In spite of the fact that 118,597 applications for new patents were received by the national government during the last year there is nothing yet on the market that enables one to gain anything really worth while without working for it.

China, says a dispatch from there, is waiting for a strong man to appear as a leader. China seems to be, in that respect, in about the same predicament as all other nations.

The assertion that theater owners use sensational pictures to heat the blood of patrons to cut down the fuel bills is interesting, but what sort of pictures do they show during dog days to keep the patrons cool?

A man was arrested on a charge of counterfeiting British currency. Counterfeiting is one of the things about which the Russian and German governments do not have to worry.

The tractor, the milking machine, the electric churn and all the other modern appliances—maybe these have made it compulsory for the farmers to go to the city to find something to do.

Transient Family Loses Mother

Mrs. A. E. Morris, age 43, mother of six children died suddenly at Grass Valley Saturday afternoon. Twenty minutes before her serious sickness she was apparently in the best of health. Her husband summoned Dr. Thatcher immediately but nothing could be done. A sad feature of the case is that the family are strangers, but the good people of Grass Valley did all in their power to lighten the burden. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. U. C. Smothers in the Methodist church and interment at the local cemetery. The family are nice appearing and were well dressed and have the respect and esteem of the people of Grass Valley.

Ford Smashes Into Railroad Trestle

Friday morning at about ten o'clock three itinerant argonauts wrecked their Ford tourabout in the narrow confines of the underhead crossing of the Sherman highway south of Moro.

Ernest Patrick was the name of the steersman at the wheel as he earnestly tried to navigate between the bents of the railroad trestle. Patrick failed to fully estimate the resistant capabilities of a railroad trestle when in contact with a tin lizzie traveling at speed and limit possibilities.

The car was wrecked insofar as the front end was concerned. One passenger went out the only door a Ford has in the front. His hurry was great, he took the door with him. He received a broken rib or two from the door. A second passenger in the back seat, embraced the rear top of the front seat. The impact dented that part of the car fully four inches in the center. We have no information as to the dent in the passenger's anatomy.

The owner of the car has decided to stay in Sherman county, help with the harvest and reimburse the Williams Motor Co. their charges for attaching to the car a new radiator, two front fenders, lamps, etc., as well as practically rebuilding the front end of the sturdy little Ford.

Movie Features Real Cowboy Dance

Ever been to a real cowboy dance? The next best thing to attending one is to see it in "The Cowboy and the Lady," a Paramount Picture featuring Mary Miles Minter and Tom Moore. This is as near a replica of the genuine thing as could be devised. Real punchers took part in the festivities and the costume and action of the scene were faithfully mirrored.

It is in the dance scene of this picture that Charles Maigne, the director, has introduced a great thrill, when the villain meets his fate and the hero and heroine are both suspected of the crime. Then follows the big court room scene and the dramatic denouement. "The Cowboy and the Lady" will be shown at Moro Theatre this Saturday. The supporting cast is quite adequate.

The ranch scenes were made in Wyoming in some of the wildest country remaining in a state that has plenty of history from a viewpoint of wildness. Cattlemen are of the opinion that the stunts put on by the cowboys are better adapted to screen than to ranch work. However, it makes mighty interesting material for a photoplay, and the picture which is packed with drama and comedy, doubtless will attract much attention in Moro.

BRIEF NEWS

Paragraphs on State, County and Community's Events

The Hulery brothers, T. E. and W. F., are entertaining an aunt, who is visiting them from Oakland, California.

"Uncle" Jim Woods and wife are expected to return to Moro this week from an extensive visit with their sons and daughters who live at various places in the eastern part of Oregon and Washington and southern part of Idaho.

N. P. Hansen and family, of Portland, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Hansen's daughter, Mrs. Roy Kusman. They were returning from a motor trip to as far east as Lewiston and Moscow, Idaho, where they had been visiting with relatives of Mrs. Hansen.

Mrs. E. L. Bogart and two sisters were visiting in Moro last Sunday at the home of Mrs. W. Y. Shearer. Mrs. Bogart formerly lived in Moro, but is now residing at Shaniko where she is postmistress. The two sisters are residents of Albany, Oregon, visiting in Shaniko.

J. J. Miller and W. H. Carlisle, both well known residents of Sherman on the Columbia highway, were business visitors in Moro Monday. They were contemplating a trip to Umatilla county for the purpose of buying feeder cattle to place on their farm properties near Sherman.

Lieutenant G. W. Bates and wife were visitors in Moro last Friday at the home of Mrs. Bates father, R. J. Ginn. A number of Moro people will remember Mrs. Bates as Jennie Ginn. Lieutenant Bates is stationed at Portland connected with the national guard inspection service for the regular army.

The round trip to the Mt. Adams ice caves at Trout Lake was made by W. S. Powell and party last Sunday. They ferried on the going trip at Maryhill, thence to Goldendale and the ice caves. The return was made by way of White Salmon. Numbered in the party were W. S. Powell and family, George Ellsworth and family, and Mrs. Landry.

A young couple came into Moro late Saturday evening with the happy intention of launching their ship upon the placid waters of the matrimonial sea. The young man said they were residents of Grass Valley. It was noticed they drove a car with a Washington state license. Sad to relate, not being able to find any one who knew them and failing to have necessary witnesses, the license was refused.

A. G. McDonald, wife and daughter, were Saturday evening visitors in Moro from Wasco. Mr. McDonald was connected with the state highway engineering crew that located the Sherman highway between Wasco and Grass Valley. He is now connected with the Standard Oil Company, with headquarters at Wasco. Mr. McDonald said that work would soon begin on the construction of the company's distributing plant in this city.

We have on the editorial desk in the Observer office an 18-inch section of a branch off a Lambert cherry tree growing in the J. F. Foss yard. The branch is three-eighths of an inch in diameter and literally loaded with nice plump cherries, in such large clusters that the branch and its fruit could easily be used as an Indian war club. Mr. Foss said that the entire tree was carrying about the same quantity of fruit as this small specimen.

C. C. Young and wife motored Tuesday from The Dalles to Moro, where they visited with A. M. Young and wife, parents of C. C. Young. Accompanying the visitors were George Price and wife from Minneapolis, Minnesota, where Mr. Young's parents reside. Mrs. Price is a cousin to A. M. Young. She has taught school in Minneapolis for thirty years, and in all that time she has not missed ten days in any one year. Mr. and Mrs. Price came west over the Canadian Pacific and will return over the Sunset Route, after visiting with friends in Colorado.

C. E. Johnson and family returned Sunday from a ten day auto trip that comprised a swing around the circle of central, southern, western, and northern Oregon highways. The party left by the way of Bend, driving up to the rim of Crater Lake on the side opposite Crater Lake Lodge; then to Klamath Falls and by way of Green Mountain pass to Ashland, where they visited with Mr. Johnson's mother. On the trip north from Ashland, the party drove out from Grants Pass to the Josephine caves, then to Monmouth where they visited with relatives and from there, by way of Portland, to their home at Moro.

Notice to Holt Machine Owners

For the convenience of the owners of all Holt Caterpillars and Harvesters, we will keep our warehouse open every evening during the week and will be open on Sundays until noon only. Don't call for parts on Sunday afternoons, as the warehouse will be closed then. Geo. N. Crossfield, Wasco, Oregon.

Apologized to Prisoner.

A peer in England cannot be arrested for a civil debt. A curious case is on record where a bailiff was forced by the court to ask a peer's pardon for having arrested him. He had mistaken the peer for a commoner, he said.

Visits Moro After 13 Year Absence

President W. M. Jardine, of the Kansas State Agricultural College, located at Manhattan, Kansas, visited the Moro experiment station last week. Dr. Jardine is not entirely a stranger to Sherman county, although last week was his first visit to Sherman county in thirteen years. Dr. Jardine was the representative of the federal government upon the board of federal state and college executives that decided upon Sherman county at Moro as the location for the present experiment station. He expressed surprise at the growth and improvements in Moro since his last visit and was gratified at the evidence of improved farming methods now in vogue in Sherman county.

Moro Resident Passes Suddenly

Monday morning, shortly after seven o'clock, as C. H. Ellsworth was returning to his home from a brief visit at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lusk, he collapsed in the street between the Bryant and Nish residences, dying almost instantly from the effect of a paralytic stroke. Funeral services, under the direction of the Crandall Undertaking Co. of The Dalles, were held at Moro Methodist church Wednesday afternoon, Rev. U. C. Smothers preaching the sermon. Interment was in Moro cemetery.

Clarence Herbert Ellsworth had been in failing health for a number of years. At the time of his death he was 73 years 3 months and 3 days old. He was born in Illinois April 13th, 1850. He was twice married, his first wife passed away October 24, 1876. August 8th, 1879, he married Anna Udell, sister to his first wife. He leaves a wife, ten children, fourteen grand children, and two great grand children, and one brother residing in Britt, Iowa.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness and sympathy during our bereavement. And for the beautiful floral offerings of their regard at the time of the funeral of our beloved husband and father.

Mrs. Anna Ellsworth and Family.

News Items From Kent and Vicinity

Mr. Wilson, father of Mrs. Carl Schadewitz, left Monday for his home in Tennessee. Before his departure, Mr. Wilson remarked to many that he had had a very pleasant visit and was very much impressed with Oregon.

An invitational reunion of all the old Tennesseans in this vicinity was held last week at the home of Carl Schadewitz in honor of Mr. Wilson, father of Mrs. Schadewitz. It was a farewell party, held for the purpose of wishing him good luck on his journey home.

George Bernard Shaw writes to a young idol-worshiper who had requested his autograph: "Set fire to your collection of signatures and sit on the top." However, the letter gave the young man the autograph he wanted, so he should be satisfied. Years ago Col. Bob Ingersoll told a reporter: "I never give interviews." Reporter asked why not? Ingersoll told him. So the reporter wrote an interview with Ingersoll on why he wouldn't be interviewed. Failure sometimes can be transformed into victory, if you can give it the right twist. Study failure, instead of shirking from it. Extremes meet. Failure often is success wearing a mask.

When will you die? The average length of life in our country now is fifty-six. This is three and a half years more than in 1910 and 15 years more than in 1870. The figures are supplied by Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell university. He says the average life could be prolonged 20 years if all people could learn and profit by what health experts know. Health education has a lot to do with it. In ignorant India the average man is destined to die at twenty-four.
