

THERE is an economy wave over the land. American people are beginning to realize that they are living too fast, beyond their means. It has been the rule that the man with $20,000 a year as well as the man with $2,000 a year lives up to every penny of his income. Slowly but surely this order of things is changing. The era of extravagance and waste in business and personal expenses is nearing an end. Efficiency and economy is the order of the day. Bank deposits are growing.

It is up to every one to economize. The best and surest way to do so is to place your surplus in the bank. If you already have a bank account make it a point from today on to increase it. Add to it weekly, daily if possible.

IF YOU HAVEN'T A BANK ACCOUNT DECIDE TO OPEN ONE TODAY.

Sherman county will soon build a building on the court house square in which to house the county caterpillar, road machinery and cook house.

Mrs. C. L. Powell was visiting last week in The Dalles, where her mother, Mrs. H. D. May, is convalescing from an operation at the hospital.

Miss Edith Eddy, from Vancouver, Wash., has been visiting during the past week with her father, J. M. Eddy, at the family home east of Moro.

Reports from Multnomah county and Eastern and Southern Oregon indicate that L. J. Simpson is the leading candidate for governor and will easily secure the nomination.

Prof. Boyrie, assistant teacher in the Moro high school, was called to Portland last week by news of the serious illness of his father, who died shortly after Prof. Boyrie reached home.

Wait for Dr. Freeze if you need eye service. Trips each month to Moro and other towns.

Your Kind of a Man for Governor is L. J. Simpson

Clipped from a Portland Paper.

There are seven applicants for the job of governor of Oregon.

Two of them, alas! are Democrats and have no chance of election; so whether either would be a good man for the job need not be discussed.

There are five Republican candidates for the office, and you, the employers, must choose one of them. These Republican candidates are—

Withycombe, veterinary, and a mighty good one. He has had one term as governor, and wants another. He is a better veterinary than he is a governor.

Olcott, who is now employed by you as secretary of state. He has been a good secretary—too good to lose. And his contract with you has three more years to run.

Moser, an attorney. Harley, mayor of Astoria, who has a one-plank platform of "light wines and beer." Not to be taken seriously. Simpson, business man.

Let's try to be businesslike in this matter of hiring a governor.

Let's decide which one of the five is the best man for the job.

Let's run over the list again:

Withycombe, veterinary; Olcott, already usefully employed under contract in another department of our establishment; Moser, lawyer; Harley; and—Simpson, business man.

We believe that Simpson is the best man for the job. Check off his qualifications for the position.

He is young and vigorous. He has made a success of his own business. He has the reputation of being a straight-shooter. He does not know much about politics, which is to our mind a point in his favor.

Simpson's has been a constructive career. He made the Coos Bay country what it is today. He built the town of North Bend. He is that rare bird, an on-the-level lumberman.

He comes of good Yankee stock. His father, the late Cap'n Simpson, was the original of "Cappy Ricks," that wholesome, eccentric soul whom Peter B. Kyne, the author, created and whom millions laugh at and love.

Twenty thousand men have worked for Simpson, the son, in the Coos Bay country. He has never had a strike or any kind of labor trouble. He has kept through the years the friendship of every man who ever had dealings with him. Those twenty thousand men are now scattered through the camps and mills of Oregon, and every last mother's son of them is an unpaid worker in the Simpson campaign.

Politically, Simpson is probably the least known of any of the gubernatorial candidates, and will prove the best governor for the state during the next four years.

Eight girls of Moro High School are arranging to put on a play at the school auditorium entitled "Over There" the evening of May 17th.

Jas. Woods, Sr., has sold his residence to County Agricultural Agent C. C. Calkins and has bought a location for a new home on Scott street near his daughter, Mrs. N. P. Hansen.

Due to the advanced prices of every necessity entering into the operating cost of hotels the Hotel Albert and Hotel Dalles, at The Dalles, have been forced to make a slight increase in their rates.

A home guard company has been organized at Kent with 86 members signing the muster roll. W. O. Smith is captain of the new company, J. K. Irby 1st lieutenant and A. A. Dunlap, 2d lieutenant.

Miss Maggie Eaton is a patient at The Dalles hospital, where she recently had her left leg amputated because of blood poisoning brought on by diabetes from which she has been a sufferer for some time.

W. G. C. Woods is in Portland under treatment for rheumatism. When seen in that city on Wednesday by the editor of the Observer he said he was much better in health and had gained several pounds.

J. N. Landry has sold his 40 H.P. caterpillar tractor to A. H. Barnum and bought a new Holt 75 H.P. His old one was delivered to Mr. Barnum last week and the new one ordered April 29th, being unloaded at Moro this Monday.

Beginning with the evening of May 11th, the Moro Theatre will put on a series of 12 Special Fox Attractions to alternate with their usual Saturday show. These pictures are of unusual merit and will average from six to eight reels each.
