Shakespeare Up-to-Date Tells Motorists' Terrible Toll

SHAKESPEARE'S seven ages of mankind made no reference to the number who were cut off in their prime by automobiles. If he had, suggests the Stewart-Warner Safety Council, it might have run something like this handy on his famous lines:

At first the infant,
Killed by a truck while in his nurse's arms,
And then the careless schoolboy with his marbles,
Playing in the streets after his lessons
Are over. And then the lover,
Absent-minded, walking with a box of candy
Under his arm, to see his loved one,
Is struck by a taxi and hurled to the ground.
Next comes the gay young blood
Out for his evening's entertainment, whom
Sixty miles an hour lands forty years too soon
Upon a slab in some unfriendly morgue.
And then the banker, full of worldly pride and honors,
Jay-walks across the street between two mighty deals of finance,
And wakes to find Saint Peter quizzing him.
Next, the family man, with years upon him,
Confused and jostled in the crowd,
Mistaken, and dies amid thanksgiving
That his last premium was paid up.
And last, hoary age, tottering and feeble,
Perhaps with crutch, or eye too dimmed with time,
An easy victim for some selfish motorist,
Says care, says thought, says skill, says everything—but speed.

The chart above shows what proportion of all accidents happening to each age group are automobile accidents. The toll is highest for the very young and very old. This situation is explained partly by the heedlessness of the young and the infirmity of old age. Moreover, these two groups are least involved in industrial accidents which makes their automobile casualties constitute a larger part of their total accidents.

THE BANKER-EDUCATOR PLAN TO PROMOTE BETTER AGRICULTURE

By D. H. OTIS,
Agricultural Director, American Bankers Association

Whenever bankers desire to promote actively agricultural improvement in their communities, the state agricultural colleges stand ready to show them the way and to give expert assistance. The purpose of this article is to illustrate the way in which the colleges are getting in contact with the banks, and the kind of assistance they render.

As soon as the college has a list of the banks in the state desiring to adopt plans to aid agriculture as indicated by project blanks sent out to all the banks in the state, by the State Bankers Association Agricultural Committee, it gives practical suggestions to each banker on the list as to what he can do to stimulate, organize, and conduct the work in the particular project he has selected. Then either a department specialist from the college or the county agent gets in personal touch with the banker to assist him in an advisory capacity.

Samples of the project outlines are given below to illustrate the details of the procedure the college takes in accomplishing its plan.

College Provides Expert Advice
In counties with no county agent a list of the banks desiring to carry on a project is sent to a specialist at the state college, according to the project listed. For instance, the banks desiring to carry on the farm accounts project are assigned to the farm management specialist, those desiring to carry on the legume project to the agronomy specialist, those interested in boys' and girls' club work to the junior extension specialist, and so forth.

In counties that do have a county agent a list of the banks and the projects in which each is interested is sent to him with a request that he get in touch with the bankers and help them in regard to the various projects.

The next step by the college is to write to each banker on the list sending him project outlines and informing him that the county agent or a specialist from the college will get in touch with him. If there is no agent in the county this letter reads as follows:

Dear Sir:
Gentlemen—You will find enclosed a brief outline of the farm accounts project in which you have indicated your interest to your State Agricultural Committee and to the Agricultural Committee of the American Bankers Association. I am sure that the specialist from the Agricultural College will be pleased to assist you in carrying out the suggestions indicated. We have asked him to get in touch with you.
Director, Agricultural Extension.

The letter to bankers in counties that do have a county agent informs them that he will get in touch with them. Suggests Things the Banker Can Do
The project outlines sent to each banker give specific suggestions as to the things he can do to organize the work in his project, and the part he can take in carrying out the work. The more simple and concrete these

WHEAT CONFEREES PLAN MORE ECONOMIC FARMING

Not necessarily greater wheat production but more economical production of wheat through better quality and yield and in accordance with the existing and prospective wheat supply and demand of the world, is the aim of the eastern Oregon wheat conference at Moro next week, February 11 to 13.

"If decreased production is desirable at any time the only safe, sane and economic way to decrease it is less acreage and not poorer yields," says D. E. Stephens, superintendent of Moro branch experiment station. "Higher acre yields and lower production costs are the intelligent way."

The conference will open with a general session following registration at Hotel Moro Thursday forenoon. As soon as the various committees are given charge of their duties and the work of the organization committee is explained, the conference will resolve itself into the subcommittees to gather and arrange the data for their reports.

The work of the subcommittees is expected to take up most of the time of the conference, which will be re-assembled as a whole on Saturday to hear and act upon reports. The recommendations accepted, together with conclusions, will be compiled later for publication by the O. A. C. extension service.

The chairman of the conference, F. R. Ingels of Dufur, and all chairmen of the subcommittees, but one, are wheat producers in close touch with the situation. Additional information will be provided by other members of the committees, and figures on the very latest world situation will be supplied by college and federal specialists cooperating in the work.

L. R. Brethaupt, of the extension service and Dr. W. J. Spillman, consulting economist of the federal department of agriculture, will bring information direct from the national capitol for use of the growers in mapping out their program. The gathering itself will be near the head of wheat production investigation for eastern Oregon—the Sherman county branch experiment station—where problems of tillage and culture, varieties and strains, disease-resistance and control, milling qualities and yield, are in process of solution. It is a continuation of the state-wide economic conference inaugurated by Paul V. Maria, director of the college extension service, in January 1924.

SHOT FROM ROAD SIDE HITS MOTOR TOURISTS

A party of tourists, traveling by motor from Ellensburg to Bend, stopped in Moro late last week. They reported that as they were driving on the highway, shortly after leaving Ellensburg, a shot fired from alongside the road struck the windshield, passed through and lodged in a pile of blankets on the rear seat. Bits of broken glass cut the drivers left eye and the woman in the car was hit near the right ear. A baby in a traveling baby buggy had just been moved, or it would have been seriously injured. The bullet was found when the blankets were taken from the car and showed evidence of having been fired from a .25 Colt automatic. It is thought that a holdup was attempted.

ELECTRIC POWER LINE BREAK CAUSES SMALL VOLCANO

A conglomerate mass of burned rock is on exhibit at the Foss & Co. garage in this city that is a fair sample of how nature manufactured lava in the prehistoric days when this country was being transformed from a watery mass into land. The rock sample was part of a large piece of molten rock formed near the Sherman highway, near the top of Nigger ridge, when the power line of the Sherman Electric company broke during the silver thaw. Although the line was broken under the weight of ice on the wires, the current continued to pass between the two ends. Where the wires touched the ground, on top of a dirt knoll, the electric current bored a hole to the solid rock. Through the hole thus formed the molten rock welled up in a similar manner to a volcano belching out hot lava. Those who saw the sight say it was an unusual phenomena.
