

Base Ball News

The Phoenix boys came down Sunday and attempted to play a game with the Central Point team, but the effort was rather a fiasco, so far as being an interesting event for the spectators was concerned. The Phoenix boys are sadly in need of practice and no doubt when they have gone through an extended "working out" process they will be able to play ball with the best of them. The local team show much improvement in their work and if they keep "everlastingly at it" under the management and direction of Mr. O. P. Nash, who has been training them for the past week or so, they will be able to go against any team in the valley and give a creditable account of themselves at the finish.

The ball boys enlisted the assistance of a number of the business men in town last week and secured a sufficient fund to put the ball grounds in ship shape condition and it may now be said that there is not a faster ground in the county. We will have some good ball here before the season is over and don't you forget it.

A game is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at this place between the local team and the Ashland league team. It will no doubt be one of the best games played in the county so far this season.

Eggleston for Judge

In another column will be found the platform of M. F. Eggleston, who is making a canvass for the nomination for County Judge at tomorrow's primaries. There is a number of reasons why a majority of republicans of the county will vote for Eggleston tomorrow, among which may be mentioned the following: The horrible condition of the county roads in most parts of the county and the lack of modern methods in what roadbuilding has been done in the past few years. The condition of the Bear creek bridge near this place which has for more than a year been posted as unsafe, without anything being done to render it safe and fit for travel. The apparent determination on the part of the present county court to keep the people of the county in the dark regarding the expenditure of public money and the general management of county business and the refusal to have the county books experted.

Mrs. Eddy on War.

Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, head of the Christian Science Church, recently expressed her views on war in an article published in the Christian Science Sentinel as follows: "For many years I have prayed daily that there be no more war, no more barbarous slaughtering of our fellow beings, prayed that all the people on earth and the islands of the sea have one God, one mind, love God supremely and love their neighbors as themselves. "National disagreements can be, and should be, arbitrated wisely, fairly and fully settled. It is unquestionable, however, that at this hour the armament of navies is necessary for the purpose of preventing war and preserving peace among nations."

Bad Buggy Wreck.

Mrs. McNabb met with a very serious accident last Thursday evening by the horse she was driving becoming unmanageable and throwing her from the buggy. With her two children she had been driving in the country and on reaching home she stopped to leave some packages before returning to the livery barn. Irene, the oldest child, was taking the packages from the buggy when in some way the horse threw the buggy off and at once started to run. Down the street he went to Fourth street where he turned south, reaching First street at the corner house corner, and while going at high speed he turned too short and jammed the buggy into the electric light pole on the corner. Mrs. McNabb was thrown violently to the ground, landing on the cross walk almost in the middle of the street. She sustained a severe bruise at the base of the skull and was rendered unconscious for some time. She was picked up and carried into Ernest Hathaway's residence nearby, where Dr. Rawhouser was summoned and she was given every attention. Later she was removed to her home and at this writing is reported as not dangerously injured. Arthur, a 5-year-old boy who was in the buggy with his mother, was thrown under the seat and beyond a slight scratch or two was not hurt. The buggy was pretty well wrecked and the horse, (old Billy) one of the gentlest drivers in the country, under ordinary conditions, after freeing himself from the rig crossed the street to the Town hall and taking the sidewalk at that point kept it to the end of the street near the depot. The hundred or more holes he left in the rotten board walks served the good purpose of emphasizing the fact that we need some good cement walks in town "right away quick."

A 98-Pound Squash.

The Herald, a newspaper published at Central Point, Oregon, several months ago was presented with a 98-pound squash grown near that place. It was grown without irrigation and was the prize winning squash for last year. The squash was grown by E. H. Maddux, a brother of A. B. Maddux, residing northwest of this city. A Wyoming real estate man saw the vegetable and, taking a big fancy to it, talked the newspaper man into giving it to him, he in turn promising to "boost" the country where it was grown. He intended to celebrate his return with the squash by giving a pumpkin pie dinner. The editor who owned the squash said that those kind of vegetables are regarded almost the same as tropical fruit in Wyoming. If the Wyoming man could see the 136-pound pumpkins that we grow in Cass he would lose interest in the "wild and woolly west."

It might be added, by way of further enlightening our eastern friends, that Mr. Maddux had but a few acres of squash last year—840 hills in all—but from these he sold 25 big wagon loads, which netted him $235.00, besides which he kept enough squashes to winter all his stock, so that he estimates that he had in excess of $300.00 worth on the patch of ground. The "Wyoming real estate man" was not a real estate man at all but only a good, honest, Wyoming rancher who wanted to come to "God's country" to enjoy a comfortable home in his declining years. He is now a resident of Central Point and he is not "declining" a bit, either, but seems to be getting fatter and happier every day.

Will Dredge Rogue River

Frank L. Gilman, inventor of Gilman's patent mining machine for mining the bed of rivers, and president of the Gilman Bed Rock Mining Co., was in Grants Pass the first of the week to explain his machine to some of those interested in the company and to select a place for the building of the necessary barges which will support the machine. Mr. Gilman will return about the middle of the month and will then commence work on the barges, and in May the machine, now being constructed at the Phoenix Iron Works, is to be ready for shipment. This machine is in shape something like an immense hollow sad iron, something over 30 feet long and 16 feet high, to be constructed entirely of steel and will have a weight of 22 tons. One of Mr. Gilman's patents covers the automatic siphon with a 14-inch nozzle and it is calculated to "dry" the machine in a very few minutes. Mr. Gilman has made two smaller machines and he says that they worked to perfection.

It is well known that the bed of Rogue River is rich in fine and coarse gold, and the exposing of bed rock by any means has meant rich returns. The diverting of the water from the river bed at the Gold Ray dam while it was under construction uncovered an immense amount of gold which was quite an item in helping the expense account. If Mr. Gilman's machine proves to be the success which he believes it will be it will mean big dividends to the stockholders.

Mr. Gilman is not a stranger to Rogue River, as he was one of the two men who first went from Grants Pass to the coast down the river about 14 years ago, building their boat at Grants Pass and making the start from here. He has also spent many months prospecting on the river. His home for many years has been at Eugene, where his family now is. They will, however, make Grants Pass their home later.

Mr. Gilman returned to Grants Pass Friday morning and work will be commenced immediately.—Rogue River-Courier.

Object to Strong Medicines.

Many people object to taking the strong medicines usually prescribed by physicians for rheumatism. There is no need of internal treatment in any case of muscular or chronic rheumatism, and more than nine out of every ten cases of the disease are of one or the other of these varieties. When there is no fever and little (if any) swelling, you may know that it is only necessary to apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely to get quick relief. Try it. For sale by Mary A. Mee.
