If you do not read The Observer, why not?

We would like to have you take it, and we know it would be profitable to you to become a subscriber. We send it two years for $2.50; one year $1.50; 12¢ a month isn't much. Try it. Order by postal card, and pay for it when you can.

We will not be responsible for the neglect of subscribers to notify of changes in their address. Nor will the notification of a Postmaster that the subscriber has "Removed" settle the bill of a delinquent.

Church and Society notices FREE, except when for money making purposes. Such notices at regular rates at the option of the publishers.

At any time when requested to do so, the paper will be discontinued. But we expect that all arrears will be paid before such request is made. It is easy to ask us for a statement, which will be cheerfully rendered at any time.

One of the dynamiters and chief informer in the McNamara trials in Los Angeles, Ortie E. McManigal, will soon be put at liberty by means of the pardon route. California state prison authorities say that he will be released some time during May.

Representatives of a colony of German farmers are looking over available agricultural land in this state with a view of purchasing enough land to accommodate 3500 people. Different sections of Oregon have been written regarding what can be secured and at how reasonable a price. The people with which it is proposed to populate the land, which these men are seeking, now live in various parts of the United States and Canada, while some will come direct from their homes in Germany.

A national republican convention, probably at Chicago in May 1914, is now practically certain. The chief duty of the convention will be to amend the rules so that delegates to future conventions will be chosen on the basis of party strength in the various states rather than in proportion to the states representation in congress; this would limit the southern states to but few delegates and leave them with one-tenth instead of more than a third of the number of delegates at a convention. Among other things contemplated by the convention leaders will be adoption of a platform free from domination of any one faction.

Things are not what they seem, always. Now comes the startling statement, made by the strikers at the silk mills, Patterson, N.J., that the silk turned out there is not made from cocoons, but from rusty horse shoes and tin cans found in the city dumps. That being the case we can see no reason why silk factories cannot be established in any city of the country. The statement is made by William Haywood that very little real silk is produced in the United States, being one part silk and six parts tin, iron or lead, the silk fiber being dipped into huge vats of this melted metal, which absorbs five or six times its own weight of the solution. This expose is made by some of the 27,000 strikers who have been idle the past two months. The silks that are the most heavily weighted with metal are those used in dress goods, ties and ribbons.

An authority on China places its present population at a figure remarkably close to that of Russian authorities, who have been regarded as the people best informed. He states that at the beginning of the Taiping rebellion about 60 years ago, the population had reached the huge total of 413,000,000, but that the rebellion and several severe famines brought the number down to 261,000,000 in 1862. Now it is 330,000,000 and the pressure of population on food becomes severe again. Evidently the Chinese problem in the twentieth century is to be the most trying and tremendous racial problem with which Europe and America will have to deal.

Europe is gemmed with homes and haunts of famous authors that have become shrines to lovers of literature. America, too, has such literary shrines, and they are neither few nor petty and unmeaning. Concord, Mass., had the homes of Emerson and Hawthorne; Cambridge those of Lowell and Longfellow, whose birthplace at Portland, Me., is also visited; Fordham, the cottage of Poe; Cooperstown, N. Y., Cooper's palatial manor; Cummington, Mass., Bryant's modest mansion; Camden, N. J., Whitman's cot; Sunnyside, N. Y., the home of Irving; and "The Heights" at Fruitvale, Cal., the home of Joaquin Miller.

L.W. Ross has the "direct from factory" high grade Tutill line of cut glass, the best that has ever been brought into Sherman county. This warranted cut glass line is included in the Special Bargain Sale, without reserve.

New Industry for Moro.

A deal will most likely go through this week by which L. Barnum will sell to J. A. Harbke, of Portland, the brick buildings adjoining the Moro hardware store and known as the Rudolf corner.

It is the intention of Mr. Harbke to establish an up-to-the-minute garage with all necessary tools and lathes with which to handle work in a first class manner. The machinery installed will include gasoline power, a gasoline measuring supply pump, air pump, and all necessary small tools to make a modern repair shop for automobiles.

Mr. Harbke will have associated with him M. A. Butte, one of the most experienced automobile repair men in Portland. Both are men of family and expect to make Moro their future home.

Dates for the annual Round Up at Pendleton this year has been fixed for September 11, 12, and 13. The round up association has increased the capacity of the grand stand and bleachers to accommodate 31,000 people which is 10,000 more than the largest days attendance of last year. The railroad company is preparing to build several more miles of passing tracks and switches to accommodate the numerous special trains which are sure to be chartered and parked at hotels during the festival. From a small beginning of a few years ago this event has become the biggest of all on the Pacific coast from railroad passenger traffic handled.

Louis J. Gates has had a full strength plate glass front made in Portland for his store building at Kent. It will have a show window on each side of the store entrance, which will be in the center. Inside will be sealed to the height of the windows, above that will be prism lights with which to supply more light to the store. The partition in the center of the store will be moved back four feet to accommodate the new entrance. Outside the old wooden awning will be replaced with a modern canvas awning and the sidewalk will be lowered to grade. A. C. Simpson, of The Dalles, is now at Kent superintending the carpenter work.

The fall and spring grain in the southern section of the county is looking fine; it shows the effects of the cold weather we are now having, in that in some fields the presence of cut worms is noticeable and yet no particular damage can be noted as where the worms are working the grain is beginning to stool more freely than where it is not touched. The principal drawback to a good crop prospect at this time is a lack of warm weather, when that comes the grain will make a wonderful showing, particularly spring sowing because now it looks to be the most backward.

A starved mind is at least as pitiable as a starved body. Food for the mind can be got from many sources but books and papers furnish such a bountiful supply no one has any excuse for going famished. Yet there are people who read nothing, and whose conversation is limited to their aches and annoyances and deprivations. They are on a hunger strike, refusing to take the good things within reach because they cannot get something or other that is out of reach. It is a method that intensifies their poverty.

Twohy Brothers have begun work on the double tracking of the O. W. R. & N. Co. west of The Dalles. The work includes considerable rock work and blasting. The railroad company has also just completed the work of dumping broken rock upon the river side of the sand fill in front of the new depot at The Dalles to protect it from erosion from high water.

George O. Warfield reached his 40th birthday April 23d. One of the mementoes received by George was a postal card from his sister asking him how it felt to be forty years of age. It reminded him of a similar query he had addressed the same sister some years previous, and G. O. thought that it was further proof that chickens always come home to roost.

Record Trip from Doctor to Hospital.

Mrs. H. H. Brackett was operated upon at The Dalles hospital April 24th for gall stones and is now resting nicely after the operation. Mr. Brackett justly considers the trip to the hospital one of the quickest on record from this county. Dr. Huckin was not called, on the afternoon of the day before, until five o'clock and it was not until eight o'clock that the party was enabled to leave the farm home east of Moro, the trip to Wasco being made by means of Dr. Huckin's auto. Before arriving at Wasco arrangements had been made by telephone for Wm. Oehman to meet them and continue the journey with his new 1913 Chalmers car, leaving at 11:15 p.m. and arriving at the hospital an hour and a half later. Considering that it was a night drive, with an invalid, and a necessarily crowded car the time occupied in the trip was remarkably short.

High Minded Mother Hen.

J. R. Hunter believes in having everything handy as possible on the farm; even to suitable quarters for the setting hens. One of his hens, when the notion struck her, did not want to be punished by J. R. for a provision of nature which she could not resist. The hen must have seen the nice quarters ready for her, but she preferred to climb to the tip top of a thirty foot barn loft and rear her brood in an abandoned pigeon loft. She is certainly a high minded hen, but as yet has not figured out a way to get her chicks down without help from J. R.

Trade Made with Moro Property.

Sam P. Briabine has purchased the lot directly to the rear of what is known as the Brash property, which in turn he has traded to J. M. Axtell for the lot facing the Henry Smith property and back of the property which Mr. Briabine purchased last fall from Mrs. Anderson-Ashby. Mr. B. has also purchased the barn of C. L. Montgomery on McCoy street and will have it moved to his recent purchase.

Moro to Have Improved Ball Park.

A subscription paper has been circulating in Moro this week under the guidance of J. N. Landry with which to secure funds to properly prepare a ball ground for the local nine at the County Fair grounds. A dance will be given in the hall this Saturday evening for the same purpose, a five piece orchestra will furnish the music. Moro will play their first game of the season Sunday at Grass Valley.

Look to Your Plumbing.

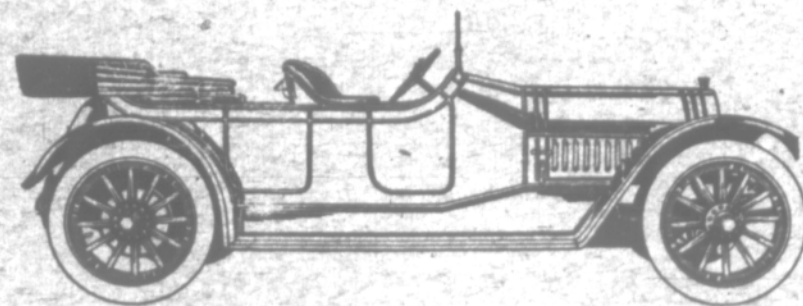

You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition—everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time. If you have any trouble with your digestion take Chamberlain's Tablets and you are certain to get quick relief. For sale by all dealers—Advertisement.

How Long Will Mary Go Away?

Before Mary went away for a vacation somebody asked her when she was going and how long she would be away, and this is what she said: "When it is the day after tomorrow I shall start a week from yesterday, and I'm not coming back until the day before five weeks after a fortnight and three days before the day after a couple of days before I start!"

Found a Cure for Rheumatism. "I suffered with rheumatism for two years and could not get my right hand to my mouth for that length of time," writes Lee L. Chapman, Mapleton, Iowa. "I suffered terrible pain so I could not sleep or lie still at night. Five years ago I began using Chamberlain's Liniment and in two months I was well and have not suffered with rheumatism since."
