Prof. H. A. Howell, of Havana, Cuba, Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell, of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 3rd our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold; the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only, saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by Mary A. Mee.

Our Big Clubbing Offer.

Arrangements have just been completed whereby the Central Point Herald is enabled to make one of the greatest clubbing offers ever made by an Oregon newspaper. Here it is: Central Point Herald, per year, $1.50. Oregon Journal (semi-weekly), $1.50. Pacific Monthly $1.00.

Total $4.00. Our price for all three, only $2.50.

The Semi-weekly Journal is the leading semi-weekly newspaper of the state. It gives all the general and state news and in addition gives the complete and correct market reports twice each week. In the Friday issue a page of "Funny Pictures" for the children, a page of short stories, and other features make it a welcome visitor in every home.

The Pacific Monthly, published at Portland, is the leading magazine of the West. It is ably edited and beautifully illustrated. Its stories are clean, wholesome and interesting, all with more or less of a flavor of the West. Special articles on irrigation, stock-raising and similar industries are at once entertaining and instructive.

The Central Point Herald is a strictly local newspaper. The HERALD does its best to set forth the advantages of the Rogue River Valley, particularly that portion immediately adjacent and tributary to its town. It labors for the advancement and upbuilding of Central Point and vicinity and is entitled to the support of every citizen of this section of the Valley.

Take advantage of this great offer at once. It will only stand for a limited time. Three Publications that you need for the price of two. You save $1.50 and that's "worth while."

Free From Bad Ones.

The leading citizen of a small country town escorted a friend on a tour of inspection through the village. The friend, who was a resident of a metropolitan city, was duly impressed by the many advantages of the little town. Finally the two men reached the cemetery. The visitor carefully looked at the various tributes and then turned to his guide. "Say, Dave," he began, "wh-wh-where do you b-b-bury your s-s-sinners?"—Judge.

Disappointed Aspiration.

Lovers when rejected oft moan and tear their hair; Brokers when they're ruined sit stunned in sad despair; The captain of a leaking ship is full of anxious care, But few things that I know of for human wear and tear, For pained surprise and sudden shock, can really quite compare With stepping outward in the dark, when climbing up a stair, To find that topmost, astral step—the one that is not there. —Woman's Home Companion.

Jack and Jill. Jack met Jill upon the bridge And kissed her on the spot. The brooklet murmured down below, But Jill she murmured not. —Chicago News.

BLACKLEG.

Notes on a Destructive Disease and Its Prevention.

Every stock owner who lives in a district where blackleg occurs knows that it is the young animals, especially those between the ages of six and eighteen months, which are most liable to become affected.

As to the class of cattle most frequently affected by blackleg, the majority of reports agree that full blood or high grade stock is more subject to the disease than the common or low grade range cattle.

The spring and the fall seem to be the seasons most favorable for the development of blackleg. The disease is,

However, not confined to these seasons, but appears at all times of the year with more or less frequency.

The general symptoms of blackleg are high fever, loss of appetite and suspension of rumination, followed by great depression. Respiration becomes accelerated, the animal moves around with difficulty, frequently lies down and when water is near at hand drinks at short intervals and but a little at a time.

The most important diagnostic feature is the development of a tumor or swelling under the skin. The swelling may appear on any part of the body and limbs except below the knee or hock joint or on the tail. It is frequently seen on the thigh or shoulder, and owing to the extensive discoloration of the swollen parts as observed after the animal has been skinned the disease has been popularly named "blackleg," or "black quarter."

Most stock owners agree that when the disease has broken out there is nothing short of a hypodermic syringe and vaccine or the immediate removal of the affected herd to another pasture that will check the disease.

The bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture considers prevention the principal recourse against this disease. It prepares and distributes a blackleg vaccine and reports that the effect of this vaccine in preventing outbreaks already in progress has been highly satisfactory. A lately issued circular (No. 31) of the bureau gives much information about blackleg and tells how to obtain this vaccine. Applications for it should be addressed to the chief of the bureau at Washington.

To prepare the vaccine in such a way that it may be injected hypodermically it is necessary to obtain certain implements, which, together with the hypodermic syringe, are known as a vaccinating outfit. This consists of a porcelain mortar with pestle, a small glass funnel and a measuring glass. The accompanying cut shows a vaccinating outfit, with the exception of the mortar and pestle.

All of the utensils, including the hypodermic syringe and a package of absorbent cotton, are fitted in a strong polished oak box, which by means of an adjustable wire loop serves also as a support for the funnel when the vaccine is filtering. The syringe, two hypodermic needles and an extra glass barrel are packed in a separate metal box, which is inclosed in the oak box.

THE STOCKMAN.

Full husking has developed a poorer quality of corn even than was reported a month ago. The estimate of rate of yield is practically the same as reported in November, the crop aggregating 2,550,000,000 bushels, but the percentage of corn fit for commercial purposes is the lowest ever raised. In general character the crop is soft, damp and immature grain, and the quality is so low that it dried out slowly and is keeping badly. It is particularly poor in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska.

The proportion of the crop which will be fed on the farm is far larger than usual, the reasons assigned being its unmerchandise quality, the scarcity of other grains, increased cattle and hog supplies and the inferior feeding value, necessitating the use of greater bulk to accomplish the same result. The crop is disappearing rapidly, and an unusually small part of it will appear in commercial channels.—Crop Report.

Character of Silage. The feeding value of silage is in a large measure due to its comparative richness in nutrients especially suited for the nourishment of cattle, its ease of digestion as compared with dry foods, its palatability due to its aroma and succulence and the fact that it aids in cooling the system and keeping it free of effete material and keeping the circulation active.

Stall Feeding Versus Grass. In some Virginia tests it cost nearly twice as much to make a pound of gain on cattle in the stall as when the animals were finished on grass.
