At the regular meeting of Moro lodge I. O. O. F. Monday evening arrangements were made to put the district convention through in a proper way. A committee of seven members, residents of Moro, were selected as a committee to have charge of the necessary arrangements for the coming event which will take place October 3d. A. M. Young, who is president of the District Convention appointed J. C. Harper, chairman, F. A. Sayrs, Dr. C. H. Johns, Geo. H. Hansen, C. V. Belknap, J. F. Foss, and G. E. Mathews. Because of Moro being centrally situated, a large attendance is anticipated.

Gold prospectors in New Guinea threw aside as worthless a lot of stuff which a mining engineer afterward told them was osmiridium, worth eight times as much as gold. But where's the excitement in striking osmiridium?

There is conviction settling fast upon the public mind that it would be better for a while if the people of this country were to devote more time to raising their children and not so much time to the raising of funds.

It remained for a counterfeiter arrested in Poland to say something good about business in Russia, whence he had recently come, because, as he explained, his business did not pay in that country.

"Reputation" Tuesday Aug. 30

Fay McMillan deserts her husband and younger daughter and goes on the stage. The husband dies and the child is raised in an orphan asylum under the name of Pauline Stevens. The actress goes to Europe and under the name of Laura Figlan, becomes the most popular stage figure of the continent.

The girl Pauline feels the call of the stage and runs away to New York. She does not know who her mother is. The mother in London is at the height of her popularity. She is wine and dined on all sides. She begins to move in a fast set.

A New York premier of Laura Figlan's successful drama is arranged and widely advertised. Pauline Stevens, struggling to get on the stage, notices that she resembles the famous actress and goes to the office, seeking a position as understudy.

In the meantime, Laura Figlan has broken her New York contract. The manager and his press agent are frantic. When Pauline walks in, they think she is Laura Figlan, after all, and welcome her with open arms. She senses the situation and accepts it, studying for the part and absolutely passing herself off as the great Laura Figlan.

The real Laura Figlan, friendless and almost in the gutter, by reason of her debauchery, finally comes to America. She arrives while Pauline Stevens is in the midst of her opening night. The girl is a greater actress than her mother ever was.

The haggard, dissipated London Flame confronts the younger woman on the stage and accuses her of being an impostor and of stealing the Laura Figlan's reputation. She is hustled from the theatre and the show goes on.

That night Pauline struggles with her soul and finally decides to give back the stolen reputation. With Jimmy, the press agent, she seeks out the haggard visitor and finds her dead.

From a locket she learns it was her mother. Backed by Jimmy, who loves her, Pauline decides to merge her own identity into that of her unfortunate mother, so that the fame and reputation of Laura Figlan shall continue bright and undying.

Attorney W. C. Bryant delights in garden experimentation where the ultimate result is discernable as a reward for the labor, effort and thought expended to produce the desired result. From the generous assortment of Yellow Bantam and White Corey corn left with us this week, we know that the very best of table corn can be grown in Sherman county by a judicious selection of seed and after several years of seed selection it can be said that Mr. Bryant has certainly achieved justifiable results.

The supply of air and water furnished by the city in the local mains will be discontinued. The well is to be cleaned and obstruction removed by a deep well drill now being placed in position. The air in the mains was caused by the pump not being able to lift water and instead giving a plentiful supply of air. The higher sections of the city are just about out of water until the plant is again in operation.

Hans Tompson and family returned this week from an extended trip to Mr. Thompson's old home in Denmark. While away he visited with Fred Granby, a former resident of this county in the Monkland district, and also with the parents of Chris Schultz a member of the A.E.F. who died in the World War and in whose memory the American Legion local post has been named.

Oregon State Fair: Salem, September 26th to October 1st. A wealth of agricultural, livestock, and industrial displays, an excellent racing program, high class amusements and attractions, and ideal camping grounds. A. H. Lea, Manager, Salem, Oregon.

A tuition fee of $60 will hereafter be charged students from states outside of Oregon, in addition to the fees now charged all students, following a joint action of committees of the boards of regents of the U. of O. and the O. A. C.

"Go And Get It" Saturday, August 27

Dealing with a theory of mental phenomenon that is declared to have electrified blasé audiences of the east, Marshall Neilan's latest production "Go And Get It" comes to the Moro Theatre, Saturday. "Go and Get It" is a newspaper story in which an energetic team of reporters unearth a mystery of startling nature. Back of the entire mystery plot is the pertinent question of the day: Is the substitution of new human organs practicable so far as the prolongation of life is concerned?

The audience will be mystified and thrilled by the unusual events that line the path of the reporter who is told to "Go and Get It." The entire plot is based on this scientific phenomenon although the story is a most truthful picture of newspaper reporter's work.

New Funeral Home

A pleasant location in the residential section of the city, thus eliminating the noise and confusion always found in the down town business districts.

Private drives and street facilities, making it possible to handle funeral processions without confusion.

The arrangement of our parlor as regards furnishings, lights and conveniences, has been planned to give QUIET and RESTFUL surroundings.

A Real Home and Home Surroundings

Our home apartments occupying the second and third floors of the establishment, afford the opportunity of rendering unusual service and accommodation to out of town folks. A lady attendant is always in the building to render service. Our parlor occupying the entire first floor is so arranged and equipped that a distinctive atmosphere marks every service.

The Same SERVICE Rendered to all

Owing our establishment, we are enabled to operate at a very low overhead expense. Our assortment of stock is such that those desiring moderate priced goods will find satisfaction, while those preferring the more expensive can be supplied.

Our rates are reasonable and we plan to give a SERVICE which will eliminate any idea of profiteering on the misfortunes of others. We do not believe in commercializing the bereavements and sorrows of grief-stricken friends. Our first consideration will be for those we serve and in rendering service there will be no detail too small to receive our attention.

EXPERIENCE -- SERVICE -- SATISFACTION

Our ten years experience in undertaking means that we can serve you with satisfaction. Also the fact that

We Hold Both an Oregon and California License will establish your confidence in our ability.

Our establishment is now open at all times and we invite the public to become acquainted by a visit to the building.
