Who Pays For Good Roads?

"You pay for good roads whether you have them or not," is a statement quoted by Dr. E. B. McDaniel, president of the Oregon State Motor Association, at a recent gathering of highway enthusiasts. Dr. McDaniel then read from an article in which it is disclosed that the farmer paid more for not having good roads than he would have to pay if he had the finest hard surfaced roads obtainable. The figures, compiled by transportation authorities of the state of Iowa, demonstrate that the transportation bill over dirt roads was equal to all of the corn, oats, wheat and barley crops in the state. The cost of operating 699,000 motor vehicles registered in Iowa in 1926 is estimated at $314,608,000 while the value of the four principal crops that year was $313,367,000.

In order to reduce this transportation bill, Iowa is spending twenty-eight million dollars in 1928 for improved highways. Engineers advocate hard surface for all main highways and gravelled roads for light traffic. To demonstrate the savings to be made through these investments, the following figures are given:

Iowa spends one hundred and twenty million dollars annually for new automobiles. The average life of a motor vehicle operated on dirt roads is given as 5 years; on gravel, as 6 years; and on paving, 7 years. The annual bill for gasoline in the Hawkeye state is estimated at fifty million dollars. Most of it is used in vehicles operated over dirt roads, and tests made by the Iowa Agricultural College show that a gallon of gas will carry a car 14 miles on a dirt road, 17 miles on a gravel road, and 20 miles on a paved road. Annual expenditures for tires is figured at thirty million. The annual cost of tires for an average motor vehicle is $31.65 on concrete or pavement; $63.30 on gravel, and $158.25 on the average dirt roads. The people of Iowa have come to the conclusion that the cost of riding on dirt is too high. Fifty-three counties have authorized a total of $60,085,650 in highway bonds.

Oregon learned this lesson three years ago and it is estimated that the saving in repairs and depreciation to the average motorist in this state has more than repaid the cost of license fee and gas tax which made the good roads available.

Destructive Parrot

William, an Australian parrot, after gnawing his way out of 18 cages in the London zoo in three years, has just been placed in his nineteenth cage, which is made of fine metal shavings.

Shoes Like Stilts

Toward the end of the Seventeenth century it became the custom in Venice for women to wear "chopines," or exceedingly high-heeled shoes, almost like stilts. Social prestige was indicated by the height of the footwear.

MOVIE NOTES

"THE GIRL FROM CHICAGO"

Conrad Nagel and Myrna Loy are co-stars in "The Girl from Chicago," the great Warner Bros. melodrama, which comes to the Moro Theater next Saturday. Ray Enright directed this underworld masterpiece, which was taken from "Business is Best," the Arthur Somers Roche detective story. Graham Baker did the scenario and the subject is the spectacular career of a Southern girl, who comes to the great city to free her brother from the clutch of an underworld gang who have caused his sentence to death. Thrilling and absorbing, but with the admixture of humor and human kindness without which any play is untrue, "The Girl from Chicago" is meeting with tremendous success. It is not a picture of evil for evil's sake but of love battling against the forces of evil, to win all that makes life worth while. The "Girl from Chicago," won not only her brother's freedom but the love of the man she believed to be a leader among the crooks.

Round-up at Grass Valley

The program of the Wilson Rodeo Show at Grass Valley is scheduled to start at 2 p. m. each day. A number of Sherman county people are well acquainted with most of the horses and riders that will be in the ring during the rodeo.

A list of the riders will include Dusty Ball of California, Norman Davis of Moro, Jack Harper and Dan Cook of McMinnville, Peggy Adams the famous girl rider of Canada who has ridden with such riders as champion Mable Strickland, and Bonny Yakima.

The horses include Coyote, Tygh Valley, Dynamite, Fox, Cougar, as well as several others as well known. In all there will be about 20 head of local owned horses. W. McBride will be present with his famous horse Red Cloud. Several strings of Indian ponies will come from the reservation to compete in the running races.

The grounds is being put into shape to handle some swift races and everything possible is being done to accommodate the large crowd that is expected to attend.

Wrestling Match at G. V.

A real wrestling contest between two of the fastest men in the middle class is scheduled at Grass Valley Saturday, June 16th, between Jack Kennedy, 154 lbs. of Pendleton vs. Red Netting, 160 lbs. of The Dalles. This is to be a finished match, two best out of three falls with the usual two hour limit. Both men are so confident of winning that they have agreed to go on winner take all.

Kennedy is too well known in this section to need any introduction, having lived in Condon for a number of years during which time he wrestled such men as Walter Miller, Ted Tye, Charley Olsen, Ray McCarren and many other top notchers too numerous to mention.

Only last week he beat the 160 lb. carnival wrestler at Condon during the race meet there and won a handicap match with The Moose, the 211 lb. carnival champion, who agreed to throw him twice in ten minutes or give him $20.

Although we do not happen to know personally so much about Red Netting. He comes highly recommended from California where he has followed the boxing as well as the wrestling game for a number of years. Since he is anxious to play the game winner take all he must know his onions when it comes to wrist locks, scissor holds, headlocks and airplanes. You can come assured that you will see a good clean fast professional wrestling match that any lady could not get offended at.

And beside some real attractions is being arranged in the way of preliminaries with local boys. The prices will be ringside seats $1.50; general admission adults $1.00; children under 15, 50 cents.

Electric Service On Farms

Telephones Are Exceeded In California Survey

Electric wires run to many a California farm that has no telephone. This was revealed through a home equipment survey made under the direction of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. More than 5000 farms were included in the survey, and responses showed that 3194 have central station electric service, while only 2688 have a telephone.

Electric motors are used to pump water on 1265 farms and 905 use electricity for cooking. Electric equipment on the farms reporting included 286 water-heaters.

Other interesting information learned by the questioners was that 5025 farms, 94.7 per cent of the total, have automobiles; 2719 have phonographs; 2444, pianos and 1584 radio sets.

An even more convincing evidence of prosperity is that of 5163, farmers who answered inquiries as to home ownership 4340 reported that they owned their own farms. Only 823, or 15.9 per cent were renters.

Transportation experts from all parts of the United States, numbering more than 500, attended the sixth annual convention of the Associated Traffic Clubs of America, held in San Francisco and Oakland, June 12 and 13. Every modern means of transportation, including the airplane was represented at the convention, the first of its kind ever held in the San Francisco metropolitan bay area.
