Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Safe Medicine for Children.

In buying a cough medicine for children, never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is always sure to follow. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and there is no better medicine in the world for these diseases. It is not only a certain cure for croup, but, when given as soon as the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given as directed. It contains no opium or other harmful drugs, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Mary A. Mee.

Beagle Against the World.

Beagle, Oregon, a postoffice in Sumas valley, this county, claims the distinction of having the heavyweight postmistress of the United States. The lady is Mrs Sarah Gordon and her weight is 316 pounds. If any other postal employe, or for that matter, any other government employe of lesser magnitude than Secretary Taft, tips the beam at a greater weight than Mrs. Gordon, that lady would enjoy hearing from them, with proof of their "tonnage."

Why Suffer from Rheumatism?

Do you know that rheumatic pains can be relieved? If you doubt this just try one application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It will make rest and sleep possible, and that certainly means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism. For sale by Mary A. Mee.

Will Extend Ditch.

V. T. McCray, superintendent of the Fish Lake Ditch Co., was here Friday looking after matters connected with the extension of the company's irrigation ditch from the Snowy Butte orchard to the ridge north of town. The proposed extension will extend as far north as the Ellistad farm, one mile from town, and will cover several hundred acres of fine land which only needs water to make it rank with the most productive soil in the valley. Mr. McCray is confident that within a few years the entire valley under his company's ditch will be covered and under irrigation. Then will the Rogue River valley begin to come into its own and the present waste places will begin to blossom as the rose.

FRIEND TO FRIEND.

The personal recommendations of people who have been cured of coughs and colds by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have done more than all else to make it a staple article of trade and commerce over a large part of the civilized world.

Our Big Clubbing Offer.

Arrangements have just been completed whereby the Central Point Herald is enabled to make one of the greatest clubbing offers ever made by an Oregon newspaper. Here it is: Central Point Herald, per year, $1.50. Oregon Journal (semi-weekly), $1.50. Pacific Monthly - - - $1.00.

Total - - - $4.00. Our price for all three, only $2.50

The Semi-weekly Journal is the leading semi-weekly newspaper of the state. It gives all the general and state news and in addition gives the complete and correct market reports twice each week. In the Friday issue a page of "Funny Pictures" for the children, a page of short stories, and other features make it a welcome visitor in every home.

The Pacific Monthly, published at Portland, is the leading magazine of the West. It is ably edited and beautifully illustrated. Its stories are clean, wholesome and interesting, all with more or less of a flavor of the West. Special articles on irrigation, stock-raising and similar industries are at once entertaining and instructive.

The Central Point Herald is a strictly local newspaper. The HERALD does its best to set forth the advantages of the Rogue River Valley, particularly that portion immediately adjacent and tributary to its town. It labors for the advancement and upbuilding of Central Point and vicinity and is entitled to the support of every citizen of this section of the Valley.

Take advantage of this great offer at once. It will only stand for a limited time. Three Publications that you need for the price of two. You save $1.50 and that's "worth while."

FROM THE ANTILLES.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Benefits a City Councilman at Kingston, Jamaica.

Mr. W. O'Reilly Fogarty, who is a member of the City Council at Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies, writes as follows: "One bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had good effect on a cough that was giving me trouble and I think I should have been more quickly relieved if I had continued the remedy. That it was beneficial and quick in relieving me there is no doubt and it is my intention to obtain another bottle." For sale by Mary A. Mee.

Electric Dredging Company.

Ira Packard, recently from Marion, Indiana, who is with the Electric Dredging Company, which is preparing to operate on an extensive scale on the McDougal and Blue ranches, on Lane creek, halfway between this place and Gold Hill, was in town Sunday. Mr. Packard says the preliminary work incident to installing the dredge and washer is well along and the machinery for the plant is due to arrive at any time.

The plant will be an extensive one, capable of handling a large amount of gravel daily, and as the ground is known to carry heavy values the company reasonably expects good returns on their investment as soon as the plant is in operation. The stockholders are mostly residents of Marion, Indiana, and the superintendent in charge of affairs here is J. W. Huff, of that city.

Sunday was Mr. Packard's first visit to Central Point and he expressed himself as being more favorably impressed with our town than with any other town he has visited in the valley. He expects his family here in the Spring and will become a permanent resident of this section.

Bad Stomach Trouble Cured.

Having been sick for the past two years with a bad stomach trouble, a friend gave me a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They did me so much good that I bought a bottle of them and have used twelve bottles in all. Today I am well of a bad stomach trouble.—MRS. JOHN LOWE, Cooper, Maine. These tablets are for sale by Mary A. Mee.

Trespass Notices, printed on cloth, for sale at the HERALD office. 50 cents dozen.

A Man of Mark.

"Prisoner," said the judge, taking a part in the examination himself, "the imprint left by the thief on the stolen jewel case corresponds exactly with the markings of your thumb. Now, as a matter of fact, isn't it yours? Didn't you make that imprint?" "Why, your honor," stammered the prisoner, "I—I think—that is, I believe—well—er—that's my impression."—Chicago Tribune.

Largest Mica Mine.

The largest mica mine in the world is located at Sydenham, Ont., sixteen miles from Kingston. The product is mostly amber mica, with some silver amber, the highest quality mined. The mine is one mile from the upper end of Sydenham lake, and the mica is transported in bulk from the mine by barge to the railroad at Sydenham, where it is shipped to Ottawa for trimming for the market.

A Graft.

Town Visitor (to small applicant for a holiday)—What is your father? Small Applicant—E's me father. T. V.—Yes, but what is he? S. A.—Oh! E's me stopfather. T. V.—Yes, yes. But what does he do? Does he sweep chimneys or drive buses, or what? S. A. (with dawning light of comprehension)—O-o-w! No, 'e ain't done nothin' since we've 'ad 'im!—Punch.

Catching a Phrase.

A precocious little girl living on one of the business thoroughfares of the city was in the habit of gazing out of the window at the busy street below for hours at a time. "What is it, Gladys, that you find so constantly interesting in the street?" asked her mother one day. "Oh," came the wise rejoinder, "just watching the cars go pro and con."—Harper's Weekly.

Not Appius Claudius.

A New Yorker, recently returned from England, where he saw much of the tinsel and tin armor pageantry by which various anniversaries have been celebrated at Oxford and elsewhere, tells this: A Roman in costume approached a fellow tinned character and asked, "Are you Appius Claudius?" "No," responded the other dejectedly. "I'm not as 'appy as Claudius. I'm as un'appy as 'ell."—Exchange.

Classified.

There is a well known editor who dislikes nothing more than superfluous questions. On one occasion the telegraph editor approached him with this query: "Here's a story of a big landslide in the west. Under what head shall I put it?" "You might throw it in with the real estate transfers," caustically suggested the "old man."—Pittsburg Press.

Won a Ride.

Francois was going to market in his cart. "Hi!" called a neighbor. "Are you going into the town?" "Yes." "Could you take a blouse for me?" "Certainly, if you will let me know where to leave it." "Oh, that's all right!" said his friend, jumping into the cart. "I'm inside it now."—Nos Loisirs.

Woman's Aim.

"To convict the defendant of assault," said the woman's lawyer, "it must first be proved that the intention was there." "But," interrupted the magistrate, "all the evidence shows that the woman actually hit her husband with a brick." "Which very fact proves that she must have aimed at something else."—London Globe.

Colossus of Rhodes.

The Colossus of Rhodes, a bronze statue, was 105 feet high. It was made by Chares, who, aided by an army of workmen, consumed twelve years in its construction. It remained in position in the harbor of Rhodes for sixty-six years and was thrown down by an earthquake 224 B. C. It lay on the ground 804 years and was sold to a Hebrew for old metal. He carried away 720,000 pounds of bronze.

Confirmed.

Bishop Williams of Connecticut lived all his life unwed. A friend mentioned that one of the states was imposing a tax on bachelors, to be increased a certain per cent every ten years of bachelorhood, and added: "Why, bishop, at your age you would have to pay a hundred dollars a year." "Well," said the bishop quietly, "it's worth it."—Bellman.

Historical Evidence.

Richard Mansfield was a patient sufferer in his last illness, and he retained his good cheer to a marked degree. One day he told his physician that he believed he would not live many weeks longer. "Bosh!" said the physician. "You are good for a long time yet. Why, man alive, did you ever hear of anybody near death with legs and feet as warm as yours?" "Yes," replied Mr. Mansfield; "lots of them. For instance, there were Joan of Arc and the Salem witches."—Harper's Weekly.

Vanderbilt and Maud S.

William H. Vanderbilt was one of the most jealous men on earth. He wanted always to be it. There has always been a mystery about the sale of Maud S. to Robert Bonner. Let us have the privilege of unravelling it. In the roadhouses along Seventh and Jerome avenues famous amateur drivers used to sit—such as Frank Work. When Vanderbilt came racing along the fassils would say, "There comes Maud S." None said, "There comes Vanderbilt." The financier got so mad about it that he sold the mare to Bonner.—New York Press.

YELLOW DENT CORN.

The Growing of a First Prize Crop Upon Sward.

In describing a successful method of growing Yellow Dent corn B. W. Bishop writes in New England Homestead as follows:

I follow the usual custom of this section by raising corn upon sward. During the winter and spring months I spread my stable manure upon the land as fast as made, carting direct from stable and broadcasting as evenly as possible fifteen to twenty loads per acre. During the last of April or first of May I plow land to an even depth of about seven inches, using a jointer and being careful to turn over furrows flat. After lying a few days or until about May 8 (for late varieties) I harrow with a disk harrow, thoroughly pulverizing the soil, after which I use a smoothing board so as to have a very smooth surface for checking off. Mark off in rows four feet apart each way, making rows straight, as it helps in cultivation and looks better.

A TYPE OF DENT CORN. (Grown in Massachusetts; worthy of commendation.)

The corn is planted with a corn planter set to drop four or five kernels (being careful to have good seed), after which fertilizer is applied at the rate of about 300 to 400 pounds per acre, as a starter, which is scattered around each hill within a radius of six inches from the check. When corn is up sufficiently to follow rows the cultivator is started, first in the direction in which it was plowed, going twice in each row, cultivating rather close to row, but being careful not to cover corn with soil. After a week or ten days cultivate rows in opposite direction, letting cultivator dig all it will.

In another period of a week or ten days the corn receives another cultivating in the way in which we went first, followed with a hoe, cutting out any weeds that may have skipped the cultivator, breaking surface around hill, but not hilling corn in the least. We also thin corn at this time to three or four stalks in hill and with some varieties to two or three. Cultivating goes on every few days, first going in one direction and then the other, running cultivator more shallow and further from hill as corn increases in size, until middle of July or first of August, when we go through with hoe again, cutting out any remaining weeds.

Wishing to reseed to grass again, I sow seed between rows, broadcasting two rows at a time, using twelve quarts timothy and four quarts clover per acre. Crimson clover also does well sowed at this time where land is to be plowed the coming season. Nothing more is done to the corn until it is fully grazed, after which it is put in stacks of thirty to thirty-six hills each, according to variety, where it stands until sufficiently matured to husk and put into crib.

Another method of fertilizing has given me good results. During summer and fall I cover land intended for corn with hog hay or salt hay, as I may happen to have, spreading and letting it lie until spring, when I plow and plant as usual, after which spread 8,000 or 10,000 whitefish per acre. My corn took first prize for Yellow Dent at the last annual meeting of the Connecticut state board of agriculture at New Haven. Other varieties that do well in this vicinity are Northern White Dent and Leaming Hickory King is another good kind.

The Good Old Farm.

Farmers born on a farm marry and raise families and die, and their sons take up the old place and live and die there. They would fall as bankers and would fall as doctors and would fall at mining or would fall at anything, but the good old farm will take care of them. We can get a living there, and so we stay. But the demand for finer fruit and the outside production of finer fruit and the various fungous diseases that appear in the orchards every year drive the careless man out of the rut. This is going to drive the unbusinesslike man off the face of the earth. To you, young men, who have faith in the old soil there is no greater or grander business proposition than the farm offers you today.—J. H. Hale.

Fall Pasture of Alfalfa.

The temptation to pasture aftermath of alfalfa in the fall or early winter is too great for most of us, especially if we have a bunch of calves that we want to "push," remarks Iowa Homestead. But if you desire a full crop and expect to leave the field in alfalfa for some years you will probably find it cheaper to put the calves up and haul the last cutting to them. There is only a slight danger of frost from eating frosted alfalfa. Fall pasturing means a packed surface, a dry soil and no protection against the vicissitudes of winter, and it also means a later start the following spring.
