

Prohibition in Rabbitville.

The Rabbitville correspondent of The Dalles Optimist writes to his newspaper thus:

"The city drug store again calls attention to the fact that it deprecates the necessity of saying anything more on the temperants question, but there is sum in our midst who seem disposed to vote Rabbitville wet, which would give us mebbe 2 or 3 vial saloons, and our most respectable drug store, where men, wimmen and even little children can go day and nite for all sorts of temperants drinks without being pointed to with skorn as they would be if they even approached a vial saloon. Just see how nice we are getting along. Nobody is suffering from a unquenched thirst, for enny thirst can be took care of by the prescription clerk of the city drug store. What wood a saloon do for us? It wood give us cocktales and fizzes and Mamie Taylors mebbe, but what better be they nor our palouses? The ingredients is the saim, only mebbe shook up a little different. The foundation is the saim for all good, pure likker. But look at the difference between going into a vial saloon and buying a cocktale and going into a high-toned, first-class drug store, with respectable peepul, and swallering a palouser! There ain't no argument to it, not a shadder, and yet sum fokes say they want the saloons so to get the licenses munney. For shaim! Such munney wood be the price of Sin and Gilt and wood do our fare city no good. Blood munney leaves its trail of blood after it at all times. No, dearly beloved Christian brothers, wake up and vote for drug stores and respectability and against the vial saloon."

The Most Common Cause of Suffering.

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Liniment will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure cannot be expected; the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Mary A. Mee.

Flying Machines in Future Wars.

New York, April 29.—Hudson Maxim and Alexander Graham Bell were among the speakers at the Aldine Club meeting last night. Both spoke on aeronautics, in which they are deeply interested. The Aldine Club is composed of magazine editors, publishers and literary men.

Mr. Maxim made a forecast of the part the aeroplane will probably play in the work of the future. Of the flying machine in war he said this:

"Although the value of the flying machine will be mainly as a scouting craft, still its value and importance for that service alone is hard to estimate, for the flying machine vedettes will at once be the eyes and ears of the armies of the future and they will have their use in naval warfare, too, for there will be aerial torpedo scouts on the lookout for torpedo-boats to signal the approach of danger. Flying machines could not be expected to successfully attack battleships, coast fortifications or large cities to do much damage with high explosives, but they might attack torpedo craft with aerial bombs planted and exploded beside them in the water, and it is possible they may be very mischievous, indeed. The aerial navy will be a great bulwark of peace."

Mr. Bell devoted a large part of his speech to uncovering the ancient history of aeronautics.

"I have no doubt," said he, "that the Wright Brothers really have flown with their aeroplane, but I think they have also made a serious mistake in keeping the details of their experiments a secret. Their secretiveness reacts upon themselves. For certainly if they still have a great secret of aerial navigation the French government is not inclined to pay 1,000,000 francs for that secret which will become public to the world the first time the machine flies in France."

Old Man Kidnapped.

When the aged father of H. M. Coss, the piano man, did not return to his home as usual, his son's family became greatly alarmed and in a short time over 50 persons were engaged in looking for the old man, fearing that he had lost his way and might die of exposure. He is over 86 years old and very feeble. After a number of hours of fruitless search someone telephoned Mr. Coss that his father had been driven to Central Point in company with a stranger and a woman. There they had taken the evening train for Portland.

The Roseburg police were immediately notified, but did not nab their man. In a previous notable instance they were more successful because possibly more zealous, but Monday evening they were bluffed into believing the old man and his escorts were on the second section. It was not until too late that they discovered their error.

The party left the train at Salem, taking the electric cars to Vancouver, thus getting out of the state and avoiding the Portland police, who were waiting for them.

The motive behind the affair is somewhat obscure. It is supposed that the old man was enticed away through the efforts of a son living in Tacoma—J. F. Coss. The son, realizing that his father has not many months to live, and is already exceedingly feeble, hopes by having him with him to get control of the old man's property.—Medford Tribune.
