Live Lines About People Who Have Come and Gone

J. M. Syron, formerly a resident of Moro vicinity, now living near Kent, was a Tuesday visitor in our city.

Arvid Andersen and wife, from near the Fulton Canyon district, were visiting last Sunday at the E. M. Badger home.

J. Thomsen, superintendent of Gorman Sunday School, advises us that the regular winter sessions will be resumed as soon as the rush of fall farm work is finished.

Visit the Closing Out Sale at Freeman & Co. during Fair Week.

New line men's fall over coats, going out at cost at Freeman & Co.

Men's and boys' mackinaws and leather vests—at cost—Freeman & Co.

Abstracts promptly made by the Sherman County Abstract Co., Moro, Oregon.

Children's sleeping garments—in all line of sizes—selling for cost at Freeman & Co.

We pay parcel post one way on all shoe repairing. Good quality leather and work. Joe Amore, The Dalles, Oregon.

Order your Hood River apples at once: Baldwins, $1.25; Newtowns and Spitz, $1.50; Delicious and Bananas, $2.00; prices quoted are for delivery at Moro. W. F. Jackson, r. f. d. 1, Hood River, Oregon.

Watch papers for date. Dr. Freeze's next visit to Sherman county towns.

As a special inducement to buy a range during the demonstration of the Great Majestic Range at the store of Ginn, Coleman & Co., commencing on October 9th and continuing until October 21st, every purchaser of a Majestic Range will have his or her choice of two fine cooking sets free. We have a presentiment that there will be many fine new Great Majestic Ranges in kitchens of our neighbors and friends before the demonstration sale is concluded. Temptation to own a Majestic Range is irresistible when one learns the facts about the Great Majestic in its relation to economy in the home; many will find themselves saying "it's no use to put up with an old stove or range any longer."

A mineralized tooth, more than four inches in length, found in Newberry crater by Peter Valley of Bend has been classified by United States biological survey officials at Washington, D. C., as that of a horse, probably an extinct species. Judging from the size of the tooth, central Oregon's prehistoric steed was at least three times the size of the average horse of today.

Ed Forrest of Broadbent, Coos county, is a contender for Luther Burbank's crown. Mr. Forrest has developed a Hubbard squash which seemingly has indefinite keeping qualities. He exhibited his first specimens at the Coos and Curry county fairs in 1921 and again this year exhibited the same specimens, apparently as sound as when they were plucked from the vines last year.

Completion of the Ashland-Klamath Falls road, better known as the Greens Spring road, probably will be left to the voters of Jackson county at the November election. Klamath county has voted $300,000 in bonds to be used to complete the road from Klamath Falls to the Jackson county line, and it is estimated that it will require about $75,000 to complete the remainder in Jackson county.

Because of the inability of the state highway department to obtain cement, work on three road-construction contracts in different parts of the state has been suspended. The contracts affected by the cement shortage include the Rex-Tigard section, paving through the city of Jefferson and the construction of a bridge over the Umpqua river at Winchester and a bridge over the Willamette river near Aurora.

BRIEF NEWS

Paragraphs on State, County and Community's Events

A. G. Putter, his sister-in-law, Mrs. W. A. Putter, and J. Thomsen were visitors in Moro Monday from the Gorman district.

A. B. Chapman, engaged in farming east of Moro, was in our city Tuesday. Mr. Chapman was a lieutenant in the aviation corps during the war.

A little stranger, Dorothy Ellene, arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Johnson on September 29th.

C. E. Ward and daughter Phyllis, father and sister to Mrs. E. M. Badger, were Sunday visitors from Wasco.

Mrs. W. A. Putter has returned to Sherman county from Pendleton, where she has resided for some time, and has taken over the supervision of her farm holdings east of Monkland, known as the Fredburg place.

J. A. Kellar was a visitor in Moro Tuesday from his farm near Klondike. He said that this fall was more like the first year, in 1920, when he began farming in Sherman county, in that the supply of moisture came at an opportune time.

Sheriff Hugh Chrisman returned from Portland the first of the week with Lyle Boots in custody on a charge of stealing a saddle from the W. H. Dingle farm near Klondike. It is reported that the young man had hidden in a car of household goods shipped from Wasco and was found, with the saddle in his possession, when the car was opened at Portland.

Due to recent legislation by congress the state of Oregon will receive for the years 1923-24-25 federal road aid to the amount of $2,995,892.

The run of chinook salmon in the Umpqua river, which is now practically at an end, was very light this season and very few silversides have been caught.

Led by the city planning commission, all forces in Pendleton are working toward a union depot for the Union and Northern Pacific railroads in that city.

An annual prize of $25 in gold has been offered to the student at Oregon Agricultural college excelling in forensic work for the year, by Jacob Reichart of Corvallis.

Reports received at Salem from rural districts indicate that the recent rains have not injured the prunes, and that picking has been continued without interruption.

Continuance of the dual election board system, whereby ballots are counted at the polls still are open, was recommended by the Multnomah county grand jury in a report.

Ruby Diller, an 18-year-old high school girl, was shot and almost instantly killed at Ashland by Earl Barnard, one year her junior, while playing with a loaded revolver.

An incipient cyclone in the vicinity of Irving, north of Eugene, tore down farm fences, blew limbs off trees and overturned the station building at Ross, on the Oregon Electric line.

Girl students at the Klamath county high school must hereafter wear the uniform dress adopted by the student body last year or present a satisfactory excuse for non-compliance.

The grand jury at Klamath Falls indicted J. W. Siemens and John Siemens Jr., his son, for alleged fraud in connection with failure of the First State and Savings bank, which closed last January.

William von der Hellen, of Medford and Eagle Point, was awarded the contract for construction of the Eagle Point irrigation district canal between Big Butte creek and Eagle Point on a bid of $140,000.

Vaughan & Bester, who own and operate a sawmill at Acme, on the lower Stuslaw river, soon will build a logging railway several miles long up Hadsell creek, to bring fir logs down to their plant.

Evergreen blackberries, which grow wild in great profusion in most parts of Clatsop county, are now in their prime and hundreds of persons are engaged in picking them both for sale and for domestic use.

The largest tax remittance to be received at the office of the Linn county tax collector covering taxes due on the second half of the year was turned over by the Weyerhaeuser Timber company. The amount was $11,215.32.

By a vote of 35 to 27, with 21 of the delegates absent, the Oregon state federation of labor, in session at Salem, adopted a resolution urging amendment of the Volstead act so as to permit of the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer.

Marguerite Stark, 13-year-old Portland girl, was proclaimed winner of the silver loving cup offered by the Oregon Farmer for the boy or girl scoring the highest number of points on any project at the state fair at Salem. Miss Stark scored 100 points in canning.

The secretary of state has turned over to the state treasurer $607,931.02, representing the net receipts of automobile registrations for the six months ending September 15. The money will be used in paying a part of $784,000 in interest due on highway bonds October 1.

The Oregon pear crop considerably exceeded the earlier estimates, reports F. L. Kent of the department of agriculture. The heavy spring drop did not prove to be as serious as anticipated. Indications are that the total 1922 pear shipments will amount to about 1650 carloads.

RENOWNED ARCTIC EXPLORER MAKES TRUE-TO-NORTH FILM

Play Showing Eskimo and His Customs Here for Two-Day Presentation.

Do you remember the great excitement stirred up not so many years ago when a certain Doctor Cook brazenly announced that he had discovered the north pole—and shortly afterwards, the renowned discoverer and explorer, Commodore Peary, returned to the United States and claimed the northern pivot of the earth as his own discovery, branding the gaudy doctor as a faker? The excitement that the two announcements caused almost rivaled the fake Armistice day and the real Armistice day announcements of more recent times.

Then there was Captain Amundsen, the south pole discoverer. Amundsen by the way, at this present writing, is now endeavoring to reach the north pole by aeroplane, and the good wishes of all Arctic adventurers are with him.

We have all heard of the exploits and adventures of the gentlemen in the polar regions, but we have only turned them over in our minds—we have never actually seen the hardships they were forced to endure. It has remained for one man to bring to this country an actual picture of life and love in actual Arctic regions—Robert J. Flaherty. And Mr. Flaherty was considerate enough to produce in that region the vivid photoplay of the frigid zone, "Nanook of the North," which has been secured by Pathe for world's distribution.

Robert J. Flaherty is a man who knows his ground. He was leader of five Sir William Mackenzie expeditions into north Hudson bay regions. The scientific records of Flaherty's explorations, including the discovery and charting of the Belcher Islands of Hudson bay, is contained in issues of the Geographical Review for June and August, 1918. During ten years covered by these explorations Flaherty lived in intimate association with the small tribe of Eskimos who inhabit the upper east coast of Hudson bay and the extreme northern part of Labrador, known as the Ungava peninsula. This region is one of the least accessible to white men on the north American continent, and its score or so of native families constitute a tribe of Eskimos peculiarly isolated and therefore faithful to their racial traditions and mode of life.

The photoplay, "Nanook of the North," contains all the obvious authority as to fidelity in detail, of honest realism and startling thrills, going with the achievements and reputation of Robert J. Flaherty, its explorer-producer.

The unique and splendid drama of it, Pathe officials declared, after their first view of it, "made everybody sit up." No need of other expert testimony was felt. The compliment of a special showing naturally was extended to the most famous of living explorers, the discoverer of the south pole, Captain Roald Amundsen, who was in New York, busy with preparations for his second "drift" across the north polar sea. Captain Amundsen, as a scientist, is familiar with the special problems which the Arctic regions hold for photography. Also, he is one of the very few white men who have personal knowledge of this particular tribe of Eskimos and the rigorous conditions in which they exist.

The two explorers—the greater and the lesser one, as Mr. Flaherty expressed it—compared notes of their personal observations as the ice-enclosed human drama, familiar to them, but undreamed of where the multitude of the earth's inhabitants lead their pumpered lives, was unfolded on the screen. No details of costume, implements, hunting and domestic customs—including the invariably affectionate treatment of children—escaped comment.

Yes, it was true, a wonderful picture, the great explorer heartily agreed.

"Nanook of the North" will be shown at the Moro theatre Saturday and Sunday at the regular popular admission.

The strength of advertising depends upon the strength of the conviction back of that advertising.

THE LITTLE BROTHERS OF THE NATION

There is no phase of the achievements of our government more creditable to us than that dealing with the acquirement and handling of our outlying possessions.

A foreigner speaking of the United States colonization work says: "There never was a colonizing power which set out so fast to teach and educate, the native races with which it came in contact. One great fact in development which citizens of the United States understand is that money spent on essentials is bound to pay itself back."

An interesting account of our insular and other outlying possessions is given in the latest booklet of the series on Our Government being issued monthly by this Institution. Are you receiving them?
