Hill-Brunquist Wedding.

One of the most beautiful out-of-doors weddings was solemnized at Burn Brae Orchard, the home of Mrs. Julia Brunquist in Hood River, Oregon, on June 22d, when Edythe Brunquist became the bride of Charles Edwin Hill, assistant superintendent of the Federal and State Experiment Station at Moro. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, attended by a sister, in pink and white, as maid of honor and Miss Winnie Shields, a college friend, in pink as bridesmaid, with a dainty little flower girl and a tiny ring bearer, the bride in white satin gown and lace veil came down a vista of fir trees across the lawn to a bower of pink roses. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas, while her attendants carried pink sweet peas.

The groom was attended by a brother of the bride.

"Love's Coronation" and "O Promise Me" were sung by a cousin of the bride.
