An Enjoyable Motor Trip

W. H. Helyer of Kent, his mother, Mrs. E. E. Helyer, and her grand daughters, Misses Elmira and Rose Edwards, of Moro, have returned from a months very enjoyable motor trip to several points in Oregon. They were accompanied by Herman Pape and family on the greater part of their journey. The party traveled from Sherman county, visiting friends and relatives in Wasco, Hood River, Multnomah, Washington, Polk, Marion, Linn, Benton, Lane and Lincoln counties. Mr. Pape and family stopped at Albany to visit a brother while Mr. Helyer and party visited at Junction City, Loraine and Cottage Grove, upon their return the entire party motored to Newport for a short visit before the start home. The return trip was made via the Columbia highway, ferrying at the Cascade Locks to the Washington side and motoring to Collins, then shipping to The Dalles by boat and the drive home. It was the first time Mrs. Helyer and the two girls had been out of the state of Oregon.

The only auto accident coming to our attention during Chautauqua week was that of J. T. Rolfe, who crashed into the railroad right of way fence about a mile north of Moro on Tuesday evening. The accident was caused by the wishbone of his Ford dropping to the road and being crumpled by the continued running of the car. The two front wheels and axle were broken, but no damage to the passengers.

Captain Williams, of the Oregon Military Police, was in Sherman county this week and at the meeting of farmers at the Moro school auditorium Thursday evening, attended by farmers living in all sections of the county. It was arranged to put a detail of military police in the county for fire protection purposes to work with the four home guard companies. The military police detailed for Sherman county will be on the job next week and every road in the county will be patrolled. All night telephone service for all parts of the county is part of the plan.

N. G. Wallace and wife were visitors in Moro Monday from Prineville, making the trip by auto in about five hours. Mr. Wallace is an attorney and also county judge of Crook county. Talking about good roads, he complimented Sherman county on its excellent roads and incidentally said that Crook county had voted bonds amounting to $95,000 with which to improve its roads and that one stretch of road at first estimated to cost $32,000 by government road engineers had been advanced to $52,000 and probably a larger figure by this time. Under these conditions Crook county was deferring its permanent road program until conditions were more satisfactory.

Perfection by Degrees. Rembrandt says: "Learn to do well what you already know, and you will find in time the unknown things that you now inquire about."

Discipline. Know you not that our business here is a warfare, and one must watch, and one go out as a spy, and one must fight? You neglect to do the bidding of the commander, and complain who he hath laid somewhat rougher than common upon you, and you mark not what, so far as in you lies, you are making the army to become, so that if all copy you, none will dig a trench none will cast up a rampart, none will watch, none will run any risk, but each will appear worthless for warfare.—Epictetus.

'WHO'S LOONEY NOW?'

Mystery at Psychiatric Unit at Great Lakes.

Blocks and Puzzles Appear and Disappear by Magic When Rookie is Examined.

Great Lakes, Ill.—"Who's looney now?" This is the big question over at the psychiatric unit at the naval training station. A few days ago Ensign John Sharpe discovered an ex-sleight-of-hand performer among the recruits in detention. Mr. Sharpe seized the opportunity for some fun. He called the psychiatric unit, asked for Chief Yeoman Dadds and said: "I have a loon I am going to send over. He is as crazy as a bat, so watch out for him."

Then turning to the sleight-of-hand man he remarked: "Go over and show them a good time."

When the "loon" appeared at the unit, Dadds showed him to a seat, brought out the various blocks and puzzles and started to find out whether his patient was born crazy or attained it later.

"Take these blocks"—Dadds began. But the blocks had disappeared. Bustness of searching high and low, but no blocks.

Dadds registered consternation, excitement, perplexity—but still no blocks. "I think you will find them in your right coat pocket," said the man being examined. And sure enough, there they were.

Dadds tried again: "Now here is a picture, look at it ten seconds and tell me about it."

"Where is the picture? This is only a piece of paper," said the mystery man.

Dadds replied, "I gave you a picture." "Here is what you gave me, sir." The picture was gone. Dadds was certain he handed it to the sleight-of-hand man.

"Did you look in the chair, sir?" asked the "loon." Dadds found he was sitting on the very picture he had just handed the actor.

Several things disappeared in like manner until it was suggested that some one certainly did need an examination—but not necessarily the sleight-of-hand man.

CARRY, CARRY ON

By LITTELL M'CLUNG, of the Vigilantes. With a smile that's ever cheering A heart attuned to song; And a vision ever clearing, To light the path along; With a faith that He is hearing Our prayer to right the wrong; With face aglow, For weal or woe, We'll carry on, carry on.

With a courage that is hiding Whatever pain we feel; And determination guiding Our sacrifice and zeal; With a trust that's e'er abiding In him who hears appeal;— For righteous peace We'll never cease To carry on, carry on.

With endurance ever shielding A hope forever bright; And a soul that is unyielding In battling for the right; With a will forever wielding New valor in the fight; With Spartan heart We'll do our part To carry on, carry on.

Patriotic Austrian.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—In order that his three sons who are serving in the United States army may not be weeded out as alien enemies and that his fourth son may serve the flag when called in the next draft, John Kohn, a native of Austria-Hungary, but intensely American, appeared before federal officers here and asked to be allowed to take out citizenship papers.

Can Only Be Sure of Today.

Today is your day and mine; the only day we have; the day in which we play our part. What our part may signify in the great whole we may not understand, but we are here to play it, and now is our time. It is a part of love, not cynicism. It is for us to express love in terms of human helpfulness. This we know, for we have learned from sad experience that any other source of life leads toward decay and waste.—David Starr Jordan.

How Sugar Became a Necessity.

Man's enormous need for sugar is the result of the evolution of his digestive system. Our remote ancestors in the European forests of the ice age were able to digest cellulose and get the sugar out of it, as a goat or a camel does now. The organ which did this work was the vermiform appendix. Later, man began to get enough sugar by converting the starch in grains and fruits. Then he discovered the process of cooking, which makes this conversion of starches into sugar much easier, and even in some cases performs the conversion. When sugar was discovered, it was at first regarded as a curiosity, then served as a luxury, and finally became the necessity which it now is, as men's stomachs became accustomed to its use. It is, then, a partially digested food, and a highly concentrated form of energy. The sugar-eating man has survived because he took a great burden off his digestive tract and thereby had more energy for other work. Hence man has become a confirmed sugar eater.

Good Teeth Start With Infancy. One of a Series of Informative Articles on Dental Hygiene—No. 3. GOOD teeth, well taken care of, add a charm to any face. A child with a deformed mouth enters the race of life with a big handicap. There is nothing that detracts more from a person's appearance than unsightly or irregular teeth. Straight, even teeth—a perfectly shaped mouth—rest very largely with mother's care in infancy. Few realize the danger likely to result from the habit of sucking the thumb. This tends to force out the upper front teeth and jaw, and to push back the lower front teeth and jaw. A deformed face is the result. This deformity causes the teeth to come in irregularly. Deformed jaws help to cause advanced and mouth-breathing, and mental development is retarded by displacement of the bones of the jaws and face. Do not neglect the temporary teeth. They represent the structure on which the permanent teeth are built. If lost by decay before their time, the permanent teeth will be crowded and irregular. A child's temporary molars are not fully replaced by the permanent teeth until the tenth or twelfth year after birth. Published by the State Dental Association of Oregon.
