Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Coe left Monday morning for Portland and other northern points, where they expect to spend a few months enjoying a vacation. After looking around the Willamette valley and Portland they will spend some time at the coast before returning to Central Point.

W. T. Grieve, the popular candidate for the nomination for county assessor on the republican ticket, has completed his canvass of the county and feels assured that he will be his party's nominee when the primaries close tomorrow evening. Mr. Grieve is well qualified for this office, being well posted on property values all over the county. Past experience as a deputy in the assessor's office will also be of great value to him should he be elected in June.

Lynn P. D. n and other of Gold Hill's most distinguished citizens went through town yesterday bound for Medford in a splinter now auto, driven by a brand new driver and giving the latest thrills in the way of pleasurable or otherwise sensations apropos the shuffling off of this mortal coil.

R. C. Hensley has sold his farm immediately north of town to H. F. Young, recently from Ashville, N. Y. The place contains about 50 acres of land and the price paid was $12,000. Mr. Hensley will give possession about June 1st and will move to town, where with his family he expects to make his home.

R. C. Hensley says that advertising in the Herald brings quick results. Recently he has advertised in the Herald want column two lots of hay and a cream separator, all of which were speedily disposed of and in every case his purchaser was found directly on account of the Herald ad. Other advertisers give us the same report.

A much needed rain visited this section Tuesday and Wednesday and the farmers and hay men are busy watching the crops grow. The only danger of loss on account of the rain is in the Winter Nellis pear orchards, the trees being now in full bloom. It is said that these blossoms are very sensitive and that a heavy rain may wash the pollen away and spoil the crop.

Reports of the auto accident which W. C. Green met with late last Wednesday evening, as published in Medford papers, were not correct. Mr. Green was going to Medford to have some work done on his engine, which had not been working satisfactorily, when the accident occurred. He had no passengers with him as reported, and he says the cause of the accident was a large, round rock in the road which veered his machine and caused it to go in the ditch. Mr. Green sustained no broken bones nor other injuries except a dislocation of the shoulder, which is mending rapidly.

Easter Services.

An excellent program has been arranged for next Sunday at the Methodist church consisting of children's exercises, special music, etc. It will be one of the best services of the kind ever given in this town. The Herald regrets that copy for the full program was received too late for publication.

A Card.

I wish to state that the report which has been current for the past few days to the effect that the ice cream parlor and confectionery recently opened by me in the Murray building is in whole or in part the property of Mr. Russell, of Medford, is an absolute mistake. I bought a soda fountain from Mr. Russell and he brought it here and set it up and put it in working order, according to contract, and I paid him for it. That is the extent of Mr. Russell's connection with the business.

Respectfully,

O. B. NASH.

School House Contract Let.

Bids for the construction of the new school house were opened Monday afternoon and the contract was awarded to Snook & Traver, of Salem, for $15,200. A separate contract was awarded for the heating plant, Wm. A. Aitkin, the well-known plumber of Medford, securing that contract for $2512.00. Other bids submitted are as follows: Chas. Voghts, Ashland, $15650; G. W. Priddy, Medford, $15136; H. J. Clark, Cottage Grove, $14885. Beigel & Wilcox, of Ashland, submitted a bid on the heating plant for $2300.

Albert Pankey was down from Ashland last Thursday on a short visit.

School Superintendent Short.

According to the Medford Tribune, a shortage of about $1000 has just been discovered in the office of ex-School Superintendent P. H. Daily, who resigned last Winter and is now said to be in a sanitarium near Portland.

The shortage partly belongs to the Institute fund and partly to country school districts in the vicinity of Trail. Gus Newbury, present aspirant for the office of District Attorney, and A. O. Freed, of Gold Hill, are surmises on Daily's bond and it is said that Newbury drew the bond but never took the trouble to have Daily sign it.

The Tribune also charges that the county officials have all known of the

M. F. Eggleston's Platform.

Ashland, Or., April 9, 1908.

To the Editor: Relative to my candidacy for the republican nomination for the office of county judge, I desire to say to your readers that my duties as recorder of Ashland require practically all my time and are of a character which will allow me but little time to be absent from the city so as to meet the voters in the other parts of the county.

If elected to the office of county judge I shall endeavor to conform strictly to the requirements of the law. The jurisdiction of the county court is limited and defined by law. It is, of course, a matter of honor and duty for the judge acting as a court of probate to inform himself as to the law and to apply it justly and impartially to the best of his ability.

As the head of the commissioner's court, invested with the general power to manage the county business, my influence and vote will be used to put the county administration in line with the progressive movement initiated by the people in the thrifty and growing localities of the county.

The sentiment that this generation should be satisfied with those conditions which have served the pioneer times is entirely out of harmony with the thought of progressive civilization. The rock, mud, chuckholes, brush, logs and stumps of the public highway should be removed and the delight of our people should be to make them smoother and easier for themselves and for those who follow us.

The problem of road improvement I regard as of the first importance in Jackson county, and I would address myself to the matter of planning and organizing such work as to produce the best results with the money available, my knowledge and the instruction of my experience and that of the commissioners and of other persons being utilized, as far as practicable, to that end.

System and method in the orderly conduct of the county business should be insisted upon to insure economy of administration and the accommodation and convenience of the people.

Expenditures for improvements, special work and generally should be published.

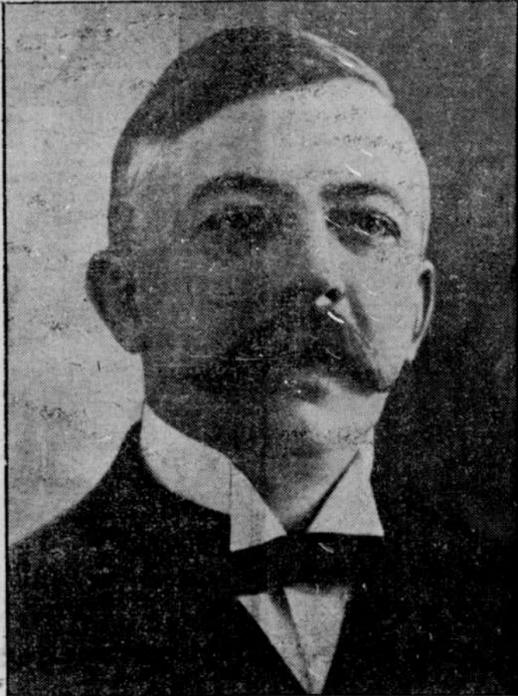

A careful supervision should be exercised by the county court in the general care and management of the county property and funds as required by law.

In the maintenance and improvement and construction of roads and bridges, the needs of the outlying districts will be appreciated by me, and they shall have their share of the public money available for such work. Some excellent work has been done on our roads, but a rancher on the upper Rogue river, or in other remote districts, is entitled to a practicable and reasonably good roadway to reach valley towns.

Some plan ought to be devised to raise more money for road improvement. The money heretofore available is entirely inadequate for necessary road purposes in Jackson county. A country so rich and where the lands are so valuable as in the Rogue River valley, is able to sustain first-class roads.

The proper conception of a public thoroughfare in this county should be higher than of its maintenance in a passable condition. There ought to be more than one road crew in the county, and there should perhaps be some new legislation to facilitate organization for road work and to centralize its shortage for several months but that they neither made the matter public nor took any steps to recover the money.

H. M. Cake, Republican Candidate for Nomination for United States Senator.

Mr. Cake is the advocate of Statement No. 1 and the popular election of United States senators. Two years ago he took the stump for his successful opponent. He deserves the support of every loyal Republican who believes in pure politics. The machine element concedes his nomination if the people go to the polls, but boasts that believers in Statement No. 1 will not be interested enough to vote at the primaries. This is the last appeal to those who believe in the popular election of United States senators to assert the rights which the old machine is, trying to wrest from them.
