An exchange very wisely says: The effort of any newspaper to build up a town is practically nullified unless it is backed up by the business men. A business man turns from the news columns of a paper to the advertising pages, and if he fails to find there the business cards of the merchants and professional firms he comes to the conclusion that the town is a deadhead town and no good. No town ever grew without the active aid of the new paper. Nor can papers grow and build up their localities without the active assistance of the town. Business men of the town should realize this and remember in giving support to the newspapers they are not only building up their own business, but helping to support that which is steadily working for the benefit of the whole community.

There are a number of parents in Wasco who do not look after their children as they should. There are a great number who always go to meet the train whenever it comes in. Some day there will be an accident and some little fellows hurt—and it will not be the fault of the Columbia Southern, either.

The last order that the Oregon boys be sent to Astoria and there transferred to river steamers and brought to Portland, is more in keeping with Americanism. Those boys have rendered heroic service enough that they should be entitled to any treatment within reason. Their services may be needed again, and kind treatment now might have a good effect later.

It is pleasing to observe how willing the volunteers, especially officers, are to re-enlist. It shows not only the patriotism that exists, but also that they have not been badly treated.

Magers, the murderer of Ray Sink, has been granted a stay of execution pending an appeal. He was to have been executed the 21st of this month.

According to reports Hood River strawberry shipments were 33,874 crates up to July 4.

The citizens of Wasco will entertain their visitors to the best of their ability during the celebration. The committee, however, is unable to fix a date for the event, as it is not known what date Portland has selected, and some of our citizens may desire to attend Portland's blowout and then Wasco's. So the date will be two days after the celebration in Portland, and will no doubt be announced in our next issue.

A LANDLUBBER SURPRISED.

Quickness of British Tars in Clearing a Battleship for Action.

At the words: "Clear for action" there is a commotion which a landsman might mistake for a panic, as men rush from point to point. A bluejacket, says the London Daily News, never walks when an order is given, but does everything at the double. Everyone knows his station, and goes to it by the quickest and shortest way. With a rapidity that seems wonderful, companion ladders, with their ponderous gangways, are unshipped and stowed away; railings around the low decks, fore and aft, are lowered; the ventilating cowls and chimney stacks disappear, to be replaced by covers flush with the deck; hatches are battened down, water-tight doors closed, and tackle rigged for hoisting ammunition from the magazine. Between decks everywhere something of the same kind is being done as quickly and as quietly, and then the men stand to their guns. When the bugles sound for drill to commence, the great barbette turntables revolve slowly, trained by unseen power, and the quick-firing guns in maindeck batteries are worked with surprising celerity by detachments of royal marine artillery.

At a prize shooting recently a detachment fired sixteen shots in three minutes from one of the repulse guns, scoring nine direct hits and planting all the other seven shots so close to the target that they would have riddled the hull of a very small ship. The seventeenth round was in this gun when the "cease fire" sounded, so that one gunner, who was loading, must have lifted seventeen hundred pounds in three minutes. This incident gives a vivid idea of the work that would have to be done in action by crews of these quick-firing guns, as well as of the smartness with which the "blue marines" set about their task. Fire discipline will be a potent factor in any future battle at sea, and there can be no better means of acquiring it than by such exercise as one has seen at general quarters during the maneuvers.

CHINESE NEWSPAPERS.

Printed on Rice Paper Without Wasting an Inch of Margin.

I paid a visit yesterday to the biggest Chinese newspaper in the empire to make inquiries as to the employment of a Chinese artist to do some native illustrations for me, and had a most interesting talk with the manager. The paper is called the Shun Pao, and it is the best-paying and most widely circulated of the three native newspaper dailies of Shanghai. It is an eight-page sheet of about the size and shape of Frank Leslie's newspaper or Harper's Weekly, says a letter by Frank G. Carpenter in the latter paper, printed on the thinnest of rice paper. It is so light that it does not weigh more than a man's handkerchief, and so thin that the paper can be printed on one side only. The paper goes to press in big sheets, which are so folded that the blank side is turned inward when taken in hand by the subscriber, and so that there is neither cutting nor pasting. Owing to the thinness of the paper, it has a greasy, yellow appearance, and it is printed so closely with Chinese type that not an inch of space seems to be wasted. The headline or title of the paper consists of two Chinese characters, taking up a space not wider than one of the columns of our newspapers, and not more than an inch in length. It is a one cent sheet, its price being ten cents each, but as China is on a silver basis, this should, in our money, now be divided by two, and its price would then be only half a cent.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

On Wednesday afternoon, July 5, the ladies of the W. C. T. U. met in regular session at the home of Mrs. W. S. Barzee. A goodly number were assembled, there being 18 present.

The president being absent, the meeting was conducted by the vice-president, Mrs. Boles.

The interest in the work is increasing and much good is being accomplished along the line of department work. The meeting opened with the usual half-hour devotional exercises, after which followed the usual order of business. Supt. of the social purity department reported the need of more literature to distribute among the young people, and instructions were given to purchase what is needed.

A letter was read from the secretary of the Chautauqua temperance work, telling of the successful work done along the temperance line in the Chautauqua assemblies both at Gladstone and Ashland last year, and asking for a donation for the same work this year. Our Union promptly responded to this call, for it was believed to be a worthy cause, and one through which much good is accomplished.

Different lines of work were mentioned and discussed with lively interest by those present.

Adjourned to meet at Mrs. Bright's at the next regular meeting, July 19, a 2:30 p. m. REPORTER.
