Picture Show News For The Current Week

"Scaramouche," according to advance reports from the larger cities, where it has been played as a two dollar attraction, is one of the greatest pictures in screen history.
The story is laid in the time of the French Revolution and deals with the adventures of a young noble who takes the side of the people. Willis Goldbeck made the screen adaptation and the photography was by John F. Seitz.
It tells the romance of Andre-Louis Moreau (Ramon Novarro) and Aline de Keradiou (Alice Terry). Andre-Louis has been brought up as the ward of Aline's uncle. The Marquis de la Tour d'Azay (Lewis Stone), a haughty aristocrat and man of fashion, killed Andre-Louis' friend, Philippe, because of his revolutionary sentiments, and on the Marquis Andre-Louis has sworn eternal vengeance. To make matters worse the Marquis is courting Aline.
Big in its dramatic values, smashing in its conception of the spectacular, "The Tornado," starring House Peters, is fine entertainment in many ways, but probably its biggest appeal lies in the stupendous scenes depicting the fury of nature as emphasized in the resistless powers of storm and flood.
There are a number of these big scenes. The most thrilling and daring in conception are those resultant from a big log jam, which dams up a storm-swollen river until the flood waters threaten to sweep away a little settlement. At the same time there is an assault by hurricane, a veritable tornado that tears loose. The air is filled with debris; the other is the battering down of a bridge which collapses just as a train is crossing, the whole being plunged into the river where the passengers and crew struggle for their lives.
Peters plays the role of a man who seeks by the terrific endeavor consequent upon the life in the logging camps to deaden the heart pain caused by what he believes to have been the infidelity of the woman who had promised to be his wife when he returned from the Great War. A stern, relentless, grim figure of a man, he becomes known as "The Tornado."

I.O.O.F. Observe Founding of Order at Kent

The 106th anniversary of the founding of the I. O. O. F. was appropriately observed at Kent last Sunday. Early in the day people began to arrive. By noon it was estimated that close to 500 were present for the community basket dinner that preceded the exercises held in the high school auditorium.
Dinner, scheduled to begin promptly at noon, was held off half an hour to enable Grand Master L. E. Carter and Grand Secretary E. E. Sharon to arrive from Prineville in time for the first table. However, the grand officers were later than they had expected to be and did not arrive until the tables had been filled for the first serving. They decided to take their chance with the second table, which was as bountifully supplied with good things to eat as was the first table.
Following the dinner, the crowd adjourned to the school auditorium where the program arranged in honor of the anniversary of the order was presented. Chairman Fred Brown called the meeting to order. First on the program was a ceremonial presentation to Grand Master Carter of a large key to the city. Music was furnished during the program by the Grass Valley orchestra. Grand Master Carter gave an interesting address along the line of Odd Fellowship. Grand Secretary Sharon gave an instructive talk to the subordinate lodges. Grand Master Carter presented 30-year veteran jewels to J. Harvey Smith and Fred Krusow, members of the Grass Valley lodge. Rev. Hicks, of Wasco, also gave an interesting address along the lines of Odd Fellowship.
It was voted to hold the next anniversary meeting at Grass Valley.
Those who attended the exercises from Moro report an ideal day, a good dinner, a fine educational and instructive program, and a general good time.

MORO THEATRE
MORO, OREGON

"Scaramouche" Friday, May 1
The Rex Ingram production from Metro of "Scaramouche" has been acclaimed as the greatest achievement in the history of motion pictures. Founded on Rafael Sabatini's novel of the French Revolution, it tells the story of a young nobleman, Andre-Louis, who devotes his life to the cause of the rebels when his dearest friend is murdered by a powerful marquis and the courts refuse to take action.

"The Tornado" Saturday, May 2
House Peters in "The Tornado" presents that sterling player of the screen in the strongest role of his entire career. See him in the seasonally exciting melodrama crammed with thrills never attempted in any photoplay and climaxed by the most stupendous flood and tornado scenes ever recorded by the camera. Don't miss it.

"Girl Shy" Friday, May 8
Every patron of the pictures knows Harold Lloyd and that his pictures are always of the clean cut comedy entertainment variety. "Girl Shy" is a particularly good Lloyd comedy that will please all who attend the showing.

"Butterfly" Saturday, May 9
She stole her only sister's first sweetheart and married him, but when she tried to steal—the second her wrathful husband started a drama that makes a wonderful picture. That's "Butterfly." Adapted from Kathleen Norris' sensationally successful novel of the same name.

"Abraham Lincoln" Tuesday, May 12
There are many important points about "Abraham Lincoln" which should be kept in mind. The first and strongest of all is the fact that "Abraham Lincoln" is entertainment. The next important fact is that this picture portrays the life of the greatest man America has ever produced and that the man, who appears as Lincoln, does not play the part but lives it. He is as true in appearance and character to the real Lincoln as a man can be.
