

Honored by Women

When a woman speaks of her silent secret suffering she trusts you. Millions have bestowed this mark of confidence on Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. Everywhere there are women who bear witness to the wonder-working, curing-power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—which saves the suffering sex from pain, and successfully grapples with woman's weaknesses and stubborn ills.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG IT MAKES SICK WOMEN WELL.

No woman's appeal was ever misdirected or her confidence misplaced when she wrote for advice, to the WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets induce mild natural bowel movement once a day.

Heney Shot Down.

Francis J. Heney, the famous graft prosecutor, was shot down in the crowded court room in San Francisco last Friday, where he was conducting the third trial of Abe Ruef, by Morris Haas, an ex-convict whom Heney had exposed and denounced during the second Ruef trial when Haas tried to get on the jury. Heney, in the dramatic manner which is characteristic of him, produced a photograph of the would-be juror which had been taken in prison garb and Haas was dismissed from the panel. Heney was shot in the head, but it is believed is not fatally wounded. Haas was locked up and after being in jail 24 hours he shot himself in the head with a derringer, dying instantly. It is not known why he was permitted to carry a pistol into the jail, but it is claimed he had it hidden in his shoe. It is claimed by the friends of Mr. Heney that "higher ups" instigated the crime and that Haas was only a tool used by them in an attempt to rid the grafters of the famous prosecutor.

What Would You Do?

In case of a burn or scald what would you do to relieve the pain? Such injuries are liable to occur in any family and everyone should be prepared for them. Chamberlain's Salve applied on a soft cloth will relieve the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a very severe one, will cause the parts to heal without leaving a scar. How to Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can when you occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Mary A. Mee.

LUMBER BARGAIN.

We have for sale 150,000 feet of 4 and 6 inch old-fashioned bevel siding at from $13.00 to $22.00 per thousand feet, surface measure, at our mill.

Extra for delivering the same f. o. b. cars in any quantity at the following points: Woodville 75c; Gold Hill $1.00; Central Point $1.25; Medford $1.40; Ashland $1.70 per M.

The cheaper grades are plenty good enough for ordinary buildings. This style of siding makes buildings look nicer and turns wind and water better than rustic.

Colds and Croup in Children.

"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. H. Serig, No. 41 Fifth St., Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough, but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup." This remedy is for sale by Mary A. Mee.

Prize Essay Contest.

The Oregon Society of the Sons of the American Revolution offers prizes to the pupils of the public schools of the state of Oregon for essays on subjects connected with our war for independence.

Prizes of $20 and $10 will be awarded for the first and second best essays written by high school pupils on either one of the following subjects:

"Foreign Aid in the Revolutionary War."

"Washington's Greatness—In What Did it Consist?"

Prizes of $20, $10, and three of $5 each will be awarded for the first, second, third, fourth and fifth best essays, respectively, written by grade pupils on any one of the following subjects:

"The Causes of the Revolutionary War."

"The Battle of Saratoga."

"The Navy in the Revolutionary War."

"The Battle of Bunker Hill."

The essays are limited to 3000 words each, must be written in the student's own handwriting, on one side only of the paper, and accompanied by a certificate from the writer's teacher stating that the writer is a pupil in designated class and that the teacher believes the essay to be the pupil's own, unaided work.

The essays must be signed by the writer, giving also his or her postoffice address. They should be forwarded to B. A. Thaxter, chairman of committee, 443 Eleventh street, Portland, Or., and should reach their destination not later than January 31, 1909.

In awarding these prizes the committee will be governed by considerations of originality, accuracy of statement, manner of treatment, orthography, syntax and punctuation, neatness and legibility.

These prizes are offered to encourage love of our country and the study of its history.

Any additional information which may be desired will be cheerfully furnished on application to the chairman of the committee.

Now is the Time to visit
California

When summer has passed in these northern states, the sun is only mild under the bright blue skies of Southern California. This is one of nature's happy provisions—eternal summer for those who cannot endure a more severe climate.

California has been called the "Mecca of the winter tourist." Its hotels and stopping places are as varied as those of all well regulated cities. Visitors can always find suitable accommodations, congenial companions, and varied, pleasing recreations.

Southern Pacific

Fighting Forest Fires.

The forest service bureau at Washington was prompt in disseminating reports of experts regarding the fires which broke out in the Minnesota national forest. Although this forest is well equipped for protection and has generally escaped when fires were epidemic in the forests of that region, the officials were anxious over the outbreak, because the conditions were favorable for a spread of the flames. Owing to the extreme dry weather even the soil itself took fire. As for the damage to the national forest itself, it is explained by the supervisor that this was confined to the very young growth and that the mature growth, reserved to reseed the land, was not destroyed. Branches and treetops which accumulated in lumbering had been burned, so that there remained no fuel to feed the flames and make a destructive fire.

It is the opinion of the forest officials that this year's experience has unusual value as an object lesson. The soil, especially in time of drought, should be protected, and to do this woodmen and forest guards must be vigilant to prevent the spread of fire, even though valued timber is not threatened. In general the lesson of the year is that after a prolonged drought the woods are very inflammable and fires are sure to break out. They must be put out quickly whenever they start, and this can only be accomplished through the co-operation of the local population with the forest officers. Even where valuable timber or human settlements are not threatened at the outset the only safeguard against the spread of the flames until beyond control and whole counties are given up to their ravage is ceaseless vigilance on the part of the whole community.

Many of the forest fires are of needless origin. The causes are usually campfires left ablaze by outing and hunting parties, brush burning to cut over places and sparks from passing locomotives. Systems of fire patrol more effective than any yet established, except perhaps by the national government, are recommended for all forested regions. Laws with penalties are in force in some states, but the best preventive of all will be a public spirit, ready at the signal, and the education which comes of organized effort under the leadership of experts at fire fighting in the woods.

Pagentry and Patriotism.

Nathaniel Hawthorne once suggested a sort of panorama to illustrate the progress of the historic town of Salem from the time when its main street was an Indian path through the forest. The show was to serve the purpose of instruction and arouse in modern minds appreciation of and reverence for the sterling qualities of the ancestors of the people of New England.

The idea, which was only crudely outlined by Hawthorne, is fully developed in the historic pagentry of today, which is experiencing something of a revival in the old world and has been adopted this season at Quebec and Philadelphia. The pagentry is a combination of moving picture and living picture. It is a bold appeal to the eye and mind and, like the cartoon of the clever artist, enables the spectator to take in at a glance a story full of meaning and one that lingers. A pagentry which casts a glamour over the past awakens an appreciation of the spirit of written history, and pages that were dull before deliver a message that the multitude can understand.

The Fire in the Paris Central.

The recent fire in the Paris postoffice tied up trade for a time, because it destroyed telephone and telegraph communications between the French capital and the outside world. The entire service for the city was centered in one building, and the machinery for operating it was seriously crippled, and there was no duplicate plant to fall back upon.

Of course the telephone and telegraph, like nearly all public utilities in France, are monopolized by the government. There can be no rival organization with competing lines. Here appears to be one case where exclusive government ownership has its drawbacks. Still, the French people do not patronize the telephone and telegraph as liberally as do the Americans, and it is possible that private companies would not have developed the Paris system to its present dimensions.

Count Tolstoy complains that the doctors have failed to tell man how to prolong life. Perhaps Tolstoy can give them a cue by telling how he came to be a vigorous worker at eighty.

This being leap year, the man who resolved to "be good" the entire 365 days in 1908 has one bad day coming to him.

The Kaiser talks peace with peace men, but if anybody talks war the mailed fist is "all there," just the same.

It is a little early yet to talk of road-houses, guideboards and other conveniences for aerial travelers.

Every fresh shakeup of that Standard Oil can throws new light upon our public affairs.
