The time for opening the state fair has been changed from October 6th to September 15th. The fair will close on September 21st.

Smokers attention is called to the fact that at Holders confectionery store you can find the best line of cigars and tobacco in town.

The new assortment of spring goods at the M. M. Company's store must be seen to be appreciated. It consists of silks, satins, lawns, veilings, lace, chiffon and, in fact, everything usually found in a first class store.

The carpenters who constructed the Anderson building were the subject of a very pleasant surprise party given in their honor by Mrs. E. M. West last Thursday evening. About 25 guests were present and enjoyed themselves with music, games, etc., until a late hour.

D. S. Dufur, court stenographer was in Moro the latter part of last week assisting County Clerk Henrichs in preparing a transcript of the record in the case of Parlin & Ornduff vs W. M. Barnett, which was decided in favor of the defendant last fall. The plaintiffs have taken the case to the supreme court.

Mrs. J. M. Dunahoo received a letter last Saturday, announcing the death of her mother, Mrs. M. A. Metlock, of Biggs, Butte county, California. Deceased had many acquaintances in Sherman county who will regret very much to learn of her sudden demise. The sympathy of the Republic and the community is extended to Mrs. Dunahoo.

Prof. E. C. Peery, principal of the Moro school, has been elected to the position for another year. He will close his first year about the 10th of May, and will spend the summer in Seio. He has been elected as leader of the brass band at Moro, and it looks as though he had just about permanently connected himself with that thriving bunch grass town.—Santiam News.

A double contest will take place on Saturday evening April 22, at the opera house in Moro, commencing at 8 o'clock. A class of 6 contestants has been under special training. The following are the names of the speakers: Jennie Kay, Gattie Elrod, Arlie Page, May Rust, Myrtle Lewis, Daisy Stanley. There are also 8 contestants for singing. Following are the names: Mrs. J. B. Hasford, Mrs. I. D. DeMoss, Miss C. Spear, Mrs. J. Williams, Mrs. L. Belcher, and Messrs. Perry & Frost. Admission 10 cts.

The proprietors of the Dufur roller mills have this summer removed their old machinery and replaced it with the very latest improved machinery and are making a flour that is not excelled on this coast, every sack being warranted to give satisfaction. This mill does an exchange business, giving 36 pounds of No. 1 flour for a bushel of wheat, or 80 pounds of bran and shorts heavy for a bushel. They are now running day and night and will be able to supply you at any time. Give them a trial.

—Died—George Harding, aged 21 years, at Hood River, Monday, April 16, 1899, of pneumonia. The remains were brought to Moro on the train Tuesday evening in charge of G. Boardman, and on Wednesday were taken to the Neece ranch at the request of his mother who is living at that place, confined to her bed by sickness. After the funeral ceremony the body was interred in Moro cemetery. The parents have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

At the council meeting Monday evening the only business transacted was the adoption of ten ordinances, entitled as follows:

No. 1.—An ordinance to regulate and prescribe the qualifications, duties, and compensation of the City Recorder.

No. 2.—Defining and prescribing the duties and qualifications and fixing compensation of city treasurer.

No. 3.—Defining and prescribing the qualifications and duties of the city marshal.

No. 4.—Relating to and describing the seal of the city of Moro.

No. 5.—Relating to the appointment, duties and compensation of city attorney.

No. 6.—Regulating the fees of city officers.

No. 7.—To license, tax and regulate certain callings, and trades and employments, and to provide for the manner of issuing licenses.

No. 8.—Relating to taxing dogs, and regulating their running at large.

No. 9.—Relating to removing dead animals from the city of Moro.

No. 10.—Prohibiting the keeping and feeding of hogs in certain portions of the city.

An Invitation. You are all cordially invited through the "Republic" to attend the dedication services of the M. E. church in Moro, Oregon, April 29th at 11 o'clock a. m.

Crawford R. Thoburn S. T. D. has been sowed to preach the dedicatory sermon. Dr. Thoburn is one of the ablest speakers on the coast. He is a son of Bishop Thoburn, and has served as chancellor of a number of the leading educational institutions in the Northwest. You will lose much if you do not accept this invitation. Revs. F. R. Spaulding, Robert Warner, Chas. Ebery and F. L. Johns are expected to take part on the program.

County Court Proceedings. A session of the court was called for Saturday, April 15, and the following business transacted:

The petition of H. A. Thompson, E. H. Moore, et al, for a court house was acted upon and granted, provided that satisfactory bids received by the court.

The plans of Chas. Burggraf for a court house were accepted.

The sheriff was ordered to advertise for bids for printing the delinquent tax list.

Adjourned to meet May 6th.

Through tickets to all parts East can now be purchased at the Moro office of the Columbia Southern as cheap as at The Dalles or Portland, and baggage checked through to destination. This will be a great accommodation to residents of this vicinity who have formerly been obliged to go to The Dalles or Portland for Eastern tickets.

DAIRY DIPLOMAS.

Better Making Students Recognized by Minnesota University.

Arrangements have been made by the Regents of the University of Minnesota to award to thoroughly qualified students of the dairy school a diploma under the seal of the university. This announcement has just been made by T. L. Haacker, professor of dairy husbandry, who is in charge of the school. In a communication just sent out to students throughout the state Professor Haacker tells of the progress of the dairy school. He says:

"Since the establishment of the dairy school in the fall of 1894 Minnesota has made wonderful progress in dairying. Before this school was opened very little effort was made to develop the dairy industry. Minnesota butter was scarcely known in our great commercial centers and was mostly sold under fictitious brands. It was not a very desirable product, most of it being made from gathered cream raised on the farms by the gravity process, which caused an enormous loss of butter fat in the skim-milk. The cream was not properly cared for and generally reached the creamery in a condition which made it impossible for the butter maker to manufacture a prime article. All this has been changed by the advent of the co-operative separator creamery and the dairy school.

"Each year has added from 75 to 125 new separator creameries to our list, and each year there have gone forth from the dairy school from 50 to 100 students who are not only thoroughly trained in the art of butter and cheese making and testing and grading milk, but who also have a general understanding of the scientific principles governing the ripening and churning of cream, the economical firing and running of engines, the principles of feeding and selecting dairy cows, the proper care of dairy cows to secure a large yield of milk, the formulation of balanced rations and the rearing of dairy calves.

"Men who have had training in these things are especially valuable in a creamery. In addition to the skill attained in matters pertaining directly to the manufacture of dairy products they can give valuable information, enabling the patrons to so manage their herds that the income will be greatly increased. This in turn will cause the patrons to appreciate the butter maker and make them more willing to pay him a salary commensurate with his services."
