Joint I.O.O.F. Meeting

Moro lodge No. 118 I.O.O.F., assisted by Sherman No. 157 of Wasco, met at Moro's hall Monday night and jointly conferred the third degree on three candidates. There were eight lodges represented at the meeting, as shown by the visitors register, and, all told, those present totaled 77 members. The evening program concluded with a fine lunch. The district convention meets at Moro the first Monday in October and preparations will soon be in order to entertain this body. The district is composed of Hood River, Wasco, and Sherman counties. A record crowd is anticipated, as Moro will be easily reached by trains and auto.

"The Dwelling Place of Light"

What may be classified as one of the really great photo-dramas will be at Moro Theatre Tuesday June 28. "The Dwelling Place of Light" it is called, a Benjamin B. Hampton Production, made from the great novel of that author, Winston Churchill.

The story is an absorbing one throughout and embodies some of the greatest scenic effects ever brought to the silver screen. There is heart interest a-plenty, thrills galore and from first to last the picture fairly tingles with action. A splendid cast of players make up the cast, including some of the most popular artists of the day. Viewed from any angle, "The Dwelling Place of Light" is a great picture. It stands head and shoulders over the usual run of screen productions and marks an absolutely new era in motion picture entertainment. Without being "high brow,"—for there are just as many thrills packed into its footage as can be found in any picture,—it will bring a wonderful lesson home to everyone who views it. And it is our sincere belief that everyone should.

Combine Threshing Charges

Interested farmers in Sherman county will meet at the court house at Moro next Tuesday afternoon, June 28th, at two o'clock to settle upon the fair price for combining grain this year. While this is a question which logically should be settled by the men who are going to do the cutting, it is their desire that every farmer who is interested be present at this meeting next Tuesday. Few people realize that the Sherman County Branch Experiment Station is the best dry land station in the world or the hundreds of thousands of dollars it has been worth to this section. It can be made of greater value by using it more. Every farmer is invited to visit the station this Saturday afternoon, June 25th. The time is from two until five o'clock.

We pay parcel post one way on all shoe repairing. Good quality leather and work. Joe Amore, The Dalles, Oregon.

Don't Fail to See "Humoresque"

Fannie Hurst's most appealing story, "Humoresque," has been transferred to the screen and will be the feature attraction at Moro Theatre next Thursday June 20. The intensely human atmosphere of the novel is said to have been incorporated into the picture with singular success. The story centers around Leon Kantor, a boy of the Ghetto, who shows an intense love for music. His mother who has always wanted a musician-son, is delighted and on his seventh birthday buys him a violin. Leon's playmate is pretty Gina Ginsberg.

Fifteen years later, Leon is a recognized genius. On the night of his triumph at a big concert given for his people of the Ghetto, he enlists Leon returns from France with a shattered shoulder and it is said that he will never be able to play the violin again.

Leon's music is his all. He becomes morose and discouraged. Before the war he had become engaged to Gina. Now he wishes to release her from marrying him—a cripple. But in a very wonderful way he is restored to full strength and, to the joy of his mother and Gina, turns toward new conquests in the realm of music.

Alma Rubins is the featured player in "Humoresque," and Gaston Glass and Vera Gordon are also included in the cast.

"What's Your Hurry?"

That there are thrills concealed in the prosaic motor truck, as well as in the graceful lines of the racing automobile is proven by Wallace Reid's latest picture, "What's Your Hurry?" which will be on view at the Moro Theatre this Saturday. As "Dusty" Rhodes, auto racer, the breezy star wins a speedy tussle on the track, but fails to impress Patrick MacMurrin, whom "Dusty" hopes to have as a father-in-law. Pat is the manufacturer of Pakro trucks.

"Dusty" tries to demonstrate his worth as publicity man for the Pakro, but only succeeds in getting more deeply "in wrong." However, when a big irrigation dam threaten to yield under the strain of a raging storm and to bring disaster upon the valley below, "Dusty" not only shows his own mettle but also brings Pakro trucks to the fore.

"What's your Hurry?" is the work of Byron Morgan, who also wrote "The Roaring Road" and "Excuse My Dust." Lois Wilson was never more charming as the leading woman and Charles Ogle and Clarence Burton are also in the cast.

For Sale at a Bargain

One small stationary threshing outfit, consisting in part of a separator, gasoline engine, cook house, etc., one Studebaker car; two incubators. Inquire of Susie I. Hastings r.f.d., Moro, Oregon.

Very little interest was taken by the general public in the annual school meeting for Moro district, it taking but a few minutes for those attending to elect D. E. Stephens as director and R. C. Ornduff as clerk, both to succeed themselves. The report of the clerk showed there were 250 voters in the district, 148 pupils of school age, 41 pupils above the 8th grade, nine teachers employed, 1227 books in the school library. Disbursements for the last year totaled $14,587.62; receipts, $13,322.79; balance on hand last year, $2,999.64; balance this year, $1,728.81; tax levy this year, $11,820.00.

Truman Strong and family returned Tuesday after an auto trip down the Columbia Highway and through the Willamette valley as far south as Eugene where they visited with Mr. Strong's parents and attended the wedding of his sister, Miss Vivian. They also stopped a few days at Corvallis to attend Farmers Week at O. A. C. and at Lebanon where they visited with G. W. Brock and family.

DENTAL HYGIENE

One of Series of Articles Written Specially For the Observer by Dr. Howard Gove

"What is a Dead Tooth?"

In order to answer this question as to what is a Dead Tooth and when is it in danger of infecting the human system so that it may be understood by all it will be necessary to describe in a general way the anatomy of the tooth.

The main body of the tooth is composed of dentine. Over this dentine is a thick covering of enamel which terminates at the margin of the gum tissue. At the occlusal part of the tooth the enamel is quite thick and as it approaches the gum it becomes thinner, terminating a short distance under the margin of the gum. The root of the tooth is composed of a substance called cementum and, in the center of the tooth, is the pulp which is composed of blood vessels and nerve tissue united in a cable-like tissue surrounded by a membrane which unites them as one tissue.

Around the outside of the root is a very important membrane which affects the life or death of a tooth. This membrane is called the Peridental Membrane. The teeth are nourished by the blood vessels which enter the apical foramen and also through the peridental membrane. The root is embedded in the alveolus, surrounded by this membrane which serves as a cushion and the fine capillaries of the blood enter the peridental membrane, thus providing nourishment to the tooth.

A normal tooth that has a live pulp and live peridental membrane is called a vital tooth. One that has a dead pulp is said to be non-vital. One that has a dead pulp and dead peridental membrane is a truly "dead tooth" and it is an irritant to the body, a source of infection and should always be removed and replaced with an artificial one. A dead tooth is very dark in color and it feels dead and is so in every sense of the word. One that has been devitalized and pulp (nerve) canal properly filled may be as good a tooth as any and never cause any trouble. Whenever a devitalized tooth is the source of any trouble, it will have an abscess on the end of its root which is easily detected by a dentist and often by the patient.

Commencing July 6th, Dr. C. H. Johns, Chiropractor, will be at the Sherman Hotel, Wasco, Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week. Consultation free.

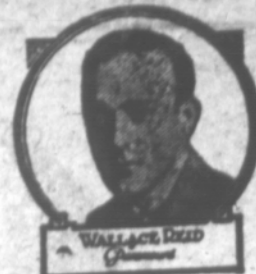

Wait for Dr. Freeze, if you need eye service. Trips each month to Moro and other towns.
