Tafts is still the only genuine hallelujah boom in existence.

No man ever betrayed a trust without intending to fix it up, if things ever come his way.

The sultan of Turkey was quick to perceive the difference between an attitude of bluff and one of biff.

Maybe congress thinks it would be establishing a bad precedent if it gave Mr. Roosevelt everything he asked for in the line of battleships.

If congress will drop around at the governors conference in the White House it will have the privilege of hearing an extra message before it adjourns.

At the age of 1194 years the Pekin Gazette has added an editorial page and will now proceed to make up for lost time in disciplining esteemed contemporaries.

All mud throwing records on the Panama canal were broken during last month, but there is no telling what may happen after the congressional campaign opens.

Before congress adjourns Tom Lawson ought to consider it his patriotic duty to tell the country, in plain language what has become of the late financial crisis.

The senate indulged in some witticism the other day, but as Tillman was absent it may not be necessary to go into executive session to demand a diagram and apology.

A railroad village in the Panama zone, consisting of 110 houses, is to be moved two miles for canal purposes. The tow path for once has turned tables on the locomotive.

Turkey quickly made itself agreeable to Italy when threatened with a fleet. Capt. Mahan was right about sea power. Italy would think a long time before tackling the Turk on land.

It will cost a considerable sum to take the American fleet through the Suez, on its tour of the world, but we can make this up some time when other nations want to use the Panama canal.

The Canadian government now pays subsidies or bonuses on shipbuilding, dry docks, steamship lines, railway building, manufactures of steel and iron, smelting of lead, and to owners of petroleum wells, spinners of binder twine and cold storage warehouses. The protective idea in Canada is carried to lengths not thought of in the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt is quoted by the Hungarian artist who painted his portrait, as saying that in six or seven years he will have been forgotten by the American people. The President is unduly self-depreciative. So far from being 'forgotten' he will live in the mouths of men for generations to come. Are malefactors of great wealth afflicted with amnesia? Are the memories of undesirable citizens shorter than those of the rest of mankind? Is there any threatened impairment of mental powers among the nature-fakers or in the ananias club? Mr. Roosevelt has been too large a part of the history of his time to be consigned to premature oblivion. So long as congressmen climb the capitol steps in expectation of a special message, while silk robed justices inflict fines on iniquitous corporations for rebating, at every constructive recess, and in all times of constructive conspiracies, while rough riders ride and cowboys chase rustlers on stolen cayuses, the name of Theodore Roosevelt will last.

SENATOR FULTON WORKING.

Senator Fulton has established headquarters at the Imperial Hotel in Portland for the double purpose of assisting in the election of Hon. H. M. Cake to the U.S. Senate, and securing the selection of a delegation to the Republican National Convention that will be in the interest of Secretary Taft for President. C. W. Halderman, of Astoria, secretary to Senator Fulton, has charge of the apartments, 604 605, for the campaign, under instructions from Mr. Fulton. Mr. Halderman says: "It will be impossible for the Senator to be in Portland personally, but I am instructed to assist the candidacy of Mr. Cake for Senator in every possible way, and Senator Fulton requests his friends to do likewise. Senator Fulton, of course, wants a delegation sent from Oregon to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, that will be favorable to Secretary Taft. He has announced the fact publicly, and his friends will do what they can to get such a delegation. It does not mean an instructed delegation, necessarily."

Mr. Halderman denies that his coming to Portland should be considered as an organized effort on the part of Senator Fulton to dominate the state convention or to antagonize Senator Bourne. He insists that his mission in opening headquarters at Portland at this time is solely for the purposes of requesting Fulton's friends to give their every assistance to Mr. Cake's candidacy and election, and at the same time work for the selection of eight delegates to the National Convention that will not be unfriendly to Mr. Taft.

J. W. Blackburn, first Judge of Sherman county, died at his home near Grants on the 3d. He leaves a family and many friends to mourn his death.

The murderer of Nate Wolff the Portland pawn broker, was E. H. Martin, a young man born of good parents, well educated, once high in military circles, decorated by congress for heroism in Cuba, but who sacrificed all for bad habits leading step by step to the hangman's noose.

Daily Journal: Senator Fulton surely can find no little consolation in the great majority with which he carried his home county, Clatsop. At least his neighbors, and those who know him best personally, showed how popular he was among them. When a man has lived in a community over 30 years, and been very active in politics nearly all that time, and can poll about 7 to 1 votes, it is pretty strong proof that he has qualities that merit friendship and adherents.

When Doans Kidney Pills were brought to her attention she was in very poor health. She procured a box, and as she had tried so many remedies previously without satisfactory results, she was surprised at the benefit she derived frm the use of Doans Kidney Pills. A test of American patriotism might be had if somebody would start a popular subscription for building half a dozen battle ships.
