Moro Visitor Dies Suddenly

Z. T. Cole, aged 77 years, died suddenly at 8:45 o'clock Saturday evening at the home of his son Fred Cole, farming on the west end of Gordon Ridge. Mr. Cole in company with his son Harry of Sherwood, Ore., and Mrs. Gillihan of Portland, arrived at the farm Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock, intending to visit and watch a combine harvester work in the field. After eating a hearty supper he complained of being cold, taking a warm place behind the stove, where he suddenly collapsed and died almost instantly. The remains were placed in charge of Callaway's and conveyed to Sherwood Wednesday where funeral services were held the same afternoon. Deceased leaves two brothers: Frank Cole of Chehalis, Wash., Walter Cole of Los Angeles; two sisters: Nettie and Mary, both of Los Angeles; two sons: Harry of Sherwood, Ore., and Fred of Moro, Ore., and one daughter, Lottie Cole of Sherwood, teacher in Moro schools.

A small Ford truck, owned by the Farmers Elevator Co. and driven by Keith McDonald, used to haul sacked wheat from the McDonald farm to Moro, was partly wrecked early Wednesday morning at the E. E. Barzee street intersection. The brakes failed to hold the load on the steep grade and forced the driver to make an emergency turn. Four sacks of wheat was split, but none bursted. The wishbone on the truck was broken and the front axle bent.

R. J. Ginn received word Monday morning that a baby boy was born at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening to Mr. H. K. and Mrs. Faith Needham, daughter of Mr. Ginn, at the family home in Los Angeles.

Town Talk

Dr. Clarke, Eye Sight Specialists, in Moro Wednesday, August 6th, at Hotel Moro.

Mrs. Esta Powell and daughter Lucile were visitors in Moro this week from Portland.

Have your child's eyes looked after before school opens. Dr. Clarke, in Moro Wednesday, August 6th.

Mrs. N. W. Thompson expects to leave the last of the week for Portland to attend the annual buyers' week activities.

We can fit all kinds of people. Any size or weight. Crippled or deformed feet. Wernmark's Shoe Store, The Dalles.

S. S. Hayes was a visitor in the county from Portland last weekend, looking after his farm interests southeast of Moro.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tubb and three children were visitors from Castle Rock, Wash., last Monday at the farm of George Hennagin and family.

Rev. Clark Smith, pastor of the United Brethren church at Maupin, attended services at the Methodist church in this place last Sunday evening.

L. L. Peetz was a business visitor in Portland on Wednesday. Upon his return Thursday the family made plans for a visit to their summer home at Camp Sherman.

Harry Otte, college chem and roommate of Clarence Huls, who has been assisting with the harvest this year in Sherman county, left Thursday for his home at Fall City, Ore.

County Supt. L. W. Rakes will leave here the last of the week for Salem to attend the state convention of county superintendents meeting there on August 4-5-6. Mr. Rakes is a member of the convention legislative committee.

Dr. Clarke of the Clarke Optical Co., 326 1/2 Washington St., Cor. 6th, Portland, Ore., Eye Sight Specialists, will be in Moro all day and evening Wednesday, August 6th, at Hotel Moro. See him about your eyes.

A party of old time Sherman county friends spent part of last weekend at the George Hennagin farm home. Numbered in the group were Wm. Holman and wife, their cousin Lily and husband, and John Holman and wife.

Harvest work on the C. P. Moore machine was stopped Wednesday elevating grain from machine to bin, night by the top of the grain auger, becoming loose and winding itself to a jam stop. The machine rested next day while waiting for new parts.

Otto Hoffman, former employe of the Sherman County Observer and now employed in the printing trade on a paper at Ely, Nevada, was visiting in Moro for a short time last week on his return to Ely from a vacation loop motor trip through California, Oregon, Idaho and Utah.

Rev. Henry G. Hanson, wife and son Leroy were visiting in Moro this week from Independence. They made the trip here by way of the Mt. Hood loop highway and The Dalles and were intending to return by way of Portland, the lower Columbia highway and Roosevelt highway as far as Newport.

The use of sand and gravel covering on floors of poultry houses, which is a common practice in some states, is believed to be both unsanitary and troublesome for Oregon poultrymen. It is next to impossible to keep the litter and droppings from contaminating the sand, says the Oregon Experiment station.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Buchanan and daughter Genevieve, Mrs. Martie Buchanan, mother of Don, and Mrs. Miller, all residents of Baker, Ore., spent Monday and Tuesday visiting in the county on their return from a motor trip to Portland. Mrs. Buchanan and son Don are sister-in-law and nephew of Mrs. L. H. and Mrs. W. J. Martin.

A county 4-H club picnic will be held at DeMoss park on August 10, beginning at 1 o'clock. The meeting is county wide and any club member can bring whomever he or she wishes. All are asked to bring their lunch. The program includes a speaker from out of the county and the award to clubbers of achievement pins for the year's work they have finished.

W. A. Ruggles finished the harvest season for this year—so he thought—when the A. G. Futter machine was pulled in from the field the first of the week. But he again took charge of a separator, this time for Herbert Root, on Thursday morning. Mr. Root had started the harvest with a complete crew. But found part of them inefficient and traded the jobs around winding up as "cat" driver. The man in charge of the separator caused so many delays and breakdowns that it was either Ruggles take charge as separator man or Root pull in his outfit until he could get a man. He had tried each of the three towns in search of a separator man, before he could get Mr. Ruggles to help him keep the machine moving.

Sunshine

The Boy Scouts, Camp Fire girls and other exponents of the out-of-doors are enjoying benefits of life in the open. They see the things of the world in a new light and understand nature better. They meet friends in the same cause, swap stories, and form congenial companionships. Every student of the big out-of-doors gets new object lessons, makes new resolves and forms new links of character with the day of sunshine.

Sunshine is the test of summer time. It ripens the grain and fruit and gives strength to the camper. All nature has a smiling face when the sun causes the plants to grow, the flowers to open and the fruit to mature. Sunshine induces youth to get out, amid the fields and forests, drink in the pure air and enjoy the helpfulness of exercise in the open.

There are profits in sunshine that one does not always reckon on when planning an outing in the open. It creates beauty and attractiveness and thereby adds to efficiency and usefulness. It helps in fitting one for future work and inculcates a desire for keeping young in order to continue enjoying the playfields of youth. Yes, there are countless benefits to be derived from mingling with the all-outdoors. The sun paints smiles on the cheeks of humanity in unerasable lines.

Meat Consumption Shows Increase in 1930

The consumption of meat in the United States is increasing. The bureau of agricultural economics, United States department of agriculture, is authority for this statement.

According to figures furnished by the bureau, meat consumption for the first five months of 1930 shows an increase over the average of the same periods for the past seven years. These figures are based on the number of federally inspected slaughter animals and net imports, but do not include exports or re-exports or changes in cold storage holdings.

The average total consumption of all meats—beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton—for the first five months of the years 1923 to 1929 inclusive was 5,057,415,000 as compared to 5,083,055,000 pounds for the first five months of 1930.

The increased consumption of meat is due in part to the fact that more meat is coming into the market. For a good many years the production of meat animals has not kept pace with growth in population. The increased demand for meat and meat products has resulted in increased production of cattle, sheep, and hogs, according to Charles D. Carey, chairman of the national live stock and meat board, Chicago.

Another factor influencing greater use of meat is the modern trend in the field of nutrition. New discoveries of the food value of meat, as for example, liver in the treatment of anemia, have caused the pendulum of dietetics to swing back from the extremes of a few years ago to a more liberal inclusion of meat in the diet. Incidentally, and of special interest to the consumer, the retail price of meat is lower than it has been for a good many years.

Robt Armstrong, Underworld Czar, in "Racketeer"

Mingling the drama and sinister influence of the underworld with the culture and extravagant contentment of society, "The Racketeer," starring Robert Armstrong and featuring Carol Lombard, which comes to Moro theatre on Sunday August 3, presents a romance that for entertainment and color is one of the most effective all-dialogue pictures that has thus far been produced.

With Robert Armstrong in the role of the racketeer and Carol Lombard playing the feminine lead, this Pathe production takes its audience into its grip from the opening scene and retains its interest until its highly effective and dramatic finish.

Armstrong is perfectly cast as the racketeer. His suave manner, covering a manner that packs dynamite in every swift, dangerous move, keeps the audience on edge with suspense, wondering what will happen next. Yet, the romantic side of his character inspires the hope that he will get the breaks.

Carol Lombard, as the girl who is torn between the love of a dissipated musician and gratitude for this smartly dressed wolf of the underworld, is said to give her finest performance to date. Others in the cast, all of whom acquit themselves as sterling actors are Roland Drew, as the musician; Kit Guard as the racketeer's right hand man; Hedda Hopper, as a society woman; Al Hill, as a gangster chauffeur; Jeanette Loff as a society flapper and John Loder as a rich idler.

"The Racketeer," which was directed by Howard Higgin from an original story Paul Gangelin, deals with an underworld character, yet it is not entirely an underworld picture. Much of the action takes place in the lavish background of society and, excepting for the everpresent influence of the law breaker's world, it reveals a beautiful and charming romance. Sunday, August 3.

CHURCHES

Methodist Church Notes.
Church School every Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock.
Preaching next Sunday evening at 8:00.

The theme for Sunday evening is "Selling Our Birthright."
Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 8:00.

The Ladies Aid meets Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.
The Sunday School was very pleasantly surprised last Sunday morning when two classes, the Beginners Class, taught by Mrs. Ramsey; and Juniors taught by Mary Smith, completed the trip to Jerusalem. For some time the school has been looking forward to this event. It is not often that two classes are able to win in the same race. In the near future the two classes will be suitably rewarded.

At the close of the lesson period next Sunday there will be a short missionary story told by Mrs. Bryant and a declamation by Veda Belshee. "Heaven is not gained by a single bound.

We build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And mount to its summit round by round."

The church with a cordial welcome.
F. A. Ginn, pastor.

Christian Science
Service Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Sunday School at 10:00 o'clock each Sunday morning, pupils up to the age of 20 years are received into these classes.

The lesson-sermon topic for the service next Sunday morning will be "Love."

Reading room open daily where all authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased. The public is cordially invited to attend the church services and visit the reading room.

The Full Gospel Assembly
"Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another, and the Lord harkened, and heard it, and a book of remembrance was written from before Him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon His name. And they shall be mine, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day when I shall make up my jewels: and I will spare them as a man spareth his own son that serveth him."—Malachi 3:16, 17.

Usual services on Sunday.
Sunday School at 10:00 a. m.
Preaching at 11:00 a. m.
Preaching at 7:30 p. m.

The farmer's income goes back directly into the community.

In dollars and cents, the farming industry is the largest in the nation, exceeding both the steel industry and the automobile industry combined. The value of manufactured products based on farm products as a raw material exceeds any one of the great industries by more than 500 million dollars.
