An Eastern man has this statement sewed to his undershirt: "My appendix has been cut out," and explains his case this way: "You see, these are the balmy knifing days of the surgeon. If a fellow happens to fall into a fit, faint or lose consciousness for any reason, they cast him off to the hospital and operate for appendicitis without waiting for him to come to and say what ails him. I've been sliced open once, and don't hanker for encores."

Richard Kelley, an odd character, who has resided in Eastern Oregon for upwards of 20 years, was in Burns last week, says the News. Kelley, at one time, corresponded for some of the leading papers on the coast, and possesses a remarkable fluency of diction, together with a considerable aptitude for versifying. He is generally known as "Kelley, the Poet," and was once dubbed by a well known publication as "the inspired idiot." The most pretentious ebulition of his erratic intellect is "The Address to Mount Shasta," which really possesses considerable merit. Mr. Kelley now passes his time looking after the welfare of a band of merinos, in the not very classic or romantic precincts of Stein mountain.

Everyone who happened to turn his eyes toward Mount Hood Wednesday evening of last week is ready to testify that the pride of Oregon was guilty of smoking. For more than half an hour before dusk smoke or thick vapor streamed out to the eastward, undulating and dissipating in the atmosphere like smoke from the stack of some large factory. Dark came on and closed the scene, which was truly interesting while it lasted.—Glacier.

The board of health have ordered that no public gatherings of any kind be held in Wasco until such time as they deem it safe for the public health. This includes the literary, dances, church and school. The latter was closed till further orders this morning. The city council also prohibited any freight, passenger or mail traffic from Moro to this city. The mail has been quarantined since Jan. 1, but the law has been avoided, we are sorry to say. In view of the six new cases reported at Moro, let us hope no more violations will take place, for this is a serious matter.

The Ashland woolen mill, one of the oldest industrial establishments in the state, owned and operated by Messrs. E. K. & G. N. Anderson, representing an invested capital of over $65,000, and regularly employing thirty to thirty-five hands, was destroyed by fire, which is supposed to have originated in the weaving room Monday morning at 2:10 o'clock. Machinery to the value of $5,000 has recently been added to the plant, and the concern was in the most prosperous condition. About $6,000 worth of blankets and blanketing in process of manufacture was also burned. The insurance on the building and its contents amounted to $13,500.

There has been much talk of Prof. White exposing himself to smallpox and then teaching. Mr. White did not expose himself to the disease notwithstanding all reports to the contrary. He walked down to China Hollow Saturday, and came within 50 feet of Ray Sink's barn, and inquired of the Sink boys on hand who owned the property. They informed him and warned him to keep away, owing to the liability of contagion. It is needless to say the professor made tracks hurriedly in a southerly direction, not wishing a closer intimacy. The report, however, rapidly gained ground, principally among school children; and this explannation is deemed necessary to allay whatever fears the public may have in the matter.

Salting Wheat Fields.

Col. Judson, industrial agent of the O. R. & N., is going to try putting salt on wheat lands to make them retain moisture. On his return to Portland from a visit to the Blalock farm, on the Columbia, Col. Judson said:

"While at the farm I arranged with a couple of farmers to test the preservation of moisture in land by the use of salt. This is no new idea. It has been tried in the East. I shall salt the fields during different stages of the growth of the grain and keep an accurate account for publication, so that farmers desiring to use it may know how to go about it. These tests will show whether or not we can retain moisture in the ground during the ripening season. I find that in Eastern Oregon the prevailing warm winds during the ripening season damage the crops.

"Mr. Campbell, under whose direction I am working, has already purchased the salt, and it is now in storage ready for use. Tests will be made not only at the point mentioned, but also in the Walla Walla and Umatilla valleys. I shall use 3000 pounds of salt to the acre."

Farmers in the Inland Empire will watch this experiment with great interest, If it proves a success it will add materially to the value of their grain fields.—W. W. Statesman.

Sydney Hawson Suicide.

Sydney G. Hawson, representative from Gilliam county, who has been defending a divorce suit in Judge Cleland's court, ended his troubles yesterday afternoon by shooting himself through the heart in his room in the Esmond hotel. He had been greatly wrought up by the trial of the suit, and a letter he wrote to his wife shows that his quarrel with her had preyed upon his mind till he determined on suicide. He had just paid his bill at the hotel office, and was ready to leave for Arlington, when he fired the shot which ended his life instantly. A bell boy, Ralph Ross, was in the adjoining room tying up a bundle of letters under Mr. Hawson's direction when he heard the shot. He looked up and saw that Hawson had removed his coat and laid on the bed before killing himself, and then the boy gave the alarm. The coroner removed the remains to the morgue shortly after.

Hawson was a native of England and about 35 years of age. He had formerly been in charge of ex-Governor Z. F. Moody's warehouse, at Arlington, but more recently was in the employ of Morris & Whitehead, of Portland. He represented Gilliam county at the last session of the legislature.

It is said that a congressman the other day asked Brigham H. Roberts how many wives he had, when the gentleman from Utah answered: "Enough so that I don't bother other men's wives." This lead one of our exchanges to say, that this is more than some of our lawmakers in Washington can truthfully say of themselves.

MENDEL'S
DYNAMIC TABULES

In some places we are familiarly known as "the thousand dollar prescription," not just the reverse of the old constipating cough syrups. They reduce and eliminate the coagulated serum that is the cause of colds and crowd the work and effects of a week's old-time treatment into twelve hours and abort the cold in a night. It is the delay in controlling colds and coughs that permits them to develop into pneumonia and similar serious troubles. Price 25 cents.

We have secured the local agency for this new scientific treatment for colds and have the Dynamic Tabules now on sale.
