Eastern Jubilee Quartet.

The Eastern Jubilee Quartet, four versatile colored entertainers, will be at Moro Theater Monday, June 26. Two of the members of the troupe were here last spring under the auspices of the High School, with the California Jubilee singers.

John C. Payne, the impersonator with the Eastern Jubilee Quartet, was one of those with the California Jubilee singers. He will be remembered as a very successful impersonator of a woman in one part of the entertainment.

J. T. Hill, who will be with the quartet on the 26th, is ranked among the finest colored bass singers in the States; it is said of him that he takes "A" natural with ease.

A. R. Lewis, second tenor, violinist and soloist, is a graduate of a prominent conservatory of music and is creating a very favorable impression wherever he appears. His tenor voice contributes in no small degree to the harmony of the quartet work for which the company is noted.

Bulletin No. 3

Why Not Face the Facts About Armor Competition?

To the People:

The policy of the United States Government for many years has made real competition in armor-making ineffective.

The Government might have asked the three armor plants for bids and let the entire tonnage to the lowest bidder. That would have made competition effective.

The result of such a course would have been to drive two of the three manufacturers out of business, and leave the country with facilities of only one plant in time of need.

The Government in fact has always asked for bids from the three manufacturers, but no matter what the price quoted, each year's business was divided among them.

Armor makers serve but one customer—the Government, just as a public utility serves but one customer—a community.

The solution of the public utility problem is regulation of rates.

The solution of the armor problem is for the Government to fix the price.

We voluntarily agree to accept any price fixed by the Federal Trade Commission. Isn't acceptance of that offer better than the destruction of an industry built solely to serve the Government?
