartiality, she made Democratic votes of all the rest. The ballots were then numbered to correspond with numbers on the poll list and so made ready to be Dumped into the Ballot Boxes.
Miss Beavick receives the credit of the plan to create a disturbance at the polls so that these ballots could be put into the boxes.
It is only in Colorado that the women's vote has been much of a factor in any contest. Before passing a woman suffrage law in Oregon it is worth while to think of how the experiment worked in Colorado.
