THURSDAY : MAY 11, 1899

The report that Aguinaldo is about to surrender is perhaps true, although he is treacherous. He has undoubtedly learned enough by this time to know that fighting Uncle Sam is much different from what he is used to; and that his cause is utterly hopeless. More than that, he will some day find out it would be impossible for him to succeed in his purpose anyway.

Governor Thomas, of Colorado, is making threats of compelling the government to send home the volunteers. It is not right. Not a lad would, no matter how much he would like to, go till he is needed no longer; and there are very few but what would enlist right over again if needed.

Quay will try his best to get a seat by use of his power next election. Let it be hoped that McKinley, Platt, Hanna and those fellows will not be so barefaced. If it was wrong to seat Corbett it is wrong to seat Quay. He should be made to realize it.

The Wasco G. A. R. have passed resolutions as aiding Geer in his action in refusing to make a fool of himself by demanding the recall of the Oregon boys. The G. A. R. have been there. They know what they are doing.

Oregon has been re-districted for taking the census. And it is so mutilated that the first district will not be in it very heavy. The proper way would be to take the districts as the representatives are elected.

Although the administration may exonerate Alger and blame Miles, the majority of the people will generally believe Miles told the truth. McKinley will one of these days be sorry he chose so close to Alger.

It begins to look as though either Alger or Miles must retire. It is not known which will go yet, but if public sentiment has anything to do with it, Alger will be the one to go.

When one takes notice of the failure of Portland's council to elect a new mayor, he must think they have been studying the tactics of several legislatures pretty thoroughly.

More trying to get the Principle mail is causing considerable comment. We only say they should get their mail from the most practical point—and Moro is that point.

Gen. Egan has been expelled from the loyal legion. That's right. His conduct is such that he should not be allowed any show whatever to be where children are.

It scarcely seems possible that Aguinaldo would be so thin as to imagine Uncle Sam would grant him a three months' armistice. What fools some men will be.

If cold weather keeps up much longer, the chances are some of the river towns will be buying bathing suits. Every indication points to high water.

It is pleasing news to know that the salmon run is getting heavier; and one of the Pacific Northwest's industries will be very good after all.

Talk about trouble at Wardner! By the first of the week 900 arrests had been made. From the appearance of things it will take a few more.

A pair of enormous lenses to be displayed at the Paris exposition will, it is claimed, bring the moon to within seven miles of the earth.

Before Quay is voted he may have cause to remember that he was one of the most vigorous opponents to the seating of Corbett.

Many of the Wardner strikers have evinced a Filipino trait by running away to the mountains the moment a soldier appears.

Evidently there is a wrong on both sides of the Wardner strike; but the strikers have the slimmest end of the situation.

Dewey is to be given a $10,000 dinner on his return from Manila. Let it be hoped he will enjoy it.

According to reports congress is liable to meet in October.

SERPENTINE LORE.

interesting Scientific Facts About Poisonous Snakes.

Different Effects of the Venom of Various Reptiles.—The Deadly Marine Snakes of the Indian Ocean.

The following facts are given by a snake scientist, a man, in fact, who knows what he is talking about. Such a one is Dr. Leonard Stejneger, of the national museum at Washington. He said to a correspondent of the Boston Transcript:

"You do not admire snakes, I suppose? Well, it is all a matter of taste. There was Prof. Baird, former secretary of the Smithsonian institution. He swallowed a poison snake of the rattlesnake one day, just to make sure that the venom was harmless when taken internally. The experiment was a risky one; I would have advised him against it. At all events, it is well that he did not try the poison glands of a cobra.

"You see," continued the doctor, "gently stroking with his finger the head of a harmless living snake to give the creature pleasure, 'the poisons are different. Each of them contains two distinct active principles, one of which produces local symptoms in case of a bite, while the other has a tendency to paralyze the nervous centers of the victim. The latter preponderates in the cobra venom. A wound made by the tooth of that species of serpent is a mere puncture and causes little swelling. The person bitten is killed by paralysis of the nerve centers. The danger of the rattlesnake bite, on the other hand, is from necrotization of the injured part, which may proceed so far that the flesh actually petrifies. Cobra poison in its natural state is one of those fluids which are able to pass through membranes. If swallowed it would be apt to go through the walls of the alimentary tract and get into the circulation in that way.

"That is a myth," he said, "but it is not a very large one. The species attains a length of thirty feet and a diameter of a foot. If I met such a serpent would my scientific knowledge give me a better chance in an encounter with it? Well, perhaps. Notwithstanding my enthusiasm as a collector, I would certainly run away if I could. Supposing that the animal seized me, it is probable that I would keep my wits better than the average citizen would under such circumstances. The only thing to do would be to grasp the creature by the throat and try to strangle it. The other day I read a statement to the effect that the proper course to pursue in an emergency of the kind was to take hold of the tail of the snake and twist it. In my opinion, coils from that end. In my opinion, that would be a poor plan to adopt, with a python, inasmuch as its tail is the strongest part of it, being made powerful for holding on.

Resolutions.

At a regular meeting of W. T. Sherman Post No. 4, The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That this Post do most heartily endorse the action of Hon. T. T. Geer, governor of Oregon, in refusing to demand the return of our volunteers from the Philippines, believing that the demand for their recall at a time when their services were needed by the national government would be a foul blot on the record of that brave and patriotic regiment, who have proven themselves to be equals in patriotism and gallantry in camp and field of any body of men who ever faced their country's foe.

That we deem the action of Governor Geer a credit to our state and an honor to himself, and by such action should be emulated by our other war governors who so nobly sustained the national government in the days of the civil war.

Ordered that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Governor Geer, and to the local papers for publication. Wasco, Or., May 8, 1899.

B. F. PIKE, Post Commander.

Unhappy Wife's Story.

Mrs. Michael Curtiss, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle, and to her delight found herself benefited from the first dose. She continued its use, and after taking six bottles found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this great discovery at Marsh & Medler's drug store. Only 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed.

Many old soldiers now feel the effects of the hard service they endured during the war. Mr. Geo. S. Anderson, of Rossville, York county, Penn., who saw the hardest kind of service at the front, is now frequently troubled with rheumatism. "I had a severe attack lately," he says, "and procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It did so much good that I would like to know what you would charge me for one dozen bottles." Mr. Anderson wanted it for his own use and to supply to his friends and neighbors, as every family should have a bottle of it in their house, not only for rheumatism, but lame back, sprains, swellings, cuts, bruises and burns, for which it is unequalled. For sale by Marsh & Medler, druggists.

Story of a Slave. To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female disorders quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. In a miracle-working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run-down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c. Sold by Marsh & Medler, druggists.
