The Observer.

MORO, OREGON.

FRIDAY, January 31, 1913

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Moro, Oregon, July 25, 1891.

C. L. IRELAND, Manager.

Send for advertising rates.

If you do not read The Observer, why not?

We would like to have you take it, and we know it would be profitable to you to become a subscriber. We send it two years for $2.50; one year $1.50; 12¢ a month isn't much. Try it. Order by postal card, and pay for it when you can.

We will not be responsible for the neglect of subscribers to notify as of changes in their address. Nor will the notification of a Postmaster that the subscriber has "Removed" settle the bill of a delinquent.

Church and Society notices FREE, except where for money making purposes. Such notices at regular rates at the option of the publishers.

Happiness is largely a matter of health, and health is largely a matter of hygiene.

The first robin red breasts were seen in Moro Saturday on the lawn at the Observer family residence.

A missionary writing from the interior of Persia says it is difficult to induce the little ones to undress before retiring.

Woodrow Wilson has discovered a way to cut out zoological demoralizations at a ball. He proposes to omit the ball.

Circuit Judge D. R. Parker has again been elected president of the Condon business mens association; it was under Judge Parker's guidance that the Tri-County Fair was such a high success last season. After paying all demands there was a balance of $200 in the fair fund at its close.

The honest farmer is now given opportunity to prove his honesty, which vaudeville jokers have dared to question. If stale egg or rancid butter should ever reach an ultimate consumer by parcel post, direct from the honest farmer and without the intervention of the middlemen, our best loved city tradition would get a jolt.

After looking into the matter carefully the judge advocate general of the army has decided that goats may be purchased to eat the tall grass on military posts as a preventive of the breeding of mosquitoes; and of chiggers also in some states. This seems an excellent way of getting the grass cut where there was a disposition to avoid the fatigue of using a lawn mower.

A Seattle woman aged 47 years literally slept her life away at that place last week. With the exception of answering "yes" or "no" to questions which she did not understand she showed no consciousness for 100 hours before her death. Though not paralyzed, for the greater part of the time she lay as in death, some of the time almost pulseless.

The Oregon Trunk Ry. has for some time made a specialty of a live stock train; leaving central Oregon points each Wednesday morning and is run on a special schedule that delivers shipments into the stock yards at Portland at 10:30 the same evening. This allows ample time for feeding, watering and resting before the hour of the special week sales Thursday morning.

Senator Root, of New York, suggests that the several bills pending in congress for lengthening the presidential term, prohibiting the reelection of a president, and changing the dates of the president's inauguration and of the meeting of congress be combined in one measure. He suggestion is logical. The proposed laws cover a single reform. They require amendment of the federal constitution. Presidents and congressmen are elected in November and they should go into office and power within 30 days of their election.

Abstracts promptly made by the Sherman County Abstract Company, Moro, Oregon.

A MEETING WITH TURNER.

The Artist Simply Enraged the Man Who Longed to See Him.

A printshop in London, kept by a man who thoroughly understood and appreciated the wares in which he dealt, once displayed in its window a fine but much stained and damaged engraving—one of a set from Turner's pictures. Turner chanced to pass and notice it, and promptly bounced into the shop and began to abuse the dealer.

"It's a monstrous shame to treat an engraving like that!" he blustered. "What can you be thinking about to go and destroy a good thing? For it is a good thing, mind you!"

"I destroy it!" responded the dealer hotly. "What do you mean by saying I destroyed it? And who the mischief are you, I should like to know? You don't look as if you could understand a good print when you see one. I destroy it! Bless my heart, I bought it just as it is, and I would rather keep it till somebody than sell it to you! And why not should put yourself out about it I can't think!"

"Why, I did it!" said Turner. "Did what? Did you spoil it? If you did you deserve it!"

"No, no, no; my name's Turner, and I did the drawing and engraved the plate from it!"

ODD USES OF WHALEBONE.

Wigs Are Made of It, and It Stiffens High Grade Silks.

The notion is popularly held that whalebone is derived from whales' ribs, although many persons believe that it comes from the tail of the big mammal. Both notions are incorrect.

The function of whalebone in the life of the whale is of the utmost importance. The inner edges of the whalebone plates are frayed into innumerable hairlike processes, and the whole forms a sort of sieve whereby the whale may sift out its food from the sea water. It must be remembered that the food of this gigantic creature consists chiefly of minute organisms, crustacea, molluscs, etc., floating near the surface.

When the whale opens its mouth and moves along a great multitude of these minute forms of life find their way in. Then the whale closes its mouth, and the water is strained out through the whalebone sieve, and the food is retained.

The common uses of whalebone are known to everybody. It is, however, put to a use not generally known even in England, where the fine internal fringes mentioned are employed in the making of hairdressers' wigs. By reason of their lightness they retain the curl better than does ordinary hair. Fine whalebone threads are also sometimes employed to stiffen the tissue in high grade silks.—Harper's Weekly.
