

THE "OUTS" AND THE "INS."

The reception given the new... minister in Pendleton... week the Rev. Gentleman asked for some comments on what "outsiders" expect of a pastor.

The powder trust is being probed and somebody will get blown up.

It looks a little bit as though several European powers would soon be balking on the Balkan.

The son-in-law of a President has to be a little bit careful in his public expressions.

Steve Elkins may be made Chevalier of the Annunciated when his daughter gets married.

Politics will never be a safe, gentlemanly game, until letter writing goes entirely out of style.

Great Britain is going to increase her navy. Can it be that the voice of Hobson is heard at last?

Mr. Hearst may or may not be a Bible student, but it is quite evident that he is bright in revelations.

If the duke of Abruzzi gets a principality he will be the boss. If he only gets married he may not be.

The sainted idea of making teddy "President of The Whole World," will not make an indelible hit with Castro.

Gompers says he doesn't want an office in the Bryan cabinet. But of course if the boss insisted he might give in.

Rich malefactors will do well to remain in hiding until Tuesday night, as orators of all parties still pursue them.

American suffragists have decided that the fire of revolt is not in it with the fire of cheerfulness at the family hearth.

Gov. Hughes talks like a man who wouldn't give the snap of his finger for the support of a certain class of people.

Send The Observer to your absent friends. It is better than a letter, and gives all the home news. Four months for 50c.

A Tennessee judge has decided that it is all right for jurors to pray. It wouldn't hurt several not on the panel, either.

About next Tuesday Mr. Taft may be relied upon to help Atlas on the job of carrying the greater part of the United States.

Critics who declared that Gov. Hughes was no orator are as much mistaken as those who pronounced him no politician.

Funny, how that little word idea is overlooked until the campaign spellbinder makes his periodical appearance.

Mary Garden, the singer, is to marry a Russian prince. Will she then no longer be a common Garden variety of American girl?

Wall street gamblers, whose business methods are being investigated, were generous in giving away automobiles while they had the price.

A Brooklyn woman routed thugs with a wrench. When the rowdies saw the fire in her wild eyes they knew it wasn't any monkey wrench either.

It must not be forgotten in the excitement next Tuesday that Georgia has a favorite son running for the presidency. Don't ask: "What son?"

The Young Turks are protesting now, but note the waiting about the 26th of next month when the young turkeys near at home will be getting in their kicks.

Under the new constitution the rulers of China are to take "the measure of heaven and earth" as their measure. This gives almost as much latitude for imperial disposition as though Peking were the seat of a big stick republic.

The Haskell Hearst libel case is almost too complicated for the ordinary mind to follow. It appears that a citizen of Oklahoma sued a citizen of New York in a Nebraska court for a speech delivered in Tennessee and printed in an Illinois newspaper.

The Willamette river is now so low that the paddles of the Graham line of steamboats pick up a load of shingle ballast on a trip between Albany and Portland. The Sacramento is also about as badly run down as the old historic Ohio and Mississippi. States contiguous, as well as Oregon and California, may be expected to help the waterways movement.

The Normal School question is a long ways from settlement yet; and the same old fight will be up at the next session of the assembly. The Normal School board, upon which the last assembly shirked responsibility, and with the modern system of logic, "Therefore," it shirked; has failed to agree on the number of schools to be maintained. This question, with that of electing a democrat to the United States senate with republican votes, because of unrial legislation nullifying both federal and state laws, will furnish fun enough for 40 days in and about the old state house.

REPUBLICAN NOMINEES. For President, WILLIAM H. TAFT, of Ohio. For Vice-President, JAMES T. SHERMAN, of New York.

For Presidential electors, to be voted in November: J. D. Lee, of Multnomah, A. C. Marster, of Douglas, Frank J. Miller, of Linn, R. R. Butler, of Gilliam.

The Platform in Brief. Tariff revision by special session of congress. Free interchange of products with Philippines. Permanent currency system on gold basis. Amendment of Sherman anti trust law. Enforcement of railroad rate law. Enactment of safety appliance law. Enactment of a child labor law. Amendment to prevent summary issue of injunctions. Equal rights for black and white citizens. Further restriction of contract labor importation. Federal aid in good roads making. Conservation of national resources. Further encouragement of maritime shipping. Increased pensions for widows and orphans and liberal administration of pension laws. To maintain efficiency of national armament. Furtherance of international peace project.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES. For President, William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska. For Vice President, John Worth Kern, of Indiana.

For Presidential electors to be voted in November: E. S. J. McAllister, of Multnomah; Samuel White, of Baker; Bernard Daily, of Lake; O. P. Coshov, of Douglas.

Electors are voted on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

Electors meet at the state capitol the second Monday in January and vote by ballot.

The votes are counted by congress the second Wednesday in February.

The president-elect is to be inaugurated on March 4 next.

Would Mortgage the Farm.

A farmer on Rural route 2, Empire Co., Floyd by name, says, "Bucklin's Arnica Salve cured the two worst sores I ever saw, one on my hand and one on my leg. It is worth more than its weight in gold. I would not be without it if I had to mortgage my farm to get it." Only 25c at Moro Pharmacy.

Ink Froze on the Pen.

The winter of 1883-4 in Europe still holds its place as one of the most severe and remarkable on record. No tremendous was the cold that froze split asunder with deafening reports. The strangest sight of all was on the Thames. Here on more than a foot thickness of ice the thoroughgoing town of streets was erected. There were tailors' shops, butchers' shops, tobacconists, printers and, indeed, many other businesses all being carried on as if they had stood there for years.

Mr. Hearst paid this tribune to the notorious Heney, who butted in at the San Francisco meeting: "Mr. Heney is willing to meet any one who is respectable; but no one who is respectable wants to meet Mr. Heney. Mr. Heney should address the citizens from a pillory, where he belongs."

OPENING A BOOK.

How to Handle a Volume Without Breaking Its Back.

Hold the book with its back on a smooth or covered table. Let the front board down, then the other, holding the leaves in one hand while you open a few leaves at the back, then a few at the front, and so on, alternately opening back and front, gently pressing open the sections till you reach the center of the volume. Do this two or three times, and you will obtain the best results, says a writer in Modern Bookbinding.

A connoisseur many years ago, an excellent customer of mine, who thought he knew perfectly how to handle books, came into my office when I had an expensive binding just brought from the bindery ready to be sent home. He before my eyes took hold of the volume and, tightly holding the leaves in each hand, instead of allowing them free play, violently opened it in the center and exclaimed, "How beautifully your bindings open!" I almost fainted. He had broken the back of the volume, and it had to be rebound.

How to Sweep a Room.

When starting to sweep a room get everything out of the way that you can. Lift the end of the curtains if there are any, and sweep the rug, first catch the dust. Put aside any articles of clothing that may be lying about and pick up from the floor shoes, stools, paper basket and the like. Now start with a clean, even stroke of the broom or sweeper and sweep the floor in sections. When using the broom, direct the sweeping on one point, door-sill, center of the room, or chimney, and gather with a whisk brush into the dustpan. An ordinary clothes-brush will prove very useful in cleaning places under furniture where the whisk is too large to work well. In very small rooms crowded with furniture it is often difficult to avoid hitting the walls and windows with the handle of the broom. This difficulty may be overcome by using a small whisk broom such as the children play with. It is much handier than a large one in a narrow space. If the floor is bare or covered with material, the rug, first sweep the rug, then fold it back at the edges and wrap your broom in flannel. Now wipe up the bare parts of the floor with the broom thus covered and you will get them perfectly clean.

What Makes the Heart Beat?

Professor Jacobus J. van der Helm, the celebrated biologist, in his book, "Dynamics of Living Matter," has shown that a strip cut from the ventricle of the heart put in a solution of chloride of sodium will continue to beat for a number of days, until putrefaction sets in. He says this can be done with an ordinary muscle after it has been extracted from the body. This would tend to prove that the heart is a chemical machine and that it is all due to chemical action. The muscular contraction is probably due to the substitution of sodium for calcium salts in the cells of the muscles.

A Fair Chance.

Dressed in the latest and most approved motor cycling costume, with goggles all complete, the motor cyclist gaily foot-tooted his way by Regent's park toward the zoo. Suddenly he slackened, dismounted and said to a small, grubby urchin: "Say, my boy, am I right for the zoo?" "The boy gasped at so strange a sight and thought it must be some new animal for the gardens. "You may be all right if they have a spare cage," he said, when he could find his tongue, "but you'd do a far better chance if you'd 'd a tail!"—London Answers.
