The Grain Growers Conveniences

Are not alone confined to Rural Free Delivery of mail and the Telephone. There is another convenience which all farmers should have—and many do have—a checking account with a good bank. The possessor of such an account avoids the risk of having his money on his person or about his home where it is in danger of fire and thieves. His bills paid by check are not only a valid receipt, but also a convenience in his home transactions where very often the necessary change for concluding settlement is not at hand. Don't stop to think this over, but start an account now with

JUGGLED BY BRUI

A Boy's Remarkable Adventure With a Pet Bear.

WHIRLED ABOUT LIKE A TOY.

After the Unique Performance Was Over Seventy-six Stitches in the Lad's Scalp and Rolls of Surgical Plaster on His Shins Saved His Life.

Ben was a pet black bear four years old and as good natured and friendly as if his ancestors had never had bad reputations. There is only one occasion on record, says his owner, Mr. William H. Wright, in his biography of Ben in "Black Bear," when even to appearances did Ben misbehave himself.

The circumstances being examined, however, the animal came off with his good name virtually untouched. Ben had been left in his shed as usual. Later in the day a crowd was seen about the door. I hurried home to find most of the women of the neighborhood wringing their hands and calling down all kinds of trouble on my head.

At first I could make neither head nor tail of the clamor, but finally gathered that that bloodthirsty, savage and unspeakable bear of mine had killed a boy, and upon asking to see the victim I was told that the remains had been taken to a neighbor's house and a doctor summoned.

This was pretty serious news; but, knowing that whatever had happened Ben had not taken the offensive with out ample cause, I unchained him and put him in the cellar of my house, well out of harm's way, before looking further into the matter. Then I went over to the temporary morgue and found the corpse—it was one of the Urin boys—sitting up on the kitchen floor, holding a sort of impromptu reception and, with the exception of Ben, the least excited of any one concerned.

I could not help admiring the youngster's pluck, for he was a awful sight. From his feet to his knees his legs were lacerated, and his clothing was torn to shreds, and the top of his head—redder by far than ever nature had intended—was covered with blood. As soon as I laid eyes on him I guessed what had happened.

It developed that the two Urin boys had broken open the door of the shed and gone in to wrestle with the bear. Ben was willing, as he always was, and a lively match was soon on, whereupon, seeing that the bear did not harm the two already in the room, another of the boys joined in the scuffle. Then one of them got on the bear's back.

This was a new one on Ben, but he took kindly to the idea and was soon galloping round the little room with his rider. Then another boy climbed on, and Ben carried the two of them at the same mad pace. Then the third boy got aboard, and round they all went, much to the delight of themselves and their cheering audience in the doorway.

But even Ben's muscles of steel had their limit of endurance, and after a few circles of the room with the three riders he suddenly stopped and rolled over on his back.

And now an amazing thing happened. Of the three boys suddenly tumbled better skelter from their seats one happened to fall upon the upturned jaws of the bear, and Ben, who for years had juggled rope balls, cord sticks and miniature logs, instantly undertook to give an exhibition with his new implement.

Gathering the badly frightened boy into position, the bear set him whirling. His clothing from his shoe tops to his knees was soon ripped to shreds and his legs torn and bleeding. His scalp was lacerated by the sharp claws until the blood came. His cries rose to shrieks and sank again to moans. But the bear, unmoved, kept up the perfect rhythm of his strokes.

Finally the terrified lookers-on in the doorway, realizing that something had to be done if the leader was not to be twisted to death before their eyes, tore a rail from the fence and with a few pokes in Ben's side induced him to drop the boy, who was then dragged out apparently more dead than alive. The doctor took seventy-six stitches in the lad's scalp and put rolls of surgical plaster on his shins. No square and true had Ben juggled him that not a scratch was found on his face or on any part of his body between the top of his head and his knees. He eventually came out of the hospital no worse for his ordeal, but I doubt if he ever again undertook to ride a bear.

How She Won Out.

"Oh, George," she cried in perplexed tones, "I'm afraid we must part."
"Part? Why must we part, dear?" he echoed.

"On account of father," she replied. "He fears we would be mismatched. We are so very different, he says."
"In what way are we so different?" he asked, with a show of dignity.

"Well, father says I am of such a ready and willing disposition, while you seem so backward, so reluctant and hesitating, so—so loath to come to the point, don't you know?"

"Does he?" blustered George, bracing up, and the very next afternoon she was showing her girl friends how stunning it looked on the third finger of her left hand.—Boston Herald.

WOOD BLOCK PRINTING.

Charming Effects Gained From This Work.

CURTAIN WITH WOOD BLOCK DESIGN.

Curtains, porch and bungalow pillows, portieres, couch covers, table runners, bags of all sorts—in fact, anything that can be stenciled—can just as successfully be printed by the wood block process.

If one cannot draw a design for a carved wood block it is perfectly possible to adapt one from something at hand. Designs suitable to be traced and then carved on wood blocks can be obtained from wall paper or fabrics with conventional designs.

A little practice will soon teach the worker what to eliminate and what to keep to make a well balanced, harmonious design suitable for this charming craft.

Sailboat Girls Like to Pose.

Woman's place in the sailboat is a problem now agitating amateur sailors. The mariners who take their summer vacation as their only opportunity to see the tricky catboats have found that most of their accidents have been due to the recklessness of their women passengers. It seems to be an inveterate feminine longing to pose about the decks after the manner of girls on magazine covers. The woman who sits on the cabin top is the hardest to deal with. Whenever the boom flies the swing of it is likely to knock her into the water. Now it has been discovered that the place for women on catboats is in the cockpit, but this will probably kill sailing as a pastime for women, because it keeps them almost completely hidden.

A Woman's Plan.

Mrs. Ellen H. Richards' proposition for working people to live in hexagonal buildings fifteen stories high and literally surrounded by sunlight and air is not aesthetic, but it is rather terrible from an architectural point of view. But that needn't matter if these "towers" will but solve the congestion of cities and aid in the improvement of sanitary conditions.

Now's the Time to Buy Lingerie Gowns

This is the season of the year to buy a lingerie gown cheap. The shops are all marking down their best models, and one sometimes can purchase for less than half the original price a frock that in the beginning of the season was prohibitive.

Then if one does not care for ready made clothes there is at present the

MRS. HARRIET STANTON BLATCH.

It's FRENCH, BUT MAY BE EASILY COPIED opportunity of obtaining at greatly reduced rates pieces of lace and lovely lengths of insertion and furnishings.

The lingerie gown illustrated is a French creation; but, as you see, it may be copied at small cost. The materials used are all over equester embroidery furnishings. The skirt consists of two deep pieces of the flouncing put together with a wide insertion of val lace. At the bottom of the skirt, under the scalloped edge of the flounce, is a wavy ruffle of the valenciennes lace. The peasant bodice is formed of eyelet and lace. Outlining the round neck is a piping of black velvet.

BADEN-POWELL COMING.

Originator of Boy Scouts Will Visit the United States.

All the boy scouts and the prospective boy scouts will be pleased to know that the founder of that widely spreading propaganda has arrived in Canada and is coming to the United States to lecture on the movement. He is Lieutenant General Sir R. S. S. Baden-Powell, a real general, who made a fine record in the British war against the Boers in South Africa and since then has made a still finer record as the originator and organizer of the boy scouts in England. Sir Robert—or General Baden-Powell, which is better in this connection—used to be a mighty warrior in war. Now he is a no less mighty warrior for peace. He fights valiantly to the end that the growing boys of his country may learn and practice manliness, avoid being mollycoddles, get out into the open, develop their physical and fraternal qualities in a healthy manner and prepare themselves to become wholesome and useful citizens ready to tackle any proposition like men.

General Baden-Powell brought with him sixteen boy scouts—no doubt picked scouts—under command of Captain Arthur Wade of England. The boys will give drills and demonstrations in Canada and the United States. They have gone for a five weeks' trip to the great Canadian northwest, after which the general will bring them to the United States and use them as object lessons in instructing American youth. There is to be a convention of American boy scouts at Silver Bay, Wis., in September. General Baden-Powell promises to attend and contribute his advice and the results of his wide experience in the movement.

SUFFRAGETTES TO MARCH.

Big Parade Planned to Influence New York Legislature.

Suffragettes are to make its first grand stand display in America on the 29th of October. Plans are in process of evolution right now. The militant women of New York, which is the trust port of entry for suffragism from England, where the real thing obtains, have put their heads together and conceived a demonstration which is calculated to give the members of the New York legislature a warning as they enter their winter duties. Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, one of the earlier woman suffragists, is among the leaders in the crusade. According to present plans, the pageant will look something like this:

First will come a woman in a sedan chair, representing the time when woman was a frail, helpless creature, carried about by man. Behind this figure will be a float bearing an old fashioned spinning wheel, hand loom and the various other quaint and clumsy machines which woman used in the dark ages of her history. Then will come the dawn of the new era—a really rosy fingered dawn—made up of a long line of the prettiest of the young suffrage enthusiasts. They will drag a barouche, in which will ride some of the first workers for woman suffrage, those who started the movement back in the sixties.

After the dawn will come the bright daylight of the present. There will be representatives of all branches of woman's activity, companies of factory girls, office girls, salesgirls, school teachers, doctors, lawyers, dentists, authors and cooks.
