Send for advertising rates. If you do not read The Observer, why not?

We would like to have you take it, and we know it would be profitable to you to become a subscriber. We send it two years for $2.50; one year $1.50; 12 1/2 cts a month isn't much. Try it. Order by postal card, and pay for it when you can.

We will not be responsible for the neglect of subscribers to notify us of changes in their address. Nor will the notification of a Postmaster that the subscriber has "Removed" settle the bill of a delinquent.

Church and Society notices FREE, except when for money making purposes. Such notices at regular rates at the option of the publishers.

The Consumers of Portland are trying to cut down the high cost of living by requesting the large department stores to close every evening the year round and granting their employees a half holiday on Saturday during the summer. Holidays are good for tired clerks, but the consumers should not go gunning for a reason for high prices when they assist in putting up such propositions to store managers. The tail end of the week in Portland is worth very little as it is an out of the city business man as it now stands except to pay hotel bills.

Oregon Produces Its Own Pork.

According to live stock authorities of Portland not a hog has been imported into Oregon since last August. This is encouraging news and shows that Oregon farmers are going extensively into the business of live stock raising. During 1911, more than half the total number of hogs received at the Portland market came from Nebraska. Last year, this number decreased to a remarkable extent and now it appears that Oregon will not need to import any more pork in order to feed its own people. On the other hand, we may soon be in position to make substantial shipments outside the state. In paying so much attention to hogs there is a chance that some farmers may overlook that no one is trying to raise cattle and that will soon be the branch of the live stock industry that will pay the dividends. Save the calves and raise cattle, the profits are sure.

Opals.
The opal used in jewelry is distinguished from other varieties of less value by calling it precious or noble opal. Opals differ greatly in their color effects, and these are known as the pattern of the gem. The shape and size of the flashes of color vary from very small, when the stone is called pin's point opal, to larger, squarish spangles, when it is called baroque opal. The line of reflection in the center or near the center of a moonstone is called the blush.—St. Louis Republic

A Scot as Grand Vizier.
In "Further Reminiscences" Mrs. Hugh Fraser tells of James Keith, a Scotsman, who served with Spain, Russia and Prussia. As general officer of the Empress Anna Petrovna he was intrusted with the conduct of some preliminaries of peace with Turkey prior to the treaty of Belgrade.

On the completion of the negotiations, which were conducted in French, the Turkish representative, no other than the grand vizier himself, a tall, red bearded personage dressed all in the sacred green of a haddi (or holy man who had made the pilgrimage to Mecca), arose and came round to where Keith was standing by the table. "It affords me great pleasure, sir," the grand vizier began to the astounded Keith in excellent English, with an entrancing Scottish accent, "to have the opportunity of meeting again with so distinguished a person as yourself. You look surprised, but I well remember you and your brother going to school. My father, sir, was the ballman of Kirkcaldy."

Tea Drinking as an Art.

Hot China tea, neither too strong nor stewed, should be drunk slowly. Some people put a clove or two in their cup of hot tea. Sugar candy is often used instead of lump sugar, and there are sugar bonbons that dissolve quickly in tea and are popular.

Some hostesses have their own sugar lumps made with special coloring and flavoring to suit their individual tastes. There are balls of white fondant strongly flavored with lemon or orange juice; others pink, flavored with rose; violet, flavored with violets, and green balls that have a maraschino cherry inside. Tea to be iced should be made rather stronger than for drinking hot. When it has infused seven minutes pour it from the leaves and sweeten to taste and then stand it in a refrigerator for seven hours. Serve in dainty glasses with a spoonful of vanilla cream on the top or else drop a small lemon water ice into the glass.—London Mail.

Where the Dogs Work.
Life is a vastly different thing to the Alaskan dog from what it is to his more fortunate brother with us. He is the hardest working member of the community and the most important social and commercial factor in the frozen country, for without him travel and intercommunication would be impossible during a great part of the year. Almost every man in this country owns from one to five dogs. They are his constant companions, aiding him in nearly all his work. When a pup is three or four months old he is given a course of training in the harness. At the age of seven or eight months he must start in with light work and must understand and obey "whoa," "gee," "haw" and "march," which latter means "go out" and is commonly pronounced "mash" by all men driving dogs.—Country Life in America.

A Very Frank Lawyer.
Joseph W. Folk said that while governor of Missouri he received the following application from a young attorney for commutation of a sentence of death from Penitentiary:

"This was my first case as a lawyer, and I admit that I didn't know very much about defending a man for murder. I believe that if this negro had had a real lawyer to defend him he would have been acquitted. I don't believe you ought to let him hang for my ignorance."
Folk looked over the record in the case, thoroughly agreed with the lawyer regarding the manner in which the case had been handled and commuted the sentence.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Diplomatic.
Mrs. Wombat proceeded to use some very plain language.
Mr. Wombat objected.
"Ain't what I said true?" demanded Mrs. Wombat.
"Yes, but, woman, be more diplomatic. You talk as if you were abrogating a treaty."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Little Pitchers.
"Ma, does pa help to clean the streets?"
"What a question! Of course he doesn't!"
"But I heard him telling Mr. Jagg that he fell off the water wagon the other night."—Baltimore American.

SUMMONS—In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for Sherman County.

Maudie Van Taylor, plaintiff,
John Van Taylor, defendant.

To John Van Taylor, the above named defendant:
In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear in and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before the last day of the time prescribed in the order of publication, to-wit: on or before the 24th day of May, 1913, and if you fail to so appear and answer, the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint filed herein against you, and for a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between the plaintiff and yourself, on the grounds of willful desertion, and for such other and further relief as to the court may seem equitable and just.
This summons is served upon you by publication thereof for the period of six consecutive weeks in The Sherman County Observer, a weekly newspaper of general circulation, published in Sherman County, Oregon, in pursuance to an order of the Hon. D. H. Parker, Circuit Judge for Sherman County, made on the 12th day of March, 1913, and the date of the first publication thereof is the 21st day of March, 1913.
GEO. N. CROSFIELD, Attorney for Plaintiff.
