MARSHFIELD HAS DISASTROUS FIRE

Marshfield, Or.—The entire business section of Marshfield was threatened with complete destruction when fire broke out in the Portland rooming house early Saturday morning, spread to nearby buildings and swept north and south on both sides of Front street, razing twenty-five business structures and four residences in the heart of the city.

Many valuable records and maps were destroyed when the city hall, the engineer's office, the city jail and the fire department headquarters went up in flames.

One man, thought to be Henry Horstman, known as "Dutch Henry," was probably burned to death when he was trapped in the Portland rooming house, located over the Gildeshelm junk store.

One fireman and a dozen residents on First street were severely burned and injured.

PRESCOTT FLOUR MILL DESTROYED

Prescott, Wash.—Starting from an unknown cause in the warehouse, fire totally destroyed the Prescott flour mill, owned by the Portland Flouring Mills company, causing a loss estimated from $100,000 to $150,000, depending on the amount of new wheat that had been hauled in for storage.

The mill and machinery, warehouse, office, residence of Manager Dunlap and the entire plant was destroyed.

Wheat hauling had been in progress for many days past and, according to estimates here, there must have been fully 50,000 bushels of wheat on hand.

The mill was built 33 years ago by the late H. P. Isaacs of Walla Walla. It was originally a 300-barrel mill, but was increased many years ago and then about two years ago it was rebuilt and the capacity increased from 500 to 600 barrels a day, and the most modern milling machinery installed.

The storage capacity of the warehouse was about 650,000 bushels.

BOND CASE IS SIGNIFICANT

Columbia Irrigation Securities Held General Obligation.

Olympia, Wash.—Declaration of the supreme court in the Columbia irrigation district bonds case that irrigation district bonds are general obligation bonds is the most important decision of its kind that the court has ever rendered, according to Dan A. Scott, director of conservation and development.

The court in effect found that the sale of the lands for general taxes, while relieving the land of delinquent previous irrigation taxes, does not relieve the land from continuing liability for future irrigation taxes, and that unless a weakening of the security is shown, the law in force at the time the assessment is levied should govern the form of assessment rather than the law in force when the bonds were issued.

Crown of Hapsburgs Lost. New York.—The diamond and ruby-studded crown of the Hapsburgs, former rulers of Austria-Hungary, has been stolen from the Spanish consulate in Vienna, where it was placed for safe keeping after the revolution began. It became known here.

Old-Time Automobiles. One hundred years ago, or, more exactly, on December 8, 1821, the Journal des Debats published the following item:

"There is now much talk in Milan of an invention from which the author, a certain Cataneo, has just got a license from the emperor of Austria. Several times already they have tried in England and France to make a carriage move without horses, but every time it was observed that the mechanism gave rise to insuperable difficulties. Mr. Cataneo not only dispenses with the team, but by means of his mechanism one single horse keeps up and accelerates the movement to a point at which he does easily the work of four horses."—New York Tribune.

Japanese Are Good "Shots."

The Japanese guns may certainly never shoot, but there is one kind of shooting that won't cease so long as a yen remains in Japanese pockets over here," writes a correspondent at Washington. "I refer to 'crapshooting.'"

"The Japanese learned the game while they were playing another down at the Pan-American building, and they have the average craps maniac beaten before he starts.

"One may watch a handful of the little men from Nippon throwing dollars on the table for all the world like a multimillionaire playing rouge at night at Monte Carlo.

"They are beautifully consistent and lose their dollars with a smile just as they win them. They clear a British diplomat out of all his money, and then offer to lend him taxi fare back to his hotel."—Detroit News.

A Bird of a Pun. The prize for the season's worst pun goes to Christopher Morley. Observing four ladies waiting outside a pay car on a siding, ready to "bone" the men as they came out for a contribution to some, doubtless, worthy cause, he paraphrastically commented: "Where the car-cash is, there are the mult yers."—Boston Transcript.

New Crabs Propagate. Crabs reproduce by egg, which are laid in the summer season, shortly after the female has shed the hard shell. She has an abdominal appendage in which the eggs are carried about for safety until they hatch.

The Doctor's Prerogative. Doctor (as agonized patient rushes in)—"Good Lord, man! Don't yell like that—at least wait until I tell you where you are suffering."—La Rire (Paris).

STATE CAN'T MOVE INFECTED WHEAT

Olympia, Wash.—The state has no authority to compel the owners of weevil infected wheat, stored in bins or special piles, to remove it to disinfect the warehouse. O. R. Schuman, assistant attorney general, held. The warehouse company can, however, upon the refusal of the owner to remove the grain, terminate the storage contract and cause the wheat to be transported. The opinion follows an inquiry by R. R. White, chief state inspector, in behalf of the Pacific Coast elevator, which operates grain warehouses in all parts of Eastern Washington. The grain, it is said, has become infected during storage periods of two years.
