BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE HARDING MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION

Officers of the Harding Memorial Association for Oregon are Governor Pierce, honorary state chairman; Hon. B. F. Mulkey, active state chairman; the officers for Sherman county are W. C. Bryant, county chairman, and the following community chairmen: Geo. B. Bourhill, Moro; E. D. McKee, Wasco; R. J. Baker, Grass Valley; A. A. Dunlap, Kent; L. B. Payne, Rufus.

The Harding Memorial Association is incorporated under the laws of Ohio. The incorporators are twenty-six in number, and at the present time constitute the association. The association was incorporated for the purpose of erecting a memorial to Warren Gamaliel Harding, twenty-ninth President of the United States.

It is the thought and desire to erect at Marion, Ohio, a mausoleum—substantial, stable, enduring—at the lowest reasonable cost, and on property which will be selected by Mrs. Harding as a fitting location. Heretofore it has been the custom to keep the things made interesting and important by association with the lives of the Presidents, in the mausoleums to which their remains were consigned. This is not considered desirable in the case of President Harding.

Movie News of the Current Week

Baby Peggy, a four year old baby actress who has won national renown in short reel stories, comes to Moro theatre on New Year's day in her first big multi-reel screen success, "The Darling of New York."

The story tells of a little girl, whose mother dies in Italy and whose nurse is to bring her to America to the baby's grandfather. At the last moment the nurse discovers she has left her purse, she leaves the baby with a stranger, but the steamer starts on its long journey to New York before the nurse returns.

The stranger is a gem smuggler. He hides a fortune in gems in the baby's rag doll. At New York he is arrested, but the baby is claimed by agents of the gem smuggler. The leader of the crew of smugglers gets rid of the baby by dumping her and the rag doll into an ash can. When it is discovered how valuable the doll was, then starts a search of New York for their "Darling" by crooks, smugglers, and grand father.

Two showings, matinee at 4 p. m. and evening at 7:30 p. m. Prices will be 15c and 30c for both shows.

"The Grub Stake," starring Nell Shipman, comes to Moro theatre Saturday, January 5th, and should prove one of the outstanding events of the season, for there are more facts of interest connected with the new picture than there are usually found in the most pretentious productions; and from advance information, "The Grub Stake" would seem to justify every expectation.

Written by Miss Shipman and directed by her in collaboration with Bert Van Tuyle, the picture tells a dramatic, human story of a girl who had reached the end of human endurance when she succeeded in obtaining a "grub stake" and went to Alaska to make a fresh start. What she encounters in her struggle for happiness really forms the story. It is based to a large extent on fact, with more than one of its characters pictured from real life.

Relatives Meet First Time 50 Years

Mr. Lawson left his home in Iowa 50 years ago, when Mr. Ramsey was six years old. He is now past 80, but is as straight standing and active as are many men of less than 60. He has pioneered in eastern Oregon all these 50 years, principally mining in the Greenhorn mountains south of Heppner, making that place his winter quarters.

When Mr. Ramsey went east this summer he was informed of his uncle's location and upon his return to Oregon wrote him to come to Moro for a Christmas visit.
