It's a far cry from the full skirts, wisp waist and leg o' mutton sleeves of twenty-five years ago, but we have traveled also a long way from the two-cylinder gas wagons of 1900 to the high-powered motors speeding over our highways today, declares the Stewart-Warner Safety Council.

A quarter of a century ago there was one automobile for every 9,000 people in the United States. Ten years ago there was one automobile for every 20 people, while today the motor population is one-sixth as large as the human population, or one car to every six people. This rapid growth has put the automobile as foremost among American industries, but it has also produced a fearful menace to the public points out the Safety Council which has for its purpose the prevention of automobile accidents. A vigorous campaign of public education must be pushed if annual rate of automobile fatalities is to be reduced from 22,000.

Fudge Making Finds Favor With Co-Eds

Fudge may be classed with pie as a typical American dish. It has a place in every young man's heart and every girl's category of accomplishments. Co-eds swear by fudge and "fudge shines" in sorority parlors are the very latest wrinkle in college circles.

There's a big wallop in a plate of fudge, the co-eds explain, because it's one of the greatest sources of energy, containing both milk, the "perfect food," and sugar.

If you've any doubt of the place fudge occupies in the young male heart, try these recipes on him and hear his own answer. Each of the appended dishes was prepared by Miss Meta Given, doing research work in the home economics department of the University of Chicago, and they are the result of much experimentation.

Chocolate Fudge

3 cups sugar 3 squares chocolate
1/2 cup evaporated milk 1/2 cup water
1 tsp. corn sirup 1 tsp. vanilla

Shave the chocolate so that it will melt more easily. Add the sugar, salt, milk and corn sirup. Cook, stirring until chocolate and sugar are melted, and then only occasionally to prevent burning, until the soft ball stage is reached, or a temperature of 234 degrees Fahrenheit. Remove from fire and add the butter. Cool until almost lukewarm, 110 degrees, add flavoring and beat vigorously until when a little is dropped from the spoon it will hold its shape. Pour into oiled tin and mark in squares.

Cocoanut Candy

1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup evaporated milk 1-2 cup shredded cocoanut
1/2 cup water 1/2 tsp. vanilla

Put butter into granite saucepan; when melted, add sugar, milk and water, and stir until sugar is dissolved. Heat to boiling, and cook to the soft ball stage. Remove from fire, add cocoanut and vanilla, cool to 110 degrees Fahrenheit and beat until creamy and mixture begins to sugar slightly around edge of pan. Pour into buttered pan and when cool mark in squares.

Panocha

3 cups brown or maple sugar 1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup evaporated milk 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Boil sugar, milk and water to the soft ball stage. Remove from the fire; add butter, flavoring and nuts. Cool to 110 degrees Fahrenheit, then beat until creamy and thickened; pour into a greased tin and when firm cut.

One major problem in the older generation's handling of the younger is getting the chickens to come home to roost.

And so the tendency is in the direction of smaller farms. Well, that's good. You can't lose so much on a small farm.

There was a time when they said that politics makes strange bedfellows; now it seems that strange bedfellows make politics.

Europe might not be so ready now to get together on reparations if its casual acquaintance with bankruptcy had been less trying.

Perhaps one reason why some of the girls don't help mother much around the house is that mother is seldom there to be helped.

BARNEY

"CAN I get a horse for tomorrow?" I asked the stable man at the hotel.

"Yes," he answered. "Have you ever ridden before?"

I admitted that I had.

"Barney's the best horse in the stable," he continued, "but he's high-strung and self-willed and most riders are afraid of him."

"I'll try Barney," I said.

He was a beautiful horse, long of body, sleek of coat and proud and graceful of carriage. People always gave him the second look as he went by. He was well-gaited and an excellent judge of human nature. He was high-tempered, opinionated and determined to have his own way. When you wanted to go east he made up his mind to go west; when you suggested going ahead he reared on his hind legs; when you offered advice in the form of words or a cut across the flanks he became frantic and almost unmanageable. The only way to manage Barney, I found, was to hold a firm hand to any nothing to ignore, rise. Under this sort of treatment he seemed to become ashamed of himself, to be disappointed that his carryings-on had aroused no greater reaction, and he would start off like a plow-horse.

There are a great many people like Barney. They bluster and protest and fly into a temper, but there is really no danger. If you say nothing, if you stand your ground, if you keep a firm hand, the storm soon passes, and the real character shows itself.

The high-strung, temperamental person resents correction and direction usually, especially if he realizes that it is deserved, and though he may give you the impression that he intends to do as he pleases, more often than otherwise he does follow intelligent advice. Like the man in the Bible story, he says, when he is told to go, "I go not, sir," but afterwards he changes his mind. It is firmness, and resolute-ness, and self-control, coupled with persistence that win with horses and men, and I try never to forget that.

"How do you like Barney?" the stable man asked me when I came back from my first ride.

"Fine," I answered. "I do business with fellows like Barney every day at home. I can see that, if you understand him, he is the best horse in the stable."

DAILY EXERCISE

Daily exercise is necessary for all around development of the body and mind. The right kind of exercise has a tonic effect on the mind. Good, wholesome athletic sports inspire enthusiasm, and enthusiasm in itself, a tonic effect on the mind. Good, is a benefit to health. Systematic exercise is essential and beneficial, it keeps a healthy mind in a healthy body. This means a healthy life.

Outdoor exercises are preferred to the year around. There is no reason for a "shut-in season" in Oregon. It is easy to acquire the walking habit in the summer, but there is nothing more bracing and stimulating than a walk during the winter months. Walking is an ideal all around exercise, available to everyone and gives one an opportunity to enjoy the wonders of nature in a way which they were meant to be enjoyed.

Walk with body erect, chest well expanded and arms swinging. A daily three mile jaunt should be taken by everyone whose duties are indoors.

Exercise accomplished the purpose only when carried to the point of moderate fatigue. Daily exercise sharpens the appetite, improves digestion, very greatly promotes the assimilation of food, and aids in the excretion of waste products. Sedentary habits and physical inactivity contribute largely to the ill of man. Poor circulation, as evidenced by cold feet and hands, is one of the indications of sedentary living. The circulation of the blood is directly influenced by the contraction and expansion of the muscles. Perfect circulation, therefore, demands daily exercise of the muscles. Exercise increases the force and frequency of the heart beat.

Daily exercise followed by a cold shower is a great preventive of colds. Exercise develops full, deep breathing. Most people leading a sedentary life use only one-half their capacity for breathing. Stagnation of air due to lack of proper air motion makes them susceptible to colds and respiratory diseases. Physical exercise increases the amount of carbon dioxide and other waste products given out. Physical exercise, suitable to age, skill and ability, regularly practiced, is an invaluable aid to the acquisition of a pleasant disposition and the full enjoyment of life.

Primrose Day Memorial to English Statesman

England's "Primrose day" is a tribute to the memory of Lord Beaconsfield. The primrose was his favorite flower. The story is that when he was a young man he made a bet of a pair of gloves with a lady respecting a wreath of yellow blossoms, the point in dispute being whether they were real or artificial. Disraeli stated that they were real and won the bet. The lady thereupon presented him with one of the primroses and Disraeli, with the impetuous gallantry of youth, vowed that he would treasure the flower and adopt it as his badge. "Primrose day" was founded in 1882. Next year it was determined that an annual festival should be inaugurated. Curiously enough, the primrose has for centuries been esteemed an unlucky flower among the English country folk. Shakespeare alludes to the superstition; and to this day in East Anglia, as well as throughout the western counties, it is esteemed disastrous to take a single primrose into a farmhouse. Serious loss among chickens, lambs and calves will, it is averred, inevitably result.

Three Day Wheat Meetings Rouses Much Interest

FARMERS ORGANIZE LEAGUE FOR 11 E.O. COUNTIES

Three days of intensive study and deliberation over the one subject of wheat ended here Saturday when the 250 wheat growers and scores of other representatives of agencies concerned, adjourned the sessions of the wheat growers economic conference.

It is too soon even for those in charge to estimate the ultimate value of this conference sponsored by the extension service of the Oregon Agriculture college, though the purpose of arriving at conclusions representing the combined thought and information of all elements in the wheat situation was accomplished.

Reports covering 80 typewritten pages were adopted on world supply and demand, wheat handling and marketing, farm management, tillage and production, and finance and credit. These will soon be compiled and printed by the college for use of every interested person.

As a by product of the conference there was organized here the Eastern Oregon Wheat League, one of the purposes of which is to see that the value of the conference is not lost through the lack of its findings being carried to the people.

Membership in the new organization extends over the 11 principle wheat counties in this section of the state. Officers elected were: president, F. B. Ingals, Dufur; vice president, Charles B. Cox, Heppner; and secretary-treasurer, Harry B. Pinkerton. With the creation of the new body which is to be both protective and constructive, the Wheat Export League was dissolved in its favor.

The objects of the newly organized Eastern Oregon Wheat League are:

1. To promote the interests of the wheat growers.
2. To provide a means for united action.
3. To deal with emergencies from time to time, such as disposition; northwest surplus; seed loans; grain grading problems; farm wage scales; discounts; credits; freight rates; general legislative matters of interest to wheat growers.
4. To cooperate with the Oregon Agriculture college and county agents of the extension service in adopting and applying the "intention to plant" and "agricultural outlook" reports of the U. S. department of agriculture to the state of Oregon.
5. Oregon counties voted as members of the organization and committees elected from each of the 11 counties are as follows: Jefferson county, Ward Ferral; Wasco county, C. F. Emerson; Sherman county, W. S. Powell; Gilliam county, John Withycombe; Wheeler county, Mike Dekek; Morrow county, J. O. Turner; Union county, J. A. Gaskill; Baker county, A. V. Swift; Walla county, H. B. Davidhizen; Malheur county, Pete Tensen; Umatilla county, Jas. K. Hill.

Great interest was manifested in the work of the wheat handling committee, its sessions being largely attended by those interested in grading, inspection, freight, rates and related questions. A more equitable system of discounts was advocated by this group, while the state inspection service got a clean bill of health after complaints were thoroughly aired. All facts on these and scores of other subjects considered by this and the other four groups will be included in the printed report of the conference which will be ready for free distribution in about six weeks.

Twenty-three tillage and production practices were agreed upon as being the best for this territory by growers in the tillage committee who also agreed that the high acre yields are necessary in keeping production costs down. Some of these rules, still further "boiled down" than placed in the report are as follows:

Stubble should never be burned in where possible, disking stubble ground the fall and should be turned under in the fall usually reduces yields, though spring disking pays if late plowing is necessary; plowing 6 to 8 inches deep is more profitable than deeper plowing; harrowing should follow plowing within a week or ten days; spring wheat should always be sown early; best varieties for winter are hybrid 128, turkey red and 40-fold, and for spring, federation hard federation and early baart, depending on locality.

The farm management group decided that sidelines of sheep, hogs, poultry and cattle are practical and profitable on those wheat farms where waste food is available, where there is land not suitable for wheat and where there is labor available for handling the sideline. It also gave warning of an impending shortage of work horses and mules unless the raising of colts is resumed on a larger scale.

The world supply and demand group obtained the passage of a resolution asking the revision of grain freight rates to make them compare with those in Canada, in spite of the objections of railroad men present who said a government subsidy and contract was responsible for the low Canadian rates. The finance and credit group advocated, among other things, use of the federal intermediate credit bank to obtain a lower interest rate on crop loans.
