While visiting in the county the last few months, Hans Hansen put his time to practical use by enclosing his farm with woven wire fencing. C. A. Todd has the farm rented and will pay a slight increase in rent for the additional facilities afforded.

J. F. Foss is having a cement wall built on the line between his property and that of Dr. J. R. Morgan. When completed it is the intention to have the wall a few inches higher than the level surface of the lots when they are filled to a level with the ground around the house.

L. Barnum, R. C. Atwood and W. C. Rutledge made a fishing party to the "ol' fishin' hole" at Shearer last Saturday. Drue landed one reddsie trout that weighed five pounds and measured 24 inches long as part of his catch. Supposed to be the largest ever caught on the DesChutes river.

At the Morra orchards at Rufus, L. E. Langford has Lawton blackberries, peaches, good cooking and eating apples; now ready for market. Lots of tomatoes, sweet corn, etc., within a very few days. Berries $1.75 a crate at Moro. Deliveries each week. Leave your orders at either of the Moro stores.

Carleton R. Ball, agronomist in charge of wheat investigations in the western states for the U. S. department of agriculture, spent five days at the Moro experiment farm this week. He made a careful study of the many wheat varieties grown on the station, and also took a trip with Mr. Stephens through the wheat fields between Moro and Grass Valley.

Ben Tomlin had one of his large toes caught in the grouser of W. S. Powell's combine Wednesday morning while watching the crew replace a sprocket chain. He was standing on top of the machine in what he thought was a safe place, when the horses were started to help turn the sprocket wheel. He was brought to Moro and Dr. Poley removed the injured member.

Thursday, August 6th, fire destroyed the separator and derrick table of the Asa Eslinger outfit on the E. H. Moore farm, supposed to have caught from an engine spark. They had been two days on the farm heading and threshing, and had just moved and set from a two-hour run on another part of the same field. Mr. Eslinger secured another separator and was again busy early Monday morning.

A new idea in the fruit preserving line is the self-sealing vacuum, white porcelain top, on sale at the Moro Hardware & Implement Co.'s store. This is made special to fit the old style mason jars and can be had either with rubber rings or the prepared ring, with which most are familiar from using the economy jars. The hardware company has a complete stock in either style and at the same price usually paid for the old style top.

County Judge Krusow is authority for the statement that the county last week put a small crew of men at work on the Cottonwood grade removing loose rock and making it a better road in places. He also said that next year Sherman county would increase the number of turn-outs and generally fix up the grade.

As it stands now, Sherman county has the better grade, and while this county is doing a good deal for those who use the grade, it is also up to Gilliam county to eliminate some of the sharp grades on their side of the John Day bridge.

A "bob" cat was killed on the summer fallow of the W. G. C. Woods farm, near Boardman school house, Saturday evening by Clyde R. Woods as he was driving home from a visit to the George Hennagin farm. The cat was first noticed in the road ahead of the team, and Clyde left the buggy and drove it under a bunch of rye grass by throwing clods, then hit it on the head with the butt of his buggy whip, killing it at the first try. The cat was a striped yellow and black, about two feet long. Sherman county paid a bounty of two dollars and Mr. Woods has the pelts, which he intends making up into a small rug as a gift to his mother.

What Would You Do?

A Sherman county man is about to take out a life insurance policy and wishes to know from some one well informed in life insurance as to which is the best form of policy for him to take.

He knows that the money he invests in life insurance and the policy, when paid at maturity or death, is exempt from taxes and payment of debts, and that his creditors, if he had any, could not come on and take his life insurance from himself or from his widow.

But he does not know whether to take a policy that pays the full amount of his claim at death or to take the policy that pays in installments of so much per year for a number of years.

The last mentioned policy seems to be the best, as his wife is not well informed as to investing money, and should he die, the $10,000 that will be paid to her would be a great deal more money than the average person would know how to invest or loan in profitable channels so as to support the widow and school the children.

The payment of an insurance policy in installment payments of a certain sum of money paid yearly by the insurance company, without further cost or charge, would do away with the worry and care of collecting interest, making loans or forcing the payment of delinquent interest when sadly needed.

Three wagon outfits full of movers passed through Moro last week, going from Bandon-by-the-sea to Pendleton.

Whether you raise three hogs or three hundred, you cannot afford to overlook this famous hog food. Read what J. M. Fruits, of Joseph, Oregon says about DIGESTER TANKAGE.

Union Meat Company
North Portland, Ore.
Dear Sir:—
In reference to the results obtained from your Digester Tankage, I have found it to be a profitable and satisfactory feed. It has no superior as a feed for brood sows. Its high percentage of protein makes it a great developer for the unborn piglets. It makes strong boned pigs with nice glossy coats. In the show ring it has no equal to my judgment. During the past winter I have fed tankage to my young pigs and have never met with greater success.
Very truly yours,
(Signed) J. M. Fruits.

Joseph, Oregon,
March 25th, 1914
