Last Sunday the stores in Wasco, all or part of them, were closed, all or part of the time. s is an excellent thing for the clerks, giving them a chance to catch a little rest on Sunday, but we have to make the gloomy prediction that it will not last, the greed for gain is too great. Mr. Tozier is right when he sas that some stores are like the gates of ell—always open

The guests of the Epworth League reading circle gathered last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Howell. Owing to the inclement weather, the circle provided those wishing to attend with conveyance to and from their homes. An excellent program and a number of entertaining and instructive games were enjoyed during the evening. Refreshments were served as usual. It is a safe gues that all who attended last Friday evening will be present at Dr. and Mrs Morse's home this evening.

Wedding Bells.

Another young couple were made happy by the words of Rev. F. E Smith at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Medler at high noon on Wednesday last. The ceremony united in marriage two well known residents of Sherman county, Miss Lena Mae Medler and Mr. Chas. Johnson. At the appointed hour the bridal party took their places under a tastily constructed canopy of white silk and ribbons, from which was suspended a wedding bell of white silk. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white net over white silk and the groom was dressed in the conventional black. After the wedding ceremony an excellent dinner was served by the bride's parents. Many and costly were the presents received by the happy young couple, among which were a sewing machine from the bride's parents and a dinner set, couch and rocking chair from the groom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Medler will make their future home in Sherman county. The News extends best wishes and a long, happy and prosperous journey through life.

Don't forget the masque skate at the rink Saturday night Dec. 21st

The Geo. N. Crosfield Store.

A large quantity of merchandise was distributed through this store during the past week Heavy inroads have been made by eager customers on his complete line of men's and boys' clothing, as has also been the case in the other clothing and dry goods departments. If you cannot be suited from the stock on hand, a special order is immediately sent in for what you want. In one day the clerks took four special orders for men's suits. The large line of Christmas goods put on display a little more than a week ago is being rapidly diminished and purchasers will do well to hasten with their orders. At the store is displayed a full line af Christmas decorations, as well as Christmas pesents. See Crosfield for all kinds of general merchandise.

After the Oil.

Dufur, Ore., Dec. 8—Following the discovery of traces of oil on the old Dufur ranch, four miles above this city, last fall, which attracted so much attention throughout the state at the time, active operations here been begun to thoroughly prospect the region and ascertain if oil really exists in quantities to make development of the industry a paying one. When local people formed a stock company last Summer to develop the find, and secured contracts on the lands in the vicinity of the location of the oil-bearing spring, outsiders rushed in and attempted to secure control of the new company, but failed. These people started to sink a well, but at the time were unable to secure the required casing and operations had to be suspended. Now the casing has been secured and last week, without the blare of trumphets, the work of sinking the oil well was resumed.

Thus far the drill has gone down several hundred feet and the men in charge of the work say indications are that oil bearing sands will be found at a less depth than was at first supposed. Before spring it should be definitely known whether or not oil exists here in paying quantities.

Oil was first found here in the waters of a spring on the Dufur ranch. It rose to the surface of the water in sufficient quantities to attract attention, and this led to the investigation, which was followed by the organization of the company.

The oil found on the water was skimmed and placed in a jar, where it was allowed to settle, and when skimmed off and placed in a bottle, the pure oil rose to the surface in such fine quality that those first beholding it believed that a hoax was being prepared on them.
