

CENTRAL POINT HERALD

VOL. 1.

CENTRAL POINT, OREGON, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1906.

NO. 22

Local and Personal

Watch Central Point grow.
The baseball season is over.
Take a look at our exhibit window.
None but white help employed on the HERALD.
The HERALD force will now take a whack at window washing.
"The day is done," says the poet. We thought 'twas raw.
"What's the matter with Central Point?" She's all right.
Don't care for any more water now. Will "take some" in the Spring.
We are trying to get others to think as we do. See? (waterworks.)
For information of any kind, address Editor Side Dishes, care HERALD.
Mrs. Cal Wells, of Grants Pass, visited her friend, Miss Mary Mee, last week.
Peter Applegate, assessor of Jackson County, was in town Monday morning on business.
We feel grateful to the producers of this section for responding so promptly to our call for samples for exhibition purposes.
Watches and all kinds of jewelry at the Central Point Pharmacy. New stock just received. Call and see them. 11-1f
Charlie Jeffers is out among the venison this week, and we have fond hopes of a story "When Charlie comes marching home." Later—Charlie got back Monday night. Nit.
Mrs. M. S. Welsh, who has been in poor health for several months, has been very ill for several days and her recovery at this writing is considered doubtful. She is suffering from apoplexy.
Wm. Whitney said "good-by" to Condon friends Wednesday morning and departed for Central Point, Oregon. "Billie" is going to a good country, but he is leaving a good one behind.—Condon Globe.
Select a present for your wife or sweetheart from the jewelry stock at the Central Point Pharmacy. New and up-to-date. 11-1f
S. A. Pattison and family left Tuesday evening for Portland, where they will spend a day or two, going from there to Newport to attend a meeting of the Oregon Press Association which convenes there Saturday.
S. K. Adams, of Table Rock, brought in samples of sorghum cane and string beans for the HERALD exhibit Saturday which are hard to beat. The cane is of the Amber variety, and the beans are only common string beans, he says, but they look rather uncommon in size.
Irvin Bebb is learning the printing trade in this office. He will attend school regularly this Winter, but will set type for the HERALD one hour each day after school is dismissed. Irvin, like his brother Roy, is a manly little fellow, which reflects much credit on both parent and teacher, as Professor Hanby would say.
A complete line of watches has just been received at the Central Point Pharmacy. Call and examine this stock before placing your order. 11-1f
W. E. Price and son and Mr. Upton pulled out Sunday morning for the deer range in the Prospect country, where they fondly hope to do some business in the nimrod line during the coming week. W. E. furnished us with plans and specifications for a first-class hunting story before leaving and he solemnly swore that he would "make good" and remember the printer when he returns "or I hope I will never see the back of my neck," as he expressed it.
Hon. S. M. Nealon, of Table Rock, left a sample of Jonathan apples in the HERALD exhibit window Saturday from five-year-old trees that are yielding from four to five boxes to the tree. The same trees bore fruit when three years old. Mr. Nealon thinks the Jonathan will prove a very profitable apple in this section. He also left some onion samples grown from the seed without irrigation which are fully equal to the Eagle Point product.

Miss Mary Mee made a business trip to Grants Pass last Friday.

Mrs. John Panky, of Tolo, was shopping with our merchants Monday.

George C. Culy, one of Applegate's biggest cattlemen, spent Sunday in town.

Miss Mae Nealon, of Sams Valley, was shopping with our merchants last week.

J. E. Boswell moved into his new barber shop, next door to Pleasants Hotel, yesterday.

At the bottom of this page will be noticed the new creamery ad. Read carefully and see what they have to say.

Frank Yocum and family left for Eugene Monday to make their home. These are good people and their friends here are legion.

Misses Frances Aiken and May Ditsworth, of Prospect, who have attended school here the past two years, have both returned to attend this term.

FOR SALE—A six-room dwelling in Central Point, in good repair. Barn, good water, some fruit. A bargain. Inquire at this office. 11-1f

D. W. Beebe, of the Agate fruit belt, left two mammoth peaches at this office yesterday for exhibition purposes. They are of the Crawford variety and each peach measures exactly 11 inches around the waist.

We may not be the only pebble on the beach, but we are at least a tin can in the alley. This is your nob, the foreman, that's talking now. If this issue won't pass muster, we'll throw up the sponge, together with everything else we've been eating the past month.

Wanted—A good girl for general housework. Enquire of Mrs. W. H. Norcross at Norcross orchard, one mile east from Central Point. 191f

Central Point schools opened Monday morning. The HERALD will publish an article next week concerning the schools of this city. The editor being absent this week, and the foreman having to act as editor, reporter, compositor and "devil," the schools were put off until next week.

Mrs. Stella Purkeypile, who is teaching a class in the City Hall building, is well adapted for the position she holds. Her pupils all love and obey her, which is not any wonder since it is well known that Mrs. Purkeypile is one of the most kind hearted and patient teachers that ever taught school in Central Point.

The Medford laundry wagon will call for work in Central Point each Monday afternoon and Friday morning. Expert ironers from City Hall French laundry, San Francisco, employed. First class work guaranteed. 7-1f

Looks Like Old Missouri

A. C. Chittenden, who has a good farm on the desert under irrigation from the Fish Lake ditch, brought in a sample of corn from his field and placed it with the HERALD exhibit last Saturday that is enough to make a native of the great corn belt homesick. The corn measures 12 feet 3 inches and carries two big, well filled ears about a foot long. Mr. Chittenden is demonstrating what can be done on the desert in the way of farming and fruit growing, for besides showing the biggest corn he also grows prize stuff in many other lines. His strawberries were of exceptionally fine flavor and found a ready market here during the season.

Millinery Opening

For the very latest styles in ladies' Fall and Winter hats, call at my new millinery parlors, next door to the Pleasants hotel. Mrs. J. E. BOSWELL.

CHURCH NOTICE.

There will be services in the Baptist church next Sunday, morning and evening, by Rev. C. H. Ferrell, of Talent. Morning subject, "A Preacher of the Twentieth Century." Evening subject, "Who Can Separate us From God?" All are invited.

FOR SALE.

All kinds of plums and prunes, at my farm at Table Rock. Price, 4c a pound. S. M. NEALON.

CENTRAL POINT CREAMERY

Creamery Completed and Ready to do Business With Dairymen and Farmers.

The Central Point Creamery is fully completed and is now ready to receive milk and cream and to engage in the manufacture of high grade butter. Mr. Muller, who has had charge of the construction of the plant, completed his work last Saturday, having everything in shipshape order for the buttermaker to take hold of.

The plant is perhaps the most modern and up-to-date in the state, the machinery all being of the very latest and most approved pattern. Every requisite for the manufacture of strictly first-class butter has been provided and the management fully expects their product to take its place among the very best articles in the market. Every stockholder who has inspected the plant seems to be more than pleased with the work of the Hastings Industrial company, who made a contract with the stockholders to erect and equip the plant, and Mr. Muller, their superintendent of construction, comes in for his share of praise for the high class of work done.

Aside from having a modern plant, men who have made a study of dairying and butter making for years, say that this locality is particularly adapted to this industry. The soil around Central Point is perfectly adapted to producing alfalfa and corn, and these two forage plants are said to furnish a perfect ration for the dairy cow.

All in all, it is not going too far to predict great success for the new enterprise, and the completion of this creamery means much to the future prosperity of this section of the Rogue River Valley.

M. Marshall, who has had years of experience in the creamery business, will be manager of the new industry, and I. C. Robnett will act as selling agent and put the product on the market.

Frank Hawk "Makes Good."

There is nothing succeeds like making people think you mean it, and that's just what we did in the hunting proposition. There was "nothing doing" in Nimrod's camp and not only the printer man, but the hunters as well, had to go to bed hungry. So the printer struck, not to be mean, but just to forcibly impress on the minds of Central Point hunters that the honor of the town was at stake and that some of their out-of-season hunting stories must be made good.

Frank Hawk was the first man to come to the center and some ten days ago—just before the big rain—he hied him to the hills to "make good." He returned Monday, and before the Summer sun of that day had sunk in regal splendor behind the western range the entire HERALD force—from editor to "devil" and back again—had tasted venison. Frank is modest, and for that reason we will not go into details and tell how many deer he killed or what long running shots he made.

This is no pipe dream nor any big spread eagle hunting yarn. It is simply an effort on our part to "make good" as Frank did.

New Rural Mail Route

A new rural mail delivery route has been allowed by the post-office department at Washington with the distributing office at Central Point.

The new route starts from Central Point and follows the county road to the point where the Medford-Crater Lake railroad crosses the wagon road, which is almost to the line of the Medford incorporation; it then retraces to the Beall lane at the southeast corner of the Snowy Butte orchard, where it turns west to the foothills, following the foothills road to the wagon road bridge across Rogue River just this side of Gold Hill; returning, the route covers the Tolo neighborhood, reaching Central Point by the valley road.

The present route will be extended to serve the Table Rock neighborhood on the north side of Rogue River, crossing by the Bybee bridge.

The new arrangement will accommodate a large number of patrons, and it shows that Central Point is true to name in being "central point" of this valley. When we get almost into the incorporate limits of two neighboring towns with our mail wagon it looks as though the "Hub" was going some.

Some Blackberries

Mr. Hitzler, of Table Rock, of the firm of Hitzler & Bissell, was in town Saturday, and during the day he found time to tell the HERALD about a small blackberry patch on their ranch that sounded good enough for a story.

From a plot of ground 50x100 feet Mr. Hitzler says they sold during the season just passed $105 worth of berries besides supplying two families with all they wanted to use and to preserve for the Winter.

Messrs. Hitzler and Bissell came to this valley less than a year ago from the Puget Sound country, where they were engaged in small fruit farming for 10 years. They are more than pleased with the change, as they find this section better in every way. Land up there, Mr. Hitzler says, is out of sight in prices and the soil does not produce so well as it does here. Fruit land there is selling at from $600 to $1500 per acre, or about six times what it is bringing here, and the quality of soil and climatic conditions are not equal to the Rogue River Valley.

Rev. Burbank Departs

Rev. and Mrs. Geo. W. Burbank departed Monday for the Willamette Valley, where they will visit their daughter for a week or so before the annual meeting of conference which will meet in East Portland in about two weeks. They do not expect to return to Central Point, Rev. Burbank having delivered his farewell sermon to a large congregation at the Methodist church last Sunday morning. He has served the Methodist churches of this place and Gold Hill as their pastor for the past two years most acceptably and both himself and his wife have many friends here both in and out of the church membership.

Rev. Burbank hopes to receive an appointment for the coming year at some point in the Willamette Valley.
