FRIDAY.....April 19, 1912

If you do not read The Observer, why not?

We would like to have you take it, and we know it would be profitable to you to become a subscriber. We send it two years for $2.50; one year $1.50; 12½ cts a month isn't much. Try it. Order by postal card, and pay for it when you can.

Church and Society notices FREE, except when for money making purposes. Such notices at regular rates at the option of the publishers.

We will not be responsible for the neglect of subscribers to notify us of changes in their address. Nor will the notification of a Postmaster that the subscriber has "Removed" settle the bill of a delinquent.

Did it ever occur to you that it costs no more to produce printing that is pleasing to the eye than the other kind? The Observer is equipped with all the modern facilties for doing good work at the very minimum of cost. Try us with an order and if it is not executed to your perfect satisfaction you need not pay for it.

Send for advertising rates.

From the activity of some men, one would think it was up to them to furnish the world with sunshine, humor and information.

Again there is talk of Japan getting a foothold in Mexico; perhaps we are lucky in not having made the Monroe doctrine a subject for arbitration.

Murders in Oregon may just as well throw up their jobs; people will vote that the entire batch of such expire according to dates fixed for the executions by laws of this state.

Panama had a volcano break loose on the 5th, Chirqui Peak, near Bocas del Terro. Thousands of persons were killed and whole Indian villages swept away by the eruption.

Anonymous campaign circulars flit about like English sparrows, and are even more worthless; such work is done in violation of laws, to help purify elections, as the press is censured. But we want to tell you all something; if the government, especially representatives and senators, had to do their work without the help of the newspapers, the fourth estate of the realm, they would be far less acquainted with public opinion and less equipped with the information about current events that are indispensible to them.

Lewis J Hill, active head of the Hill railroad lines, declares that he intends to get busy in the work of upbuilding this state. One of the most formable schemes he has in mind, and which he is taking up with the local Hill officials, is to encourage every one of the 34 counties in Oregon to hold a county fair each year. Come up and see what Sherman county is doing in this line, Lewis?

Letters received by George F Cochran, progressive republican candidate for congress, and present water superintendent for eastern Oregon, supporting his candidacy are measured in four figures. Born in Union county and raised in eastern Oregon where he practiced law, Mr Cochran knows every foot of the district he would be asked to represent. His platform hits a happy medium between standpatism and radicalism. A vote for him means eastern Oregon's first congressman will have ability, dignity and strength.

The loss of the new steamer Titanic Sunday night on its first voyage to New York with 2,100 persons on board, of whom all but about 800 went down with the ship, is an awful story. In collision with an ice berg the greatest ship that ever floated sank like an old wooden vessel. Only 12 men were among those rescued. Seven of the lost are men reputed to aggregate wealth of $420,000,000, and it is calculated that if the fortunes of the first class passengers alone were placed together they would easily make $1,000,000,000. The Titanic cost the White Star line $10,000,000.

BRIEF NEWS OF OREGON

Work of putting in rock at the jetty at Florence started again Monday.

Articles of incorporation for the First Trust company of Portland, with a capital stock of $500,000, were filed at Salem.

The Oregon Electric Railroad has decided to erect three steel bridges on the road now being built between Salem and Eugene.

Supplementary articles of incorporation have been filed by the Nehalem bank, increasing its capital stock from $10,000 to $20,000.

A distrous fire occurred at Canby when the City Hotel was completely destroyed by fire with all of its contents, one man being burned to death.

When the Oregon Naval Militia leaves for its summer cruise in the Pacific, some time in July, the armored cruiser Pennsylvania will be used for the purpose.

Letters have been sent by President C. T. Prall of the good roads association, to every county judge and commissioner in Oregon, asking support for the harmony highway bills.

Property in the state of Oregon is carrying insurance against fire loss to the amount of $186,262,168.90. This does not include marine insurance, which amounts to another $25,000,000.

The second annual convention of the architectural league of the Pacific coast closed at Los Angeles with the election of officers and the selection of Portland as the meeting place for 1913.

Down-pouring rains last week have added thousands of dollars to the crop of Umatilla county. The rain was general and fell throughout the drier sections of the county, where it was most needed.

Word comes from Florence that the Pacific Great Western railway company's engineers are again at work in that vicinity, after having been withdrawn from the field two or three months ago.

On January 31, 1912, there were 58 postal savings banks in operation in Oregon with deposits amounting to more than $560,000, deposited by 5300 depositors, an average of $106 per depositor.

While riding on the rods of a west bound freight, a man supposed to be John Hegmoe, was killed at Encina. Eighteen cars passed over his body and it was discovered with half on each side of the track.

Because of the refusal of the Oregon Short Line to submit to the railroad commission the complete annual report required by law, the commission has instructed the attorney general to bring proceedings against it.

The body of Mrs. Tom McGrath, who mysteriously disappeared from Bend, last July, was found in the Deschutes river by a fisherman. The woman had been beaten and abused by her husband and evidently committed suicide.

In the $25,000 breach of promise suit, instituted at Salem by Lillian G. Smith against William P. Lord, Jr., son of ex-Governor Lord, the jury brought in a verdict of $1 against the defendant and assessed the costs against the plaintiff.

A complete statement of State Architect Knight, showing the profits which have accrued since the establishment of that office, or rather during the first year of its existence has been completed and shows a net profit for the year of $9135.

Not guilty was the verdict returned at Portland in the case of the state against Burt Hicks, the owner of an open-shop machine shop, who was indicted for murder in the first degree for the killing of William A. Wortman, a striking machinist and picketer.

Seventy tons of eighty pound steel rails have arrived at Marshfield for a terminal railway to be built this summer, over which steam trains can be run and over which all roads coming into Coos Bay are to be allowed to operate. The work is to begin immediately.

The sportsmen of Jackson county have agreed to co-operate with Warden Finley to prevent the breaking of the state game laws and work toward a gradual elimination of the game wardens. Protection for fish and game and war on crows is the present policy.

Pendleton was the scene Monday of a riot when a majority of the teamsters employed by the Warren Construction company in street paving work struck. Two men, Marion Deardorff and James Turner, who refused to walk out, were dragged from their wagons and badly beaten by the rioters.

Lloyd E. Williams, recorder of Clackamas county, has been mysteriously missing since the afternoon of March 31, and his family and friends believe he has been drowned or was a victim of foul play. The books of his office have been examined by an expert and found to be absolutely correct.

Power development, for which it is estimated $5,140,515 will be expended, is represented in filings allowed by the State Engineer's office, according to an abstract just completed by State Engineer Lewis. The office has issued 124 permits representing a total of 116,340 horse-power or an average of 922 horse-power for each filing.

A Question of Depth.

"Beauty," said the ready made philosopher, "is only skin deep."

"I can't agree with you," said the positive man. "If beauty were measured by that standard the rhinoceros would be one of the most charming animals."—Exchange.

The Retort Matrimonial.

She—You can't ever accuse me of helping you to make a fool of yourself. He—I don't know about that. You said yes when I asked you to marry me.—Baltimore American.

Ben W. Olcott, Secretary of State and leading republican candidate for the nomination and election to the same office is an expert public accountant and his experience in that line has stood him in good stead since he has been placed in charge of the Secretary's office which has been put upon an economical business basis. It is easy to VOTE FOR OLCOTT.

ECONOMY IN MEAT.

Avoid Waste by the Judicious Use of Odds and Ends.

The cook who broils the tough end of a porterhouse steak, roasts the ribs in a roast, throws away the bones and juices left on the platter by the carver and discards as unfit for use the meat from which the soup stock is made is guilty of wicked waste.

The end of a porterhouse steak is unfit to serve when broiled. It should be cut off. This, together with the bone and juice left on the platter, a bay leaf, three or four cloves, an onion, a carrot and some parsley, will make several cups of bouillon. The ribs should be cut out of a roast when preparing it for the oven. These, with the leftover gravy, may be used in a similar way for stock.

In making stock the long, slow process of gentle boiling extracts the flavor from the meat and coagulates the albumen. Only a little of the latter is extracted. Therefore the meat loses but little of its nourishing properties. There are numerous ways in which such meat can be made appetizing. Combined with rice and tomatoes a delicious luncheon dish may be made. Butter a baking dish and line with hot boiled rice. Fill the center with bits of meat well seasoned with salt, pepper and onion juice. Cover with rice. Bake twenty minutes in the oven. Turn out on a platter and pour over it a well seasoned tomato sauce. It is a toothsome morsel.—National Food Magazine.

HISTORIC FIRES.

The Most Fateful of All, Perhaps, Was the Burning of Moscow.

A list of great cities burned would be a list of nearly all the great capitals of the world. Persepolis, the splendid residence of a long series of rulers whose tributary provinces extended from the Indus to the Hellespont, was burned, with all its palaces and temples. Babylon and Carthage were so utterly destroyed that their very location has become a matter of doubt. Rome was burned eight times. Jerusalem four times, and, though they rose from their ashes—

The second temple is not like the first.

Athens, Syracuse, Bagdad, Alexandria and Antioch now exhibit only a shadow of their former grandeur. The Phoenicians, like the Spartans and Assyrians, disappeared with the ruin of their capitals, but the most fateful conflagration recorded in the history of the world is perhaps that of Moscow.

"They talk as if the fate of Europe had been decided at Waterloo," says De Bourienne in his memoirs of the first empire. "If Napoleon had beaten Wellington and Blucher a dozen times it could not have retrieved the reverses of the three preceding years. The truth is that the French Caesar and his fortune were ruined by the burning of Moscow. That city was the funeral pile of the great nation."—Exchange.

The Pipe of Peace.

The North American Indian usually made his pipes out of a kind of stone known as red pipe stone, of which there were large deposits in the old Sioux country, and the Great Spirit is said to have given his indorsement to this particular material, which might have been a Sioux monopoly, in these words: "This stone is red. It is your flesh. It belongs to you all. Out of it make no more tomahawks, war hatchets nor scalping knives. Use it only to make the pipe of peace and smoke therefrom when you would propitiate me and do my will."

Special Prizes.

Hon. C A Buckley has offered two very unique prizes to the school children of Sherman county at the coming Industrial Fair: For the best trained suckling colt a cash prize of $30.00 will be given; for the second best trained suckling colt a cash prize of $20.00 will be given. This is open to any boy or girl who has attended school in Sherman county this year. Let every one who is eligible try. W C BRYANT.
