Kent News Letter

C. L. Ireland, the Observer editor, was a Kent visitor Monday.

Sheriff Chrisman was in Kent Monday on business connected with his office.

"The Deer Slayers" returned Monday. They had the luck to bag four deer.

Mr. and Mrs. Amick, Arthur Holt and Wren Hogue motored to Moro on Wednesday.

Mrs. Jan Dellinger is reported as improving under the special treatment she is receiving at Kansas City.

Mrs. C. E. English was called by telegram to Mohler, Oregon, because of the accidental death of a friend.

Mrs. Annie Orcutt, who has spent the summer in Kent, left for a visit with her daughter in Sharron, Wash.

Miss Ada Sprout of Battle Ground, Wash., has been visiting relatives the last two weeks, returned home Tuesday.

Marvin Howell is keeping batchelor's hall. We think he will make it all right as we understand he took manual training while in school and that ought to help in the cooking.

The teachers have all returned and school opened on time Monday. Mr. Sibly is to teach athletics. Just watch the boys' muscles now. Several have made punching bags during the summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brown, who the last two years have been farming on the Clark place, bought last fall by C. L. Ireland, has sold his outfit and lease to Joseph Gregg, of Shaniko. The family left last Wednesday for Portland where they plan to locate.

We are requested to announce that a County Law Enforcement Conference will be held in the Methodist church in this city at 3 o'clock September 21st, under the auspices of the Anti Saloon League of Oregon. At 8 p.m. a public mass meeting will be held at the same place where Captain Ebbert, of the League, will deliver a lecture on the subject of "The Unfinished Battle." Both the afternoon and evening meetings are open to the public and everyone interested in law and order is urged to attend. The object of the conference is to discuss every phase of the enforcement of prohibition, both federal and state. The conference will also take up the enforcement of liquor laws in this county.

Dr. C. H. Johns and family were pleasantly surprised Thursday last by Mrs. Johns' brother, A. R. Tracer and his friend, Ole Petersen, both from Junction City, Oregon. Mr. Tracer conducts a jewelry store at that place and Mr. Petersen is a prosperous farmer and dairyman of that section. They had motored through eight states before arriving at Moro on their return trip and annual vacation.

A New Orleans society woman is going to China to study the habits of ants, from which she hopes to get valuable ideas pertaining to gynarchical government, or government by women, ants being classified as gynarchists. But our notion of ideal gynarchy is where the gynarch maintains her throne in an American home peopled with about seven fat chubby children, says Houston Post. And American society women would better kill the ants and study gynarchy along that line.

A Boston man who is being sued for running his car over a dog claims that the little beast deliberately sought death. If he was a poodle, we can well believe it, says Houston Post. It must have been that, despairing of ever knowing the joy of being a real dog and hating his job of baby, he became desperate and threw himself under the wheels of juggernaut.

There is entirely too much propaganda. Not one per cent of it is worth the postage it requires to transmit it. Ninety per cent of it is a nuisance. The man who pay for it are bunched, the men who perform the work waste their time, the people who get it are disgusted.

The fact that the Japanese have taken up baseball suggests the possibility that the Yip disputes may be settled by a few games between the all-Japanese champions and the American winners of the post-season games, with, perhaps, Judge Landis to referee.

The Chicago News says psychoanalysis has proved its claim to existence, but not to a seat in the front pews of science. Oh, well, it furnishes an excuse for a number of people to sidestep useful work, and we fancy that was all it was intended for.

The increase of 22.5 per cent in the automobile business during March, as announced by the Department of Labor, may explain a few things to the coal trade which is urging domestic consumers to put in next winter's supply without delay.

The prince of Monaco told a scientific congress the other day that the ocean is the cradle of life and the North Atlantic an immense cycle. Take this sweetly solemn thought home and try it on your roulette wheel.

A special election to vote on the proposed issue of municipal bonds amounting to $130,000 to take up Condon's funded and warranted indebtedness and to extend the present water system, has been set for September 17.

BRIEF GENERAL NEWS

-- Zell's -- Funeral Home

A Short Letter to the Public in which Old Acquaintances are Introduced in a New Capacity

With the Rapid Development of Eastern Oregon, new institutions of Public Service are springing into existence. All of these are seeking the CONFIDENCE of the people. This can always be gained by rendering SATISFACTORY SERVICE. But if the public is acquainted with the individuals who are behind an enterprise and have confidence in their integrity they will also have confidence in the enterprise from the very outset.

WHO are the MEN back of ZELL'S FUNERAL HOME?

C. M. ZELL, the senior member of the firm, is well known thru-out this section of the state as plain "Milt" Zell and numbers among his friends around Moro and Grass Valley the Powells, Sayns, Peetzs, Shaeffers, Heaths, Moores, and many other well known citizens. He is a brother of Mrs. Oliver Powell of Crook county, who formerly lived here. George E. Lowellen, formerly of the Moro Mercantile Co., is a brother-in-law, Mr. Zell having married Miss Ora Lowellen. Mr. Zell is an experienced embalmer and funeral director, operating under both an Oregon and California license. Before opening the new institution in The Dalles he conducted his own funeral parlor for several years in California.

HILDRED ZELL, the son, who is the other member of the firm, will be recalled as the grandson of J. W. Dunn, the well known blacksmith of Moro and Grass Valley. He has a large circle of relatives through this section among the Olds and Messingers.

A. ZELL, altho not a member of the firm, is one of the old pioneers of Central and Eastern Oregon and is deeply interested in the New Funeral Home conducted by his son and grandson. "Grandfather" Zell is one of the best known of the old-timers and now makes his home in Prineville. At the age of eighty-seven he enjoys good health and still expects, during his lifetime, to witness a remarkable growth of industry and population in Eastern Oregon.

ZELL AND SON are confident that in seeking to serve the public with "SERVICE THAT SATISFIES" and rates that are reasonable they will secure the confidence which is so essential in any commercial or professional undertaking.
