SUZZALLO IS FORCED OUT OF UNIVERSITY

Washington Board of Regents
Demand President's Resignation.

Seattle, Wash.—Dr. Henry Suzzallo, 11 years president of the University of Washington, was put out of office Tuesday, the loser in a fight of two years' duration between supporters of Suzzallo's educational program and Governor Roland H. Hartley.

On the heels of this development came word of the resignation of the only two University of Washington regents not appointees of Governor Hartley. They are Mrs. Ruth Karr McKee of Vancouver, and John T. Hefner of Seattle.

Regents of the university, a majority of whom are appointees of the governor, Monday night requested Suzzallo's resignation, effective Tuesday.

He declined to quit after protesting that no reasons had been given for his dismissal and that he had no hearing. The regents then gave him a leave of absence and appointed David Thomson, dean of the college of liberal arts and dean of faculties, as acting president.

Students of the university were indignant at their leader's removal. Four thousand out of the school's 6500 enrollment held a torchlight procession through the campus, chanting "Strike, strike, strike." They gathered in front of Suzzallo's campus home, where he asked them to refrain from demonstrations and return to their classes.

Following their action the regents gave out the following statement:

"The majority of the board of regents, having an increasing conviction that politics should have far less prominence in the president's office of the university, and therefore in its best interests, while fully appreciating the services and standing of Dr. Suzzallo as an educator and administrator, feel called upon to ask his resignation. Affairs of the university will be managed by Dean Thomson until a new president is selected."

EIGHT STATES WILL VOTE ON PROHIBITION

Chicago.—Voters in eight states, at the November election, will have an opportunity to pass upon prohibition. The states are California, Colorado, Illinois, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New York and Wisconsin.

In New York, Illinois and Wisconsin the referendum is on the question of asking congress to amend the Volstead act.

The question in California is whether to repeal the Wright act, the state enforcement law, adopted by the people at a referendum in 1922.

In Colorado the question will be submitted as a proposal to amend a section of the state constitution enabling the legislature to provide for manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, such amendment to be inoperative as long as in conflict with the laws of the United States.

The Missouri vote will be on the question of repealing the state enforcement laws passed in 1923.

The Montana proposition is on the question of repealing all state laws relating to liquor control, except the law forbidding sale of liquor to minors.

The Nevada referendum is in the form of a memorial to congress to submit the 18th amendment again to the states.

LIQUOR CONVICTIONS GROW

Violations Increasing.

The Oregon district court also imposed fines aggregating $93,895 upon convicted violators, and "padlocked" six places in which liquor had been sold by issuance of permanent injunctions against them.

Federal convictions of persons accused under the dry law increased from 427 to 794 in western Washington during 1926, with sentences aggregating 167 years and fines totaling $319,024. In eastern Washington convictions dropped from 137 to 116. Sentences aggregated 31 years and fines $33,529.

The Philadelphia of Our Ancestors

Here is shown a section of "High Street," a reproduction of Philadelphia's famous Market street in the days of 1776. It is one of the outstanding features of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition now being held in Philadelphia to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Every building has been built to actual size and in actual architectural detail. The furnishings of each building are exact reproductions of those used in the Revolutionary days. Many of the pieces on display are the originals and today are worth thousands of dollars because of their historic value. The Exposition continues until December 1.

BUYING POWER OF FARMER SLUMPS

Whole Price Level Drops, But
Farm Products Fall
Farthest.

Washington, D. C.—The fall in price of cotton, wheat and fruits, the department of agriculture announced, has brought the general index of purchasing power of farm products down from 83 in August, 1925, to 83 this August, the lowest point reached in 26 months.

While the whole price level has been falling, the department said, in its October report, farm products have fallen faster.

Of the four chief money crops, cotton, wheat and fruits were described as large enough to "depress prices somewhat."

"Potatoes, on the other hand," the department said, "are neither a large enough nor have early diggings turned out very good yields, so that prices remain relatively strong."

The report added that the total acreage of 21 cultivated crops was about 2 per cent above that harvested last year.

Unofficial monthly crop summaries indicate that the total yield of corn will be about 2,724,000,000 bushels and that the crop condition is around 74.5 per cent. These figures, which are based on returns made immediately prior to and immediately following the frost, were interpreted as meaning that the crop outlook has improved, and that the amount of soft or unkeepable corn will represent only a small percentage of the total crop.

WORLD COURT AGAIN ABSORBS CAPITAL

Washington, D. C.—American adherence to the World Court of permanent justice bobbed up again as a subject of discussion in the nation's capital.

While President Coolidge knows of no movement for withdrawal of the United States proposal to join the court, Representative Theodore Burton, republican, of Ohio, who returned from the sessions of the inter-parliamentary union at Geneva, informed the chief executive that European nations are just as likely to accept the senate reservations as the senate is to change those conditions.

Meanwhile Senator Claude Swanson, democrat, Virginia, who drafted the reservations, returned from Europe with doubts as to the success of the disarmament conference in Geneva or of payment of the French war debt to the United States under the terms of the Mellon-Brenger agreement.

President Coolidge was pictured as regretting that the recent Geneva advisory conference did not approve outright acceptance of the American conditions. Representative Burton informed him that an impression prevailed in Europe that the United States already had been granted too many concessions and that American membership conditions should be more acceptable to European powers.

FIVE-DAY WEEK IS GOAL

Program Definitely Announced by American Federation Council

Detroit.—The five-day week for all workers came to the fore as a definite goal of the American Federation of Labor program in the final meeting of the executive council of the federation preliminary to the 46th annual convention, which opened here Monday.

President William Green and his cabinet, composed of international officers of affiliated unions, agreed upon the five-day 40-hour week as the cardinal point in the advancement program of organized labor and determined to recommend the policy to all affiliated organizations as a basis of negotiation for contract renewals and employers. "The 40-hour week is inevitable in American labor," Mr. Green said in a public statement after the meeting. "For the simple reason that it is economically sound and profitable, and for the employer, and has been tremendously successful in numerous crafts in which it is already partially effective."

Suggestion Great Aid in Preserving Youth

"My, but Americans are young looking people!" exclaimed Miss Alma Law, an Australian, on her first visit to San Francisco. "There don't seem to be any old ones. And such handsome, well dressed and pleasant folks."

We do look young and, in fact, are looking younger every day. This is partly the applied science of the pulchritude parlor, but in larger measure it is due to a mental attitude in which a native optimism is reinforced by friendly suggestion.

We have not discovered the elixir of life—that is, not the elixir put in bottles—but we have the secret of keeping young, and it is telling each other that we look so.

Americans do know how to greet one another, and though greetings cannot make any difference to the calendar they may make a world of difference to one's appearance. Years are cut off when we are told we are looking well, and if we feel younger we cannot help looking younger.

Statistically we know that modern medical science has added at least ten years to the average American life, but the average man, and certainly the average woman, looks ten years younger than he and she did 20 years ago.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Cigarettes Point Way

Mexicans working in a lead mine in Chihuahua have found a new use for cigarettes. The mine consists of a series of caves along the sides and bottoms of which lead and silver ore in paying quantities is found. The miners have noticed that smoke from their cigarettes is sucked through cracks in the rocks at certain points. By drilling in the wake of the smoke they break through into another cave.

Value of Forests

The Department of Agriculture says that removal of forests destroys the ground cover, of leaf-mold, which once absorbed rain and snow waters, holding and distributing them to the soil. Cleared of forest and its spongy ground cover, the bare soil absorbs comparatively little water, most of which runs off rapidly, swelling streams and flooding and eroding the lower ground.

"Scourge of God"

The epithet was conferred upon Attila, king of the Huns who, in the Fifth century after Christ, was the terror of Europe. In 452 he invaded Italy and threatened Rome. It was his favorite boast that where his horse had set foot grass never grew again. The expression, "Scourge of God," is first found in the "Legend of St. Loup," composed by a priest of Troyes, in the Eighth or Ninth century. Genseric (449-477), king of the Vandals, and Charles VIII (1483-1498), king of France, received the same title.
