With distressing urinary disorders,
Daily existence is but a struggle.
None need to keep it up;
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you.

Mrs Martha W Rigsby, 322 Oak st, Hood River, Or, says, "I suffered from back ache and other distressing symptoms of kidney trouble, and although I used numerous remedies, I was unsuccessful in finding relief. Finally I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box. In a short time I began to feel a great deal better, continued and received a complete cure."

Frail Historians of Sevres.

Only two and a half miles southwest of Paris, Sevres is well known to tourists. Beautiful porcelain has been manufactured there since 1756, the royalties and republics which followed each other taking pains to have each period stamped on the back of every piece made. Initials of kings, the date and often the palace for which the service was designed were placed plainly on the plate. Thus in this silent but most eloquent way these frail historians indicate the changeful, brilliant story of their native land.—Exchange.

The Date of Buddha.

On the authority of the available inscriptions and of the tradition as recorded in the Ceylonese chronicles the date of the nirvana of Buddha is found by the latest writer on the subject to be 487 B. C., and as tradition assigns eighty years as the period of his life he must be considered to have been born in the year 567 B. C.—Indian World.

Whooping Cough.

This is a more dangerous disease than is generally presumed. It will be a surprise to many to learn that more deaths result from it than from scarlet fever. Pneumonia often results from it. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, and always with the best results. Del McKeig, of Harlan, Ia, says of it, "My boy took whooping cough when nine months old; he had it in the winter; I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which proved good; I cannot recommend it too highly." "Locked up in my study room!"—Philadelphia Record.

MANUFACTURERS BUILDING.

On the eastern side of Geyser Basin, at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, the handsome Manufacturers Building looks across the restless waters of the Cascades and the flashing foam of "Old Faithful," the reproduction of its namesake in Yellowstone National Park.

Its location is the most central of any of the exposition buildings, and its architectural design is especially fitting for the position it has been given. It was one of the first great exhibition palaces to be completed, and before the end of last year was ready for the reception of its vast collection of exhibits. It will house a magnificent assortment of the highest examples of man's ingenuity and invention, and within its walls will be gathered specimens of manufactured articles from the workshops of every nation of importance in the world.

It overlooks the finest of the formal gardens of the exposition, and its splendid line of pergolas, with their vine-covered columns and blossoming flowers, complete a restful and pleasing view. At no part of the grounds can be seen a more beautiful illuminating effect than is presented from the open pergolas during the late evening and early night. A million sparkling electric bulbs flash their white lights through the waters and, scattered throughout the greenery, hundreds of electroliers mingle their many hues with the riot of colors. Looking down the gentle slope of Rainier Avenue the floating craft of two lakes is brought into vision and adds the delights of a broad, light-sprinkled stretch of forest-enclosed waters to the whole effect.

SANCTUARIES FOR BIRDS.

Boston Sportsmen Interested In Project For Protecting All Game Birds.

The interest of thousands of sport lovers all over the United States is now centred in an enterprise backed by several Boston sportsmen to establish a national "sanctuary" for the propagation, breeding and protection of millions of game birds of different species upon Cat Island, an immense tract of low land lying off the coast of Louisiana in the Gulf of Mexico.

The movement is headed by William Brewster, president of the Massachusetts Audobon Society, John E. Thayer and other prominent Bostonians interested in game protection, who propose to purchase the island, and they have already expressed their willingness to raise the $25,000 needed as the purchase price.

The plan was brought to the attention of the present backers by H. K. Job, a well-known New England ornithologist, who recently paid a visit to the island to take photographs of the birds there and to study the island's merits as a breeding and gathering place for the migratory game of the country.

Mr. Job's glowing reports of the thousands of birds of all kinds that he found there, the tameness of the Cat Island feathered tribes and the natural features of the place for the successful propagation of birds were made the basis for the present Boston movement to acquire the island.

"I believe the creation of this island, remote from the mainland and now the home of both migratory and breeding birds, into a great sanctuary for our game birds is one of the most excellent measures than can and undoubtedly will enlist the interest of sportsmen everywhere," declares Mr. Brewster.

"The island itself, a low, level, well-timbered place in the Gulf of Mexico, is one of the most remarkable congregating places for both breeding and migratory birds in the United States.

"It is safe to say that millions of these creatures either make their nests there or else spend several weeks of each year on the island during their flights north and south.

"The object of the purchase of the island is to render the birds going there safe at all seasons from everybody.

"We know that when birds find such a place they will continue to go there in increased numbers, and they also tend to spread out from such localities."

The purchase of Cat Island is declared to be an initial movement is establishing a chain of such "bird sanctuaries" which will serve as protective spots against the annihilation of all classes of flying game now subject to the dangers of the open seasons during their migratory flights.

His Guess.

A good many years ago, when John Leimbert was in the Union depot ticket office, a big, blue eyed Swede stepped up to the window. Mr. Leimbert went to wait on him.

"What will it be?" asked Mr. Leimbert.

"Ay tank Ay tak ticket son of a gun," replied the Swede.

The man inside looked at him a minute, scratched his head, reached over to the case, got a ticket, stamped it and said, "Eight ninety-five."

The Swede paid the money and departed. Mr. Leimbert had figured it out that he wanted to go to Gunnison. Whether or not he guessed right nobody ever knew, as they never saw the Swede again.—Denver Post.

"I had a horrible dream last night," said Huddleston when he came down to breakfast the other morning.

"What was it?" asked his wife.

"I dreamed that I was in purgatory and was made to do all the things I had told my friends I would do if I were in their places."—Brooklyn Life.

YACHTSMAN'S NOVEL FEAT.

Leffingwell of Chicago Club Will Try to Set Mark In Arctic Zone.

To have its emblem carried farther north than that of any other organization which makes a sport of sailing is to be the distinction of the Chicago Yacht Club, whose burgee will be flown from the truck of one of its member's boats during a three years' cruise in the waters of the Arctic zone.

The yachtsman who will carry out the novel feat is Ernest De Koven Leffingwell, geologist and member of the University of Chicago geographical department, who has been made an honorary member of the Chicago Yacht Club. Mr. Leffingwell recently went to Pasadena, Cal., to perfect his plans for the Alaskan trip.

His craft is to be a stanch auxiliary schooner, now being completed in Seattle, and when it is launched the pennant of the Chicago Yacht Club will fly from the main truck, ready to be carried where no yachting emblem has been seen before. The schooner will be a fifty footer, and its auxiliary power will be furnished by a twenty-five horse power kerosene engine, which is thought to be safer for the purpose than one of the gasoline type.

Four sailors will be Mr. Leffingwell's companions during the trip, which is to start May 1. The first stop will be made at Nome and the second at Point Barrow, where is located the last Hudson Bay trading post. From that point a course will be laid for Flaxman Island, 300 miles northeast, and Mr. Leffingwell then will take up the task of making maps of the rivers that he discovered there upon his recent exploring trip.

A Piece of Coral.

The two men had not met for years. The man from out of town looked the other man over.

"Same old Jim," he said. "Awfully glad to see you again. Strange how such old friends will drift apart. So you're married?"

The other man nodded.

"Three years ago."

"Well, well! And I never heard of it until I met Jack Ransim last week. What's that?"

He was still studying the other man's appearance, and his eye caught sight of a segment of coral that dangled from his friend's watch fob. He lifted it and looked at it more closely. The surface of the coral was roughened by slight indentations.

"Some sort of token, eh?" he rattled on. "You always was a great chap for picking up worthless trifles. That's a queer charm." He looked up and caught sight of the other man's face. "Why, I beg your pardon, Jim!" he cried.

"That's all right," said the other man a little unsteadily. "Only, you see, the boy—whose teeth made those marks—he was nearly two—died—last summer."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Winged Burglars.

Buchner in his "Psychic Life of Animals" speaks of thievish bees which, in order to save themselves the trouble of working, attack well stocked hives in masses, kill the sentinels and the inhabitants, rob the hives and carry off the provisions. After repeated enterprises of this description they acquire a taste for robbery and violence. They recruit whole companies, which get more and more numerous, and finally they form regular colonies of brigand bees. But it is a still more curious fact that these brigand bees can be produced artificially by giving working bees a mixture of honey and brandy to drink. The bees soon acquire a taste for this beverage, which has the same disastrous effect upon them as upon men. They become ill disposed and irritable and lose all desire for work, and finally, when they begin to feel hungry, they attack and plunder the well supplied hives.

Billiousness and Constipation

For years I was troubled with billiousness and constipation, which made life miserable; my appetite failed me; I lost my usual force and vitality; pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I sho'd have been today had I not tried Chamberlains Stomach and Liver Tablets; the tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally, says Mrs Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. For sale by Moro Pharmacy.

Crosses and Thieves.

Several years after the close of the civil war a reception was held in Lynchburg, Va., to commemorate some national event. Many men were there assembled who had fought in the war. Among them was a major of a New England regiment, who, meeting General Jubal Early of the Confederate army, cordially greeted him.

Pointing to his own decorations, the major said, "Ah, general, you see we have all the crosses now."

"Yes," replied the old general, "In olden times they hung thieves on crosses. Now they hang crosses on thieves."

Every one who tries it feels just that way. Relief is felt at once and its quick cure surprises you.
