It would be a great convenience to have a president with a short name like Taft.

In a crowded convention city politics is pretty sure to make strange bed fellows.

Other vehicles get out of the way of the Taft band wagon as if it were a fire engine.

There is a rumor out that at Denver, during the convention, the price of everything but postage stamps will be raised.

In his latest description of the war between the United States and Japan, Hobson generously refrains from getting us ticked.

The Republican National Convention will seat 990 delegates in the Windy City, 485 of which are instructed for Taft, and 161 others may be counted for him also.

The United States now outnumber Germany in both battle ships and armored cruisers and two new battle ships a year will maintain the supremacy.

A democratic paper wants to know what the republican party means by its promise of tariff revision.

In a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post the question is raised as to whether or not high schools pay? It takes N.Y. City schools as a criterion, and considers that from the cost per pupil the gain is not commensurate with the expense.

The fact that the hen is a consumer as well as a producer, has been too generally ignored.

The direct primary law was adopted for the purpose of giving the people an opportunity of choosing their candidates for the various offices.

The direct primary law contains the following declaration: "Under our form of government political parties are useful and necessary at the present time.

INDEPENDENT NONDESCRIPTS.

The little coterie that are prepared to bolt the ticket and vote for the crop of independent non-descripts that hope to slip into office between republicans and democrats will be taught the lesson of their lives on June the 1st.

We are sick of hearing the hypocritical tune of "We are all good, clean men." "We all support Statement No. 1." "We believe in government of the people, by the people and for the people."

The people nothing! Little they care about the people. They want to be elected, and are using Statement No. 1 in the forlorn hope of getting into office.

How can these fellows hope for office at the hands of republicans? How can a newspaper that is republican in politics support them?

They are down and out. No party no political creed, victims of the direct primary law. They forget that this law has taken the place of the old style convention; that the choice of the party at the primary election should be respected just the same as if the nominees were selected at a republican convention.

They have thrown the Grand Old Party over; with its members stand for this and vote for them? Nit.

They have every one registered as republicans. Some of them are no more republicans than Baalam's Ass; ready to support anything; do anything; say anything to gain votes. The people know this and have weighed them in the balance and found them deplorably wanting.

The first ballot is going to mean a good deal to anxious candidates at both big conventions this year, especially if it should also be the last and only ballot.

Referring to a suggestion of The Observer that Oregon should have a safe and sane constitutional convention, The Oregonian says: "Mr. U'Ren has anticipated this movement, and placed a barrier in the way of a convention. He had the people adopt an amendment to the section prescribing the manner in which the constitution may be amended, and particularly providing that no constitutional convention shall be held until the act calling a convention has been submitted to a vote of the people, and has been approved by them.

Some Sensible Talk.

Republican voters of Sherman county and this legislative, judicial and senatorial district, have placed in the field a ticket composed of able, responsible men, men whom all republicans can conscientiously support. The time was when a few fellows named the ticket, giving the majority of the party no chance to say who they desired for candidates. Under the Oregon primary law one man has as much to say about the matter as another, and all should stand by the choice of the majority of the people.

A Gala Day Coming.

The annual Sherman county field meet has apparently become a fixed event in this county. The meet will occur May 22d. The interest shown by the public, together with the intense enthusiasm on the part of teachers and pupils, leads one to believe that these events will continue to grow in interest and success. One thing is certain May 22d will be a big day in Wasco.

Do you like it? Then why be contented with it? Have to be? Oh, no! Just put on Ayer's Hair Vigor and have long, thick hair; soft, even hair. But first of all, stop your hair from coming out. Save what you have. Ayer's Hair Vigor will not disappoint you. It feeds the hair-bulbs; makes weak hair strong.
