REMINGTON UMC

AUTOLOADING SHOTGUNS

ANY way you look at it, the Autoloader is the highest development in modern shotgun design. It puts five loads at your disposal by merely pressing the trigger. It puts the recoil to useful work—to eject the empty and slip in the fresh shell. It saves the gunner's shoulder—saves his sport of annoyances—increases his shooting average.

Your danger is that in your enthusiasm over the autoloading principle, you may forget to insist on getting the finest embodiment of that principle—the Remington Autoloading Shotgun.

The similar advantages of the Remington are too many to detail here. What you want to do is get one of the Remington dealers in this section to demonstrate them to you on the gun itself.

A Little More of the New Tariff.

Editor Ireland, of the Observer, had a strong editorial in the last issue of his newspaper regarding the new tariff law. Mr. Ireland believes that the farmer got it in the neck for sure in that clause that makes grain bags still subject to high duty. And he is right, but the trouble is primarily due to the fact that it is a mighty hard job to make a tariff law that will give complete justice to all and favors to none. The new law falls short in many ways and is not perfect. It seems to us that it is high time for a real tariff commission and take this tariff business out of politics.

The above is from the Wasco News Enterprise of last week. It causes us to comment upon an interview printed in Washington city from Senator Chamberlain regarding why he was in favor of a duty on grain bags and none on the cloth from which they were made.

The senator said that the question was very carefully considered by the democrats in congress; he says nothing about the non partisans doing any studying. He very frankly said that a monopoly on burlap was maintained by India dealers; that if the bags and cloth both were admitted free of duty it would work a hardship upon the American manufacturers, of which there are only two, one in Portland and one in the east.

Senator Chamberlain further said that such an arrangement would be a help to the farmers of the northwest, but the Observer can't see it that way. As the new tariff bill stands everything raised upon a Sherman county farm comes into competition at the Periland markets and else where with the same kind of products from outside countries. The list includes wheat, oats, and all sorts of grains, butter, eggs, poultry, cattle, hogs, sheep, etc.

While on the other hand every thing, with the exception of flour and perhaps one or two items, that could be manufactured from any of the products a farmer has for sale is subject to a duty more or less large, but nevertheless real as far as money is needed to buy them.

The Observer believes in these days of monopoly and trusts that any time raw materials are put upon the free list so should the manufactured article that it helps create. That, we believe, could be called non partisanship.

When you have a chance to see tariff bill for yourself take a pencil and note how the farmer as a class support free trade in his products while the manufacturer and his employee enjoy approximately the same degree of protection as he did before.

Oregon is one of the few states in the union where a railroad commission is equipped with the proper apparatus for going into all the fine points on light, power, heat and telephones. The commission maintains an office in the Multnomah county court house where experts in these matters are constantly on duty and any question pertaining to these subjects can be properly investigated. They have means by which can be determined that gas sold at any point in Oregon is better for illuminating than heating or fuel. Also it can be quickly demonstrated to a visitor that some times a 32-candle power electric lamp will consume more current than a 16 candle power or smaller lamp and, again, it can be told why a very much larger lamp will use but little electric current. Visitors from any part of the state are always welcome and their queries cheerfully answered.

Farmers in Polk county are offering a bounty of 25 cents a head for all gophers caught and killed. The little animals have become such a pest and do so much damage to growing crops that the farmers organized as a means of self protection. On a 1250 acre farm near Monmouth one trapper caught 415, some days as many as twelve. One dozen cinch traps were used and in but few instances did the gophers get away after throwing the traps.

With the middle of September the fire season in the heavy timbered forests has come practically to an end with less damage than ever recorded. There is always some danger from carelessness of campers or of settlers burning brush and clearing land, but the real danger season extends from the middle of June until the middle of September.

A successful eugenic baby show has just closed with the Clarke county fair at Vancouver, Washington, better babies, better schools and better churches, all go together and mean better citizens.

The coming annual state fair at Salem September 29 to October 4, promises to be the best ever held in the state. Hundreds of attractive cash prizes are offered for the best products in all lines and competition for the various premiums will be keen.

Hopgrowers in Oregon this year are enjoying the unusual combination of big crop and high prices the yield being one of the finest the state has ever had and the market advancing at the rate of one or two cents per day. The demand at the present time is largely from Europe.

At the second juvenile fair recently held at Wilsonville, Ore., a nine year old boy carried off a total of 31 prizes, winning first on practically all lines of fruits and vegetables, and also took first money in the chicken display. Among the other items shown by this youthful farmer was a box of 142 pounds of American Wonder potatoes, the product of one lone spud.

A proposal to make the Azores archipelago an international neutral zone is being considered by the American, British and German governments. The proposal is said to be incidental to the opening of the Panama canal and the fact that German, American and British companies have joint cable stations on the islands making free access to them of the utmost importance.

The market for hogs in Portland last week, both from the view point of buyer and seller, was very unsatisfactory. Total receipts were comparatively small, quantity not the best, demand slow and prices an average of twenty cents lower than the week before. Market for beef is over done; last Monday as much beef cattle was received in the one day as in all the previous week.

Portland union stock yard company has published a booklet entitled Pacific Northwest Swine Husbandry that is considered an encyclopedia on that industry and all who maintain even as low as one hog on the farm should have the book which can be had free for only the asking by applying to the secretary of the company. The selection, breeding and feeding of swine is thoroughly gone into by the publishers.

The state superintendent of schools has addressed an open letter to the public through the papers of the state calling attention to the fact that his office caught one of the new school book publishers charging a higher price for books in this state than they were charging in other states for the same books. Under threat of filing suit to collect upon the publishers bond and contract the price in this state was reduced materially. This all happened just before schools started in Sherman county and all local buyers of the books secured the reduction.

Save Three Quarters of a Cent on Each Bushel.

HOW TO DO IT.

Force your warehouses to make a fifty cents per ton storage, same as they have all done in all warehouses north of Hay Canyon.

If they can handle grain for fifty cents per ton north of Hay Canyon, for the love of Mike why not make the same rate at Hay Canyon and all warehouses south, and give the farmers that three quarters of a cent on each bushel.

Think what three quarters of a cent on each bushel, on all the grain at Hay Canyon and all warehouses south of Hay Canyon, would mean to the farmers in the south end.

Now get busy. We did it in the north end of Sherman county, and you can do it in the south end.

Yours very truly,

Geo. N. Crosfield, Wasco, Oregon.
