Eleven Geese with Three Shells

A true huntsman story told as part of the incidents of the annual Rod and Gun Club contest is the one about T. E. Hulery who was with a party in Gilliam county. It seems the party were all in their places in the pits waiting for the geese to come in the early morning dawn, when Tom suddenly decided to go after a cripple one of the party had brought down and which was laying out in the field.

He took his gun with him but no shells except the three in the magazine. The geese began coming as he was walking out away from the pits and rather than spoil the luck of the party he flopped onto the top of a straw dump until the geese passed, but instead of passing they lit all around him—three bands—and when all were nicely feeding he raised and fired all the shells he had, one shot to the left another to the right and one in front, with the result of eleven geese as his reward.

Old Time Buffalo Hunt Featured

The passing of the monarch of the plains—the American bison, generally called the buffalo—is recalled by "The Feud" the new Tom Mix feature which William Fox will present on the 18th at Moro Theater.

A herd of bison and a bison hunt are shown on the screen in this feature. Tom Mix and his company went from Los Angeles, California, to Ponca City, Oklahoma, to get the animals to be photographed. There are fewer than 5000 bison left in the whole United States according to the most recent estimate and the famous 101 Ranch, owned by Col. Joe Miller, contains the largest single herd. Permission to photograph the herd was obtained through the personal friendship between Tom Mix and Col. Miller, who even permitted the daredevil star to shoot down one of his bison during the hunt now recorded in films.

Notes From the Schools

A program will be given in the Auditorium on December 21st to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth.

Willis Buxton, former Moro High School student, spoke of his experiences in the navy during the war at a high school assembly recently. All enjoyed his talk very much.

There will be a Christmas tree and program in the auditorium on December 23d. We are working hard to make it a success and hope to have a large and appreciative audience.

For the rest of the semester school will dismiss at 3:40 p. m. instead of 4:00.

Allida Douma has been elected manager of the basket ball girls team.

Florence McDonald, who is at home ill with the measles, is reported to be recovering nicely.

The high school boys held an athletic meeting in the laboratory last Monday week in the afternoon to select basket ball leaders for this year. The boys selected Willard Urquhart as manager and Chester Andersen as captain.

Story of Love and Duty Well Told

When Allen Holubar, assisted by Olga Link Schoh, wrote "Once to Every Woman" as a starring vehicle for Dorothy Phillips, there was no intention to preach a sermon or point a moral. The scenario was written with a view of providing a drama that would appeal to the great American public by its sympathetic quality, human nature and gentle humor, and to permit Miss Phillips to exercise that skill and artistry that have made her beloved by all theatergoers.

The story of Aurora Meredith—the role portrayed by Miss Phillips—show that true happiness is to be found at home, where love is genuine and affection real. Only in "Once to Every Woman" the authors have made use of no allegorical characters or incidents. The characters are real people of today—neighbors of the average man and woman in the audience, and situations are modern and thoroughly human. The story shows the futility of seeking for happiness through selfish motives and the shallowness of friendship gained through mere worldly success.

The lesson is gently brought home through a series of the most entertaining incidents that make "Once to Every Woman," which is to be shown at Moro Theatre on Friday, December 24th, a worthy successor to Miss Phillips' former successes, "The Heart of Humanity," "The Right to Happiness," and "Hell Morgan's Girl."

Money Gifts

Among the presents the Christmas season brings us we sometimes find gifts of money that are very acceptable.

For these extra funds this institution's Certificates of Deposit are a most practical investment.

The fact that they are written for as little as $5.00 or as much as $10,000 to run for as short a time as six months or as long as one year, gives them a flexibility that covers a wide range of individual cases.

Come in and see us about certificates to meet your particular needs.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE ARLINGTON NATIONAL CEMETERY.

FITTING, indeed, it is that the national cemetery should occupy a position atop the Virginia hills which line the placid Potomac opposite the capital of the nation.

The grounds comprise about 1,100 acres and once were the property of the grandson of Martha Washington, whose only child married the conspicuous military leader, General Robert E. Lee, through whom it passed into the possession of the United States, in 1864.

So peaceful and beautiful is this spot that one half suspects nature just lovingly shaped it for the very purpose for which it is being used. The portion now used for burial purposes is inclosed within a wall of red sandstone. It is divided into sections, with tastefully-arranged avenues, drives and walks.

In this consecrated spot sleep the silent hosts "who gave their lives that the country might live"—approximately 25,000 of them at the present writing. Any honorably-discharged soldier, sailor or marine of the United States service is entitled to burial here.

In one section rest the remains of the sailors who were killed in the wreck of the Maine in the harbor of Havana; in another the remains of 2,111 nameless soldiers gathered from various battlefields, camps and abandoned cemeteries. Here, too, are the graves of many of our brave generals and admirals, including that of Quartermaster General Meigs, who suggested to President Lincoln that this site be converted into a military cemetery. Also some time-worn stones marking the graves of several officers of the Revolutionary war.

Christmas Day at Moro Theater

A new Harry Carey picture in which the popular film star is said to exhibit all the likable qualities of boyish enthusiasm, prevailing good humor and virile manhood that have characterized his other recent successes, is coming to the Moro Theatre on Christmas Day. "Bullet Proof," produced under the direction of Lynn Reynolds, is the star's newest vehicle. Carey is supported by Kathleen O'Connor, who has attracted attention by her work in other productions. In "Bullet Proof" Carey has the role of Pierre, a young man studying for the priesthood in a rough section of Northwestern America, where a member of the clergy must be developed physically as well as mentally. The murder of his father leads Pierre from a career in the church to a life pledged to avenge his parent's death.

One night Pierre comes upon a girl pinned beneath a fallen tree. While he is trying to save her they both are buried by a landslide. Each thinks the other dead until they meet unexpectedly several years later, after he has avenged his father's death.
