4-H Club Members Active At Summer School

The largest boys' and girls' 4-H club junior summer session on the O. S. C. campus is now in full swing, and includes seven Sherman county club members. The session ends Saturday, June 22.

This is the 15th annual gathering of the clubbers for two weeks of instruction and recreation at the college. In these years the number has grown from 20 to nearly 700, not including the hundred or more leaders and other staff members who are assisting in the session. Portland members were slow to arrive because of the late closing of schools, but an even 600 were enrolled without them, 231 boys and 369 girls. Washington and Multnomah county outside of Portland led in numbers with 70 each. Twenty-eight counties are represented.

An unusually varied program of instruction in agriculture and manual arts is being carried through this year for the boys, and in home economics, art work, and health education for the girls. In addition prominent men and women are speaking to them on daily assembly programs. Flag day was celebrated with Major General U. G. McAlexander, "The Rock of the Marne," as principal speaker. On another day members of the Oregon Banker's association handled the program. The session this year is in charge of L. J. Allen, acting state club leader in the Oregon Extension service. For the first time all assembly programs and regular programs each evening are being broadcast over the radio, KOAC.

Warehouse Bonding Responsibility

A very important decision from a high court was quoted at the grain meeting in Spokane last week, affecting warehouses and their bonds in a vital manner. The court held, it was alleged, that if a warehouse is bonded for $5,000 or any other sum, and if there are ten or more persons having grain stored therein, who suffer loss each in a sum equal to the face of the bond, they can each obtain judgment for that sum. Under this interpretation, should it be sustained and become general, the responsibility of bondsmen and bonding houses is entirely changed and the furnishing of bonds will become difficult and burdensome. Personal sureties will be hard to get and bonding companies will charge high fees. More light, however, is needed on this subject.

Seller's Liability Defined

The supreme court of Oregon rendered a decision last March which is of interest to buyers and sellers of seeds or other crop materials. A man near Jefferson bought from a local merchant what the farmer desired and the seller represented to be Rosary, intending it for a pasture crop for sheep. It turned out to be common rye and of far less value as such pasture. The farmer sued for damages and lost his case in circuit court, but on appeal the supreme court reversed the decision and held that "where specified goods are sold in compliance with an order describing the goods, the seller is held to warrant that the goods are of the kind ordered. Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods by description, there is an implied warranty that the goods shall correspond with the description." It was held also that the true measure of damages is the difference between the value of the crop raised by plaintiff and a crop of rosen rye.

Moving to Oregon

The steady stream of new people into Oregon is revealed by the May report of the State Chamber of Commerce which shows 75 new families who located in all sections of the state. These new people purchased 4154 acres of land and invested a total of $260,900 in property. During the month the state chamber received letters from 89 families who stated they had received Oregon literature and had decided to come to this state and locate. These prospective families will have $204,700 to invest.

Other interesting figures of the May report are: 1486 letters were received from people interested in Oregon; 103 families signed the chamber's questionnaire giving facts about what they were seeking in Oregon; 5429 letters were mailed to prospective families and 2865 pieces of Oregon literature were mailed; 352 people called at the Portland office.

The state chamber report for the first five months of this year likewise shows a very substantial increase in new families, acres of land purchased and investments made. New families for the first five months of 1928 were 122, compared with 232 for 1928; acres of land purchased in 1928 were 8230, compared with 12,544 this year, and investments made by new families rose from $430,676 in 1928 to $806,225 in the first five months of 1929.

J. C. McKean spent the last weekend at Camp Sherman, arriving here the first of the week for a few days attention to business before joining an expedition at Camp Sherman to help remove the snow from off some of the roads to the lakes.

A young man working on the state highway work between Grass Valley and Moro is reported as the suspected person who entered a hotel room in Grass Valley last Saturday afternoon and stealing a suit of clothes and other valuables from Dell Munger.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Thompson returned last week from an extended visit with relatives and friends in the Willamette valley. They were accompanied on their return by Miss Joy Hulett, sister of Mrs. Thompson, who will visit here for several weeks.

Ira M. Petterson and wife were visiting here last weekend from Springfield, near Eugene, on their way to Pendleton. They expected to travel east to Baker and return to central Oregon by way of the John Day highway and home over the McKeanie pass.

Wallace and Ardeth Cochran and Cecil Gragg have returned to Moro from their studies at Albany college. Wallace is a member of the coast artillery battery A, at Albany, and will return there next month to go with his company to summer camp near Seattle, on July 9th.

F. C. Anderson, nephew of Mrs. C. L. Ireland, is spending part of his vacation from his duties at the Butler bank at Hood River visiting in Moro and renewing old friendships. Thursday he and Maurius Douma were fishing at Shearer Falls, bringing home quite a large basket of trout.

Funeral services will be held in The Dalles under auspices of Moro Rebecca lodge on Saturday afternoon, June 22, in memory of Mrs. Henry Lloyd who died Monday night at her home near Wasco. While ailing for a long time, the death of Mrs. Lloyd was sudden. Sunday, the day before her death, she was visiting in Moro with Mr. Lloyd.

The annual inspection visit of the board of regents of the Oregon State College to the Moro federal experiment farm and station will be held on Sunday, June 23. D. E. Stephens, superintendent of Moro station, has taken this means to issue a general informal invitation to all interested to visit the station and meet the members of the board.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Fortner returned to Moro on Saturday, June 15, following a two weeks auto tour of north California and south Oregon scenic roads. Their itinerary included a visit to Yosemite national park, a stop at Monterey and San Francisco, and north over the Redwood highway to the Oregon Caves, Grants Pass, Eugene and Portland.

What is locally known in Wasco as the "old Lawrence Jones house" was badly damaged by fire Sunday night. Tourists coming through the town late at night discovered the fire. It is reported that twelve hours elapsed between the last known visit of any person to the property and the time of the fire. Insurance was held on both building and contents.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Mrs. Clarence Morrison Wednesday, June 26, at 2:30 p. m. All members and families are urged to attend. If it is convenient please bring July and August envelopes to this meeting as this will be the last meeting until fall. Mrs. Theodore Johnston will be director for the day. The topic will be Cuba.

A contract was signed by the directors of school district No. 22, Boardman, on Thursday for a Dodge-Graham school bus equipped with a carrying capacity for 18 to 23 passengers. The district has voted to suspend school in their district and transport the pupils into Moro to attend school here. Delivery of the new bus will be made on or before August 20.

The electric power was "off" the larger part of last Sunday and Monday, caused by the burning down of a high line pole between Dufur and the Deschutes river. Tests made by linemen showed the lines clear between these points, forced patrolling lines in other sections. When these were found to be in condition, a patrol sent out from Dufur found the pole to have been burned hollow by fire and yet standing. The cause of the fire is not known.

The annual school district meeting held at the Moro school house on Monday for this district resulted in the election of J. B. Adams as school director to succeed W. C. Bryant and the election of F. E. Fortner as school clerk. The report of the clerk showed a property investment of $38,000 for building and equipment, the value of taxable property in the district to be $1,208,075, special tax levied for last year $9,664.60, cash on hand at last report $2,045.04, cash on hand this year $1,798.49.

The heavy wind storm of last Tuesday blew down a large Elm tree on East Third street in The Dalles. The tree came down in two sections, the top piece was 18 inches around at the break and 60 feet high. It shorted wire and broke both electric power and phone lines. An elderly woman sitting on a porch several feet distant was thrown violently against the wall of the building. Investigation showed wires had not touched the house, but that a ground circuit could have been formed with the damp timbers of the building.

CHURCHES

Moro Methodist Church Following the custom of past years, there will be no services whatever at our church Sunday June 23rd.
