

EVEN WE ADMIT

THAT there are more important things in the world than having the right clothes. We realize that, as the poet says, "A man's a man for a' that."

But, unfortunately, people will judge a fellow by the way he looks—and even more unfortunately, lots of fellows don't look as well-dressed as they might. It isn't because they don't want to, or because they don't try, it's because they don't know how or where to get garments that will bring out the best of them and hide the worst of them.

We don't say that we can (because it wouldn't be modest) but we're morally sure that we might show you a Keenwood suit that would cause the first friend you met to congratulate you on your improved appearance.

Nash, was a special feature. Drills and chorus singing by the different school classes were liberally interspersed with recitations, making a varied program. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with flowers, using crepe paper as a back ground and to form an arch way directly over the pulpit platform.

Veteran to Again see Gettysburg.

G. A. Williams, assistant adjutant general G. A. R., department of Oregon, has forwarded blanks to Postmaster J. M. Parry for him to make application for participation in the 50th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg for which funds were recently voted by the Oregon legislature to enable each veteran living in Oregon to attend. Mr. Parry is the only member of the G. A. R. in Sherman county that fought in the Gettysburg campaign and all here want to see him able to attend the anniversary celebration next July upon the battle field. Adjutant General Williams writes that every effort was made to ascertain the number of surviving veterans of that battle before the legislature was asked to appropriate funds for the purpose specified. He says that a number, most likely, will not be able to attend by reason of failure to respond to letters as to their qualifications for the trip.

COOPER BROS.

GRASS VALLEY, OREGON.

"I've been selling Studebaker Wagons and Buggies for over 30 years."

"I've sold them because my reputation as a dealer was at stake and from experience I have found that Studebaker means the best."

That tells the story. Farmers bought Studebaker wagons before the Civil war and they have been buying them ever since. Because they had confidence in the name Studebaker and in the sturdy, dependable wagons and buggies they build. And that confidence has been upheld. Studebaker wagons are built on honor and the Studebaker guarantee goes with every one. There's a Studebaker for your needs—whether you live in city, town or country.
