Be An International Farmer

Buy International machines for the most successful operation of your farm, then keep them 100 percent International as long as they last by using only Genuine I H C Repairs. Be an International Farmer, and we will back you up by International Service, which is prompt, dependable and permanent.

What an Experienced Farmer Knows

Any farmer of experience can tell about how long his farm machinery will run before the parts that need replacement will wear out. These include, with many others, shares, shovels, guards, knives, sections, blades, teeth, etc.

Order Repairs Early

All these items should be listed and ordered early, far in advance of the time when they will be needed. You will save time and money by ordering all the repairs at one time. This will save you money later in the season, when you may be obliged to pay for long distance telephone calls, and express or parcel post charges on numerous small orders.

When Delays Are Expensive

And, what may later prove much more costly than these charges, is the time lost waiting for repairs just when the implement should be working to capacity in the field.

As the International Dealer, we maintain an International Service Station for Your Convenience

Clean Up Day Results

Clean-up Day in Moro last week was not one of the best of the spring assortment, but as far as results achieved it could not be excelled by any such day in the past. The day itself was windy and cold, but the willing workers paid little attention to such details and soon had rubbish of all kinds going to the "dumping ground" at the edge of town in wagons, trucks, and tractor train loads.

A visit through the district after the day's work showed a most marvelous transformation that clearly showed the skillful attention to details that had been given the effort for a "clean-up day" in Moro by the local American Legion post and the membership.

A noon lunch was served to all workers in a vacant office room on First street and, incidentally, this was as much enjoyed as any other portion of the day owing to the indoor group as well as those who were more used to the strenuous outdoor life typified during the day by all workers.

It is the intention that a second day will soon be inaugurated for special work at the City Park, changing fences, etc., to make it more accessible for the motorists who will soon be coming through Sherman county.

Elliott Family Reunion

A family reunion was held at the J. O. Elliott home Easter Sunday it being the first time Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Meloy, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Bull, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Everett, Milo Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Adlard, Owen and Eugene Elliott, Hollis Bull, Willis and Wilbur Elliott, and baby Rolla Everett.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Elliott are 67 years of age, both well, and still live on the old home place, which they homesteaded some thirty or more years ago. They have nine grandchildren and one great grandchild.

The Moro boys and baseball management sincerely ask assistance and support of the home people in only one way and that is to turn out to games. The boys and the management have to offer in return the following:

First of all, strictly home boys playing on the team.

Second, new uniforms and equipment.

Third and most important of all during present hard times, this equipment is all paid for by the boys. We are not asking anyone to contribute the usual amount of $2.50 or $5.00 toward some imported player or players. Neither are we asking you to contribute toward paying for the uniforms or the equipment.

Lastly, all we ask of the public is to support us by coming to games and boosting for us. We are striving hard to get in position to play some Saturday afternoon games, but at present we cannot persuade our different opponents to getting together on Saturday. Immediately after the rush spring work is over we are satisfied we can stage Saturday baseball.

Cheer up! Pep up! Show up! to games and kid the boys to victory in America's foremost game—Baseball. Moro Athletic Club, Moro, Oregon.

Toothache

There are so many different forms of toothache that each person probably has a different experience from anyone else. There are even times when it is very difficult really to say that the pain that is being suffered is a toothache, although almost everyone thinks that there would be no difficulty whatever in recognizing this particular form of pain.

In addition to pain directly about the teeth, an aching tooth can cause pain in the ear or in the eye or almost any form of headache, facial neuralgia or pains in the neck or arm, and there have been cases on record in which practically all pain of an aching tooth was felt in the sole of the foot.

The evil result of an aching tooth is not so much the pain inflicted on the patient at the time as it is the harm done to the general system by the absorption of pus from the infected root of the tooth.

It is quite true that not all aching teeth are abscessed, because the slightest exposure of the pulp will result in sharp pain. But this exposure is bound to result in the death of the pulp, and so will have following in the train of this pain the certainty of infection, which means absorption.

There are other cases in which the pulp is not exposed, but, from some form of irritation, such as a tooth being bitten upon too hard or being exposed unnaturally to extremes of heat and cold, or being ground down for crows or bridges, the irritation will sometimes cause the pulp to die.

When the pulp dies it immediately begins decomposition. This causes the formation of gas, which in turn makes very high pressure upon the nerve filaments that supply the pulp and this pressure is carried back over the main branch of the fifth nerve where it may be relayed to many parts of the body, so that from the reflex pressure at the tip of the root of a tooth you can have pain in almost any part of the body. This is in addition to the evils and the pains that result from the actual absorption either of pus or of pus products.

An aching tooth is not only uncomfortable, but it is also very dangerous.
