

CENTRAL POINT HERALD

S. A. PATTISON, PUBLISHER.

An independent local newspaper devoted to the interests of Central Point and the Rogue River Valley. Published Every Thursday.

Entered as Second-class Matter, May 4, 1906, at the Post Office at Central Point, Oregon, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

A GOLDEN APPLE.

The National Apple Show association, of Spokane, Washington, at its first annual exhibition, next December, will offer as one of its numerous trophies an apple, moulded in virgin gold dug from the hills of the Golden West, which will be at once the most original and unique premium ever offered at a fruit fair.

Forty men and one woman have been in the employ of the United States in over fifty years, observes the Chicago Record-Herald. But it was rather unkind to dig up the record in this era of age limit propositions.

It is to be hoped that when Roosevelt winds up his hunting trip he will be able to tell the lions and tigers of the jungle that he had a corking good time these too.

Waste of Iron Ore.

In connection with the convention held recently at Washington to consider the conservation of the country's natural resources the Iron Trade Review has been discussing in its editorial columns the comparatively small waste of iron in comparison with the waste of other natural products.

The iron industry has not been grudging in the past of taking only the best and that most easily obtained, but it has been fortunate in that the formation of ore bodies and the methods of mining them do not make irreparable the temporary abandonment of ore because seen less or less difficult of extraction, even when the mine workings are closed in upon the ore body.

This favorite sun business is not what it is cracked up to be. It usually means having one's head swelled to the bursting point at seeing one's name in big letters over the door of a hotel room used as headquarters for the boom a few days, then going back to the simple life and working overtime to pay for cigars, mineral water and other campaign trimmings used up in saving the country.

The United States and Mexico, the biggest neighbors of the quarrelsome Central American countries, have it in their power to do a large amount of good by going, yet firmly, impressing upon these "rambunctious" little states the advantage of getting together and living in peace with themselves and the outside world.

It has been suggested that country houses be painted bright colors instead of a grayish tint, that "gives the impression of a cake of ice." But what better could a person ask who seeks a comforting thought in the hot summer days?

That man who was freed by a dead bear can appreciate the remarks of the up late husband who took off his shoes to slip upstairs unobserved and then discovered that his wife hadn't come home yet from the Social Advancement club.

The Dead Ex-President. The public career of Grover Cleveland from the time he became a candidate for the highest office in the land was unique when the tendency of the times which produced him and continued to do him honor is taken into account. He was devoid of personal popularity and of the elements which attract personal supporters and admirers. Evidently he did not care for popularity himself, but left it to the public to declare its taste and judgment by its verdict upon what he said and did.

James G. Blaine's hold upon the minds of his following was analogous to that of Cleveland. People believed in his opinions and his ability to put them to good use in Washington. Neither of these men had the romantic role of the untired Lincoln in 1860 or the dazzling war record of Grant in 1865 to work upon popular judgment.

Every fruit grower should look out for his best specimen and save it for competition for the golden apple. The prestige its capture would give this valley would be incalculable.
