HISTORY IN CAKE

This replica of historic Independence Hall in Philadelphia is a fine example of the baker's art. It was made by the chef of one of Philadelphia's leading hotels to advertise the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, which will open in that city June 1 and run to December 1 to celebrate the 150th anniversary of American Independence. The "State House" stands on a table at the entrance to the main dining room of the hotel.

Wild Boar Incased in Ice

An avalanche sweeping across the Bourg d'Osians road near Rochetaille, France, recently dropped off a huge block of ice which was found to contain the body of a wild boar. The animal had been swept up as the avalanche started on its wild career and was frozen within it.

Weather of Prehistoric Past.

British scientists are nosing into the weather of the prehistoric past. In living people they find the widest noses associated with hot moist climate and the narrowest with cold dry climate. The differences are also detectable in skulls. Applying these findings to some of the prehistoric European caveman skulls, it has been discovered that some of those which have been assigned to a period of cold climate must have lived in a warm period—if noses can be followed.
