FARM GARDEN

EASTERN IRRIGATION.

Economical and Successful Methods in North Atlantic States.

According to the popular conception, the field for irrigation in the west and does not extend to the humid east, where the supply of moisture is considered sufficient for the growth of crops. The distribution of rainfall, however, is so unequal that crops throughout the east often suffer from droughts. With- out irrigation certain crops, such as strawberries, celery and cauliflower, may be entirely lost. Economical and successful methods of irrigation adapted to humid conditions are, however, quite extensively used. August J.

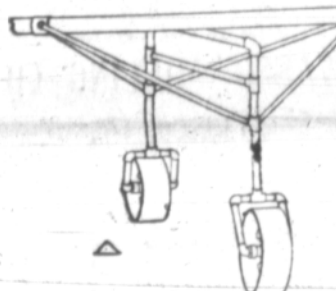

SLIDING GATE IN PLACE.

Dowie, Jr., an expert in the irrigation and drainage investigations of the department of agriculture, has noted some interesting points of practice in a recent report on irrigation in the north Atlantic states.

The advantages to be gained from irrigation are limited to certain crops. Such field crops as timothy, clover, wheat, rye, oats and corn are not particularly affected by droughts of short duration. The value of such crops in eastern Pennsylvania will usually lie between $15 and $30 per acre, and irrigation in such instances would hardly pay under present conditions. The case of truck crops is entirely different. The value of a single crop will often be $200 to $1,500 per acre, and usually two to three crops are grown on the same land in a year. Crops of this nature are much more sensitive to drought than field crops.

The success of irrigation under the conditions found in the east is due not to cheap water supply, but to the high value of crops grown and the careful distribution of the small quantity of water used. Most of the irrigated meadow land in Pennsylvania lies near the beds of small creeks fed by springs. Small dams constructed of timber back filled with earth high to raise the water sufficiently to cover the land, but not for storage. They are usually small affairs, cheaply constructed, costing from $5 to $20. The use of wells as a source of irrigation is quite limited. Many farmers dig the large cisterns or cisterns of water used. The use of water is limited it is thought to be cheaper than pumping.

The reason for the prevalence of irrigation in the east is, practically speaking, in arid sections, lies in two important differences in the conditions of irrigation practice—first, the quantity of water applied in the east is much smaller than in the west, and second, the water is used for truck raising in the east as opposed to stock raising in the west. The water is used for truck raising in the east as opposed to stock raising in the west. The water is used for truck raising in the east as opposed to stock raising in the west.

CARRIER FOR PIPE AND SPRINKLERS. and off. The water is admitted by short hose to the ends of V shaped wooden troughs, from which it is admitted to the furrows by means of adjustable sliding gates. (See first cut.) The troughs are built of 1 by 1 and 1 by 6 inch boards nailed together and provided with 1/2 inch holes. There are three holes in these troughs for every two furrows. On one New Jersey farm the ground is irrigated by sprinkling from several water wheels set ten feet apart on a movable track of two inch pipe, which is mounted every twenty feet on two wheeled carriages. Eleven water wheels are mounted on 100 feet of pipe supported by four carriages, as shown in Fig. 2, and will irrigate, without moving, a space 110 by 30 feet.

Harvesting Corn. For sixty acres it will pay you to have a binder to cut and bind the corn and a husker and shredder to husk the corn and care for the fodder. Shredded corn fodder will make excellent food for horses and mules, says an exchange.

The Tail of the Comet.

It is one of the most wonderful of all the phenomena that confront us in the study of nature that the tail of the comet, visible through such a vast area of space, is one of the most transparent of objects. The tail of the comet is much more transparent than the earth's atmosphere, as this at its best would in bulk act as an opaque curtain. But stars are seen almost as distinctly through the comet's tail as through the adjacent atmosphere. Comets change their form and appearance with the utmost rapidity and fluctuate back steadily away from the sun, like a courier out of the royal presence.

Rome. Of all European cities Rome is that which has most frequently been in the hands of enemies. It has been entered or sacked more than forty times since 300 B. C.

Useless Territory. No other empire in the world owns so much absolutely useless territory as the British. Banks Land, Prince Albert Land, Victoria and Bathurst Land, with hundreds of other arctic islands and lands, are at present quite useless.

Must Be Sent Home. In the United States a man can demand to be sent home. They apply to their consuls, who give notice accordingly to captains of ships about to sail.

Knighthood. Knighthood was intended to serve as a mark of distinction for deeds of valor and merit. "Knighthood" properly signifies a person who for his virtue and martial prowess is raised from the rank of gentleman into a higher class of dignity and honor.

Tobacco. Tobacco was first grown for export in this country in 1610.

Bees as Embalmers. When a small blunder in among the bees they cannot kill him on account of the protection of his shell. So they embalm him alive. They cover him, shell and all, with snowy wax. He is a prisoner which death only releases.

Danger in Flour Dust. Many do not know that flour dust has poisonous qualities that, entering the chest, may result in serious discomfort and harm.

Chronology. The Hindu chronology extends to 6174 B. C. Babylon 6158 B. C. and China 6157 B. C.

The Earliest Year. The earliest year consisted of twelve months, having each twenty-nine and thirty days alternately, thus making 354 days. This being found too short, it was lengthened to 360 days and afterward to 365 1/4.

"Cherry-Blossom."

THE JAPANESE GIVE GOOD EXAMPLES.

It is a proverb of the Cherry Blossom Land that a healthy stomach is the basis of all strength. Good nature is also recognized as of great importance. The Japanese, as a people are remarkable for their health, endurance, patience and skill.

Wild Cherry

(Prunus Virginiana).

Authority on medicines, says of the properties of this Black Cherrybark: "Uniting with a tonic power the diminishing nervous excitability. Adapted to the treatment of diseases in which there is debility of the stomach, or of the nervous system. Another authority, KISSA'S AMERICAN DISPENSARY, says, "it gives tone and strength to the system, useful in fever, cough, and other ailments of the respiratory system. This ingredient is only one of several very important native medicinal roots. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a remedy which has been employed the public approval for nearly forty years, nothing new or untried about it, but a carefully selected and combined of the best of the medicinal roots, all of which are scientifically extracted and combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that alcoholically pure glycerine, by its solvent power, is a better solvent and preservative of the active medicinal principles residing in most of our indigenous or native medicinal plants than is alcohol. As its use is entirely unobjectionable, while alcohol is well known to be a protracted period, to do lasting injury to the human system, especially in the case of delicate women and children, he decided to use chemically pure glycerine instead of the usually employed alcohol in the preparation of his medicines. He then used the glycerine in his medicines being entirely harmless, possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of great value. Its nutritive properties, Dr. Pierce believes, far surpass those of cod liver oil, entailing it to favorable consideration in all cases of indigestion and other wasting diseases. It is an invigorating, tonic alternative and owes its virtues to Nature's vegetable garden. Dr. Pierce is only the scientific gardener who knows how to combine the plants given us by Nature to cure our diseases. This preparation is of pleasant taste, agrees perfectly with delicate and sensitive stomachs, and is extremely effective in restoring tone and vigor to the entire system. It cures indigestion, biliousness, constipation, arising from weak stomachs, the reason why it restores the health of the first throw out of the stomach from the blood through the liver and kidneys. It then begins its reconstructive work in building up again by making good, rich, red blood.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is made in a large laboratory, thoroughly equipped with every scientific appliance, at Buffalo, N. Y. Qualified chemists and druggists are employed to ascertain, determine and preserve the medicinal qualities and other means of cure as seem best suited to many thousands of cases of chronic diseases which come before them for treatment each year. It costs you nothing to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce—the head of this institution, at Buffalo, N. Y., and get an accurate medical opinion in your own pocket case and wholly without charge.
