F. F. COOPER,
Principal.

Oregon's Octogenarian Champion.

Portland, Ore., September 7, 1908.
(Special Correspondence.)

Hillboro, the prosperous and growing capital of Washington County, is celebrating its second rail connection with Portland, the last being an electric line.

The Oregon State Fair opens Monday, September 14th, and continues through the week. The showing of all kinds of products, as well as the livestock and industrial display, and also a great race program without pool selling, insures one of the best fairs Oregon has ever held.

Immediately following the Oregon State Fair is the Portland Country Club and Livestock Show, and it is certain that these two weeks, during which livestock will be foremost in the minds of the people of Oregon, will have much to do with the more rapid development of that important industry.

Mr. J. H. McMillan, now past 85 years of age and temporarily residing at Coshocton, Ohio, writes: "Having lived in Oregon sixty years and believing it to be the best country in the United States, I take pleasure in sending people there who are looking for homes. Rheumatism has a firm grip on me, and I am unable to labor, but I can talk of Oregon and spread Oregon literature and will be glad to receive same from all parts of the state. I have been able to send many people to Oregon, and they have written that they were glad they made the change." Oregonians should remember that there are thousands more to come on the colonist rates of September and October.

A special train of Shriners went to Eugene Saturday.

The hurry-up-and-build movement throughout the United States, because building material and labor are about thirty per cent cheaper than they were a year ago, is the cause of some spectacular happenings in Portland. Down in the business center they are digging basements by electric light, working three shifts of eight hours each.

Mr. E. H. Harriman will be entertained informally at the Portland Commercial Club today.
