WONDERS OF AMERICA ARE RECOUNTED BY REV. HICKS

The following article was written by Rev. Arthur Hicks, at the request of the editor of the Sherman County Observer, descriptive of his motor trip through Nature's Wonderland in Our Country. Mr. Hicks was former pastor of the Moro Presbyterian church and has been visiting here this week before resuming his journey to his home in California.

We left our home in Fowler, Cal., on July 10th, passing through the coast towns, visiting some of the old missions at Santa Barbara and a number of the other old towns of early Mexican population. At Needles on the Arizona border we ran into the hottest weather of the summer, 117 degrees in the shade. We crossed Arizona, spending a day at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, worthy of a long journey to view. For miles one looks up and down that river that looks like a silver ribbon in the canyon below. The coloring of the rock cliffs rising in this wonderful place passes even the ability of the great artists to reproduce.

Through northern Arizona and in New Mexico there are many dreary miles of driving, but the mountains and canyons are always interesting. The petrified forest, seven square miles of fallen, petrified trees, apparently pine trees, arouse the tourist's interest. Through the country about Albuquerque and northern New Mexico, over the Raton pass into Colorado, some of the most picturesque views opened before us. The roads of the states of California, New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado were uniformly good, only one mud hole stopping us as we came out of the Grand Canyon. The roads of Colorado are splendidly constructed and we found thousands of people representing nearly every state of the union during our travels there.

The journey through Wyoming, where the great herds of cattle foamed forty years ago, now are replaced in the valleys by tilled farms. In the hilly country there are oil wells and coal mines, telling you of the great development being made. The famous Jackson Hole country, where the cattle rustlers hid in early days, is most beautiful in rivers, lakes and mountains.

Two days and nights were spent among the wonders of Yellowstone park. It is beyond one's ability to describe the wonders of boiling springs and geysers, rainbow colored mountains, and crashing waterfalls and sky-blue lakes. The eyes of the artist and the pen of the ready writer are needed to describe the Yellowstone. The valley is the greatest resting place of wild animals. Hundreds of elk and buffalo, deer and antelope and bear are in evidence, the last one mentioned being entirely too friendly.

The ride through Butte and Anaconda, Coeur de Alene had many of the mining camps will recall to many the early mining days. It is difficult to say much in favor of the mountain roads. They are uniformly rough, excepting on the high mountain grades where they are well cared for. The roads of Idaho and eastern Washington are picturesque but not as well cared for as most of the Oregon roads. In all, we have driven about 5400 miles. We looked upon the beauties of Mt. Ranier, Mt. Baker and Mt. Hood in the glory of the sunshine and the moonlight. The most beautiful pictures we looked upon were those presented by the forests and hills, the rivers and the bays along the inland channels in a ride of 120 miles on Vancouver Island. Now we are enjoying for a few days the hospitality of our Moro friends before we return to our home in the south—where the bee banquets on through a whole year of flowers.

PREDATORY ANIMAL CONTROL STARTED IN THIS COUNTY

Elmer Williams, assistant leader of the United States biological survey, is spending the week in Sherman county, assisting Bart S. Robbs in starting operations against bobcats and coyotes. The first six weeks Mr. Robbs will trap, but by November 1st he will start poison operations, as that is the most economical method of control. Mr. Williams is asking the cooperation of the ranchers in furnishing crippled or worthless farm horses for poison stations. Hunter Mayhew started operations in December last winter and moved to Dufur in March. Although the snow was unusually heavy and there were hundreds of dead stock on the range, so that the coyotes didn't have to come to the stations, he was successful in getting 80 coyotes. After the skins he had taken were sold, it left just about as much money in the predatory animal fund as was there when he started operations. Mr. Robbs is starting operation earlier, and will continue later in the spring. He will make his headquarters in Grass Valley.

At the Goldendale fair last week Hal C, owned by Art Barzee, won all firsts. General Paxton, owned by McDonald and McKean, got a second; Hal Brown, same owners, got a second and third; Peter Maek, own-second and third. The time was 2:15 to 2:20.

Town Talk

Mrs. J. D. Miller's sister, Mrs. Cora DuBois, and son, Zola, passed through Moro last week, spending a part of two days visiting here. They had come from Omak, Wash., on their way home to LaVerne, Calif.

A reception sponsored by the Moro Woman's club, in honor of the high school faculty and the grade teachers of the Moro school will be given in the school auditorium Friday evening, September 20th. All patrons and parents of pupils attending the Moro school, as well as club members, and their husbands, are urged to be present.

A wedding license was issued by County Clerk G. C. Akers on September 7th to Walter E. Bruckert of Kent and Helen A. White of Wasco. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Holloway are visiting this week in Moro at the G. C. Akers home. Mr. and Mrs. Akers being parents of Mrs. Holloway. The Holloways are enroute from Boston to Los Angeles, where Mrs. Holloway will continue with her study of voice and Mr. Holloway with his work as a special free lance magazine writer.

The members of Moro Presbyterian church participated in a potluck supper served in the church basement dining room Monday night, in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Hicks, visiting here this week. Mr. Hicks was a former pastor of the church.

J. W. Cochran is a visitor in Moro this week from Fossil. Wm. Morrison returned Monday from The Dalles, where he was under medical observation for blood poisoning in a right hand finger, caused by a wood splinter.

C. H. Larson spent the last week end in Portland, where he attended the Oregon State Fox Breeders association, convention Friday. He was again reelected a director of the state association, at its business session.

Mrs. Jessie Amos and Mrs. R. H. McKean were court house visitors Monday from Wasco.

Mrs. Zeltha McIntyre and son, Neil, were visiting here this week from Athena.

The annual American National Fox Show will be held in Portland this year in connection with the Pacific International Livestock Exposition.

Fire started last Friday afternoon overhead in the wooded shed adjoining the Robert Urquhart home. Very nominal damage resulted, as the blaze was quickly gotten under control. It is thought that the fire started in a mouse nest in a discarded suitcase.

The usual Dorcas Society social for September will be held next Wednesday at the E. H. Moore home.

Folks needing shoe repairing leave work with L. R. Conlee, agent, to be sent to M. L. Fritts at Grass Valley.

Sheriff Chrisman was called to Rufus Sunday night to meet the 2:15 through passenger train to take in charge and place under arrest a Mexican who had tried to kill a brakeman on the train.

Newton Crossfield and family of Wasco were on business bent to Portland Monday.

A marriage license was secured Monday at the county clerk's office by Cecil B. Brooks and Carol E. Potter, both of Hood River.

We can fit all kinds of people. Any size or weight. Crippled or deformed feet. Wernmark's Shoe Store, The Dalles.

Wheat was moving slowly in the Umatilla area over the past week end, due to the several cent drop in quotations. Buyers estimate that about 3,000,000 bushels, or half the county's crop, has been contracted for.

Hogquill will be the site for the 1930 Saengerfest of the Pacific Coast Norwegian Singers' association, according to a decision reached at the 24th annual Saengerfest of the order, which ended in Astoria recently.

Hop picking in Lane county began last week in most yards. Hop-raising, once as common a crop in that section as potato growing, is rapidly lessening in extent. But a few of the larger fields now remain. Many of these have long since abandoned early hop growing.

The Mt. Hood Land & Water company has established a construction camp at Clear lake, 11 miles south of Government camp, for the construction of a temporary log-crib dam to supply water to Wapinitia plains farms.

Further curtailment of production by mills and camps of the Pacific region is necessary to avoid a severe depression in the lumber industry this winter. It was stated at a meeting of the Willamette Valley Lumbermen's association in Eugene.

The present Mount Pleasant school in Clackamas county is to be moved 100 feet south to make way for a new $25,000 structure to be erected during the next few months. Students of Twilight will attend the Mount Pleasant school as the result of a recent annexation.

Some of the farmers in the Walla-walla community have been busy recently working their summer-fallow and getting seed wheat ready for fall seeding. Some say they are afraid to seed because of the danger of the grain being taken by the large hordes of grasshoppers.

FAITH GINN GIVEN AWAY IN PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Miss Faith Evangeline Ginn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ginn of this city, was given in marriage by her father to Rev. Harold Kidwell Needham of Pasadena, Calif., on Saturday evening, September 7th, at the home of the bride, where a few friends and relatives had gathered. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Everett Fulton of Longview, Wash.

The bride wore a dress of ivory crepe roma which was softly draped by the folds of a tulle veil, and she carried an arm bouquet of roses. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Ruth Needham, was maid of honor. She wore a pink crepe roma dress and carried flowers of harmonizing color. Mr. Harold Ginn, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Mrs. Glenn Maurer played the wedding march. Following a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Needham left for a trip through Yellowstone park, after which they will make their home at Los Angeles, Calif. Mr. Needham will again take up his duties as principal of the Southern California Bible School at Pasadena.

FORMER ROUND-UP STARS COME BACK TO PENDELTON

Pendleton, Sept. 13—Three former stars of the track and arena have been chosen judges of the 1929 Round-Up, September 18, 19, 20 and 21.

They are Allen Drumbeller of Walla Walla, Tony Vey of Pendleton and Walter Seal of Condon. The Round-Up is opening this year with a more colorful array of performers than have ever been present before at this world's championship show. With the ranks of old timers swelled by the arrival of dozens of new men and women seeking "cowpuncher" laurels, Pendleton is offering her biggest spectacle of the old days in a romantic West.

In announcing the judges, the Round-Up also announces that attendants for Queen Kathleen McClintock, queen of the Round-Up, will be Dena Lieullen of Adams, Adelyn McIntyre of Pendleton, Alegra McCormack of Pendleton, and Kathryn Furnish of Pendleton. Like their queen, the princesses are skilled horsewomen.

TEACHERS REPORT FOR FALL OPENING OF LOCAL SCHOOLS

With the opening of Moro schools Monday, September 16th, the teaching staff is reporting for duty on local grounds during 1929-30.

Those graduating from the eighth grade as a result of the September examinations were: Irene Kee of Rufus, Gladys Baker of Moro, and Marjory MacInnes of Kent.

Camel Not Heavily Loaded When a camel is three years old, it is taken into the caravan for a few trips to accustom it to desert travel. At four it carries a small load and at five can undertake a full share of work. However, loads carried by these huge animals do not exceed 100 to 500 pounds at most.

Renovating Engravings Yellow stains on the margins of engravings can often be removed by using a solution of hydrochloric acid, which is also known as Labarraque's solution.
